How far would you go to stop a war?

It is 2075, and the people of Earth have been prevented from destroying their own planet. While protesters burn cars in the streets, the historian Ophelia Box is recruited into a covert peacekeeping unit, whose mission is to prevent a genocide. The difficulty is that the genocide is in the past.

She becomes a key player in a drama that spans the quantum wavefunction, from the beginning to the end of time, in this universe and beyond. Her companions are soldiers of the Po, the special forces of the human galaxy. Their clever and deceptive ship is called the Water Bear.
