Maha took his room key out of the pocket of his trousers, reflexively located the key hole and turned the key in the lock, but just then his eyes were drawn to a mark on his door. It was the etching of a small coffin roughly outlined by the impatient blade of an angry knife. He had been marked; it was the Black Eyes. Maha had expected it&#x2026;but that was about a year ago. The Black Eyes loved revenge when the target felt safe. So this was it, Maha thought. Then he saw another mark in ink; it was a sketch of the skull and the crossbones. This was the Night Hawk&#x2019;s messenger of death. Night Hawks!

Maha, now the target of two rival gangs, had no time to think; he had to fight. Soldiers of vain glory; they were in the trenches before they knew what the war was about.

Award winning singer and University Don for many years, Enyioma Buchi Atuonwu, tells the gripping story of Maha, a bright young man from a good home who gets enmeshed in the world of campus confraternities only to discover it was more than he bargained for.

Experience the suspense, the fear, the heartbreak, the love, the hate, the killings, the pointless bloody rivalry of gangs, not of &#x2018;hoodlums&#x2019;;, but of students trapped in underworld associations as they grapple with the realities of &#x2018;belonging&#x2019; and the implications of living in a world out of which there is only one exit.
