Scanlon is up against three Lalapaloosa cases—Lalapaloosa Circus cases that is.

The circus has come to him in a very big way and he has to track down everything from a hippo to a faith healer to satisfy his clients. Along the way he meets up with his best buddy Lacey Bergen as they take on the challenge of surviving a roller derby showdown, and learn to navigate the backstage doings of the big top. But when Trenton gets into a case he gets all the way in, and before you can say “Ladies and gentleman and children of all ages” he’s part of the action whether he wants to be or not. Forget lions and tigers and bears and try elephants, penguins and aerial artists…and clowns…never forget clowns.

He also gets to discuss theology with a rather confused but dedicated nun, and then, too there is the Latin issue—church Latin according to a cute, black, skateboarding altar boy.

301 pgs. For readers of book 1, this new Scanlon romp features some characters from book 1 and a slew of new faces. It has been edited carefully, and depends much less on dialect.
