1001255P

SAVANNAH ZIELINSKI

TTB US $2.95

TTB CHOIR, WITH PIANO

SAVANNAH ZIELINSKI

JACK FROST

Preview Only

ENDEAVOR
MUSIC PUBLISHING

About The Composer

Savannah Zielinski is a passionate middle school choral educator in Shawnee Mission, Kansas. A 2018 graduate of the University of Kansas, Savannah earned a Bachelor of Music Education with a choral emphasis. During her time at KU, she studied under Genaro Méndez, honing her skills as a classical soprano while beginning an active life in service to the profession by co-founding the KU chapter of the Kansas Choral Directors Association. Recognized for her contributions to choral music education, she was awarded the prestigious KCDA Prelude Award in 2023. Savannah actively contributes to the choral community as the Design Chair of the KCDA Treble Honor Choir Committee. Beyond choral music, Savannah continues to perform as a jazz vocalist around the greater Kansas City area.

About The Piece

This piece presents Jack Frost not just as a whimsical winter sprite, but as a mischievous villain. The tone should be darkly ominous, yet performed with a light-hearted, theatrical flair. The choir can incorporate actions to enhance their performance. For example:

- During the "Brrrr" sound, performers could visibly shiver, hugging themselves and rubbing their arms as if feeling an icy chill creeping over them.
- When screaming "No!" and "Ah!" performers might employ wide-eyed expressions and quick, startled movements to enhance the comedic effect.

Text

Coldness creeps into the air,
there's something stirring, someone there.
The windows frost, the temperature drops,
a shadow moves and winter knocks.
Oh, could it be the son of snow,
the one who makes the cold wind blow?
A wicked chill you can't outrun,
the frozen spell has just begun.

Jack Frost, bitter winds blow,
Jack Frost, cold to the bone.

Those who cross his path will feel the wrath of winters icy fate.
The storm won't rest, the cold won't break,
his grasp is one you can't escape.
Oh, fear not though stay safe inside,
for it's the only place to hide.
Keep warm beneath the fires light,
or brave the cold and pay the price.

Jack Frost, bitter winds blow,
Jack Frost, cold to the bone.

This is not a little chill.
Yes, this is how the winter feels.
The Infamous, limitless, imminent, wickedness,
the one the only...

Jack Frost, bitter winds blow,
Jack Frost, cold to the bone.

This is not a fleeting cold.
Yes, this is how the frost unfolds.
The infamous, limitless, imminent, wickedness,
the one the only...

Jack Frost, bitter winds blow,
Jack Frost, icy and cold,
Jack Frost, cold to the bone.

Head my warning, here he comes Jack Frost!

-Savannah Zielinski

Preview Only

JACK FROST

*For TB (optional TTB) Choir, with Piano

Words and music by
Savannah Zielinski

Preview Only

Copyright 2025 by Endeavor Music Publishing - All Rights Reserved

Preview Only

Preview Only

Preview Only

Copyright protection. Thank you for supporting composers and publishers.

Preview Only

Copyright protection. Thank you for supporting composers and publishers.

Preview Only