PERFORMANCE NOTES

This 12/8 piece is a musical tribute to the late Sir Malcolm Arnold, one of the most notable English composers of our time. "Along An English Countryside" should work wonderfully to open your next concert! The opening features numerous soloists on the main theme. Make sure the technique is clearly worked out with all soloists so that the theme is presented clearly by each one. As in all pieces of a technical nature, care must be taken to not rush the tempo and it is also very important that all players know when they DO NOT have the melody throughout the piece so that the proper hierarchy of parts is achieved. The section of music at measure 41 should be played with the appropriate detached British style and players are encouraged to play every note with a staccato as "light as well as separated". At measure 77, make sure that the mallets and piano are clearly heard and by all means, please use a piano when performing the work! Horn players are encouraged to "let it fly!" on the rips at measure 83! Make sure your students listen to Sir Malcolm Arnold's "English Dances" (both sets) to understand the style that is appropriate for "Along an English Countryside". Enjoy! R.S.
