PROGRAM NOTES

Written with the technical considerations of beginning band students in mind, this energetic composition is the perfect piece to reinforce dotted-quarter/eighth-note rhythms as well as marcato and staccato articulations. Throughout the piece, a strong subdivision of the beat is required by all players to play with precision and to propel the piece forward.

NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

The introduction should be played in a marcato style and at a forte dynamic level. At measure 5, the A theme is introduced in the flute, oboe, and mallets while all others are playing accompaniment figures. Adhering to the dynamics here and throughout the work will help the ensemble achieve proper balance. In measure 12, the melody is passed to the trumpets.

Measure 21 signals a change in the accompaniment figures. Here both the closed hi-hat cymbals (Percussion 1) and woodblock (Percussion 2) should accent beats two and four to propel this passage forward. The A theme is restated at measure 25 in the alto saxophone, tenor saxophone, and horn, with the flute, oboe, and mallets taking over in measure 32. At Measure 41, the B theme is stated in the clarinet, alto saxophone, trombone, baritone, and bassoon, with oboe joining in measure 45. Following the indicated dynamics in this passage will lead to shaping of the phrases.

Measure 49 begins a four-measure percussion interlude that leads into a restatement of the B theme at measure 53 with trumpets stating the melody. In this passage, the Percussion 2 part is written on triangle. The “o” symbol means “open” or “let ring” while the “+” symbol means to play muted. If this is not possible, the passage can be played entirely opened. A brief Del Segno back to measure 5 recaps the first A theme statement followed by a short Coda. In the Coda, dynamics are paramount to creating an exciting ending.

A strong subdivision of the beat by all throughout the piece will contribute to ensemble precision as well as a high energy level.

I hope you and your students have fun studying and performing Exultation!
