Program Notes

Into Heaven's Hands was commissioned by the Savannah River Winds (Augusta, Georgia) in memory of long-time flue player Terry Jenkins. Opening with a lush flute soli the piece explodes with power, emotion and jubilation in celebration of a beautiful life. The powerful opening gives way to a lyrical and whimsical faster section. A slower, lyrical middle section complements the entire piece with a balance of pure musical emotion.

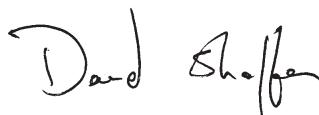

About the Savannah River Winds

Savannah River Winds was founded in 2001 by its conductor, Richard D. Bracco and co-conductor Lou Cefus. It is comprised of band directors, professional and amateur musicians, and students from area colleges and universities. The ensemble has performed for the GMEA In-Service Conventions and the South Carolina Music Educators Music Conventions. In 2010, Savannah River Winds was present the prestigious Sudler Silver Scroll Award for the outstanding adult band in North America. In 2008 the Savannah River Winds recorded a compact disc: The Music of David Shaffer.

Note to the Conductor

Opening with a simple but beautiful flute soli, m. 12 should be a bold and dramatic musical elevation into the main theme statement at m. 14. The tempo marking of Allegro Spirito does have some flexibility, especially toward a slightly faster tempo, being careful not feel rushed. The melody at m. 36 should be carefully balanced with the staccato woodwind rhythmic patterns and ensuing countermelodies, especially as the composition becomes fully engaged at m. 44. M. 76 offers a unique several-voice musical counterpoint. The upper woodwind descant should be light and whimsical, the main melody in the upper and lower brass should be bold and full, while the counter-melody in the horns should be played as a striking fanfare. Emphasis throughout the lyrical middle section beginning at m. 97 should be placed on phrase construction, dynamics, and development of musical tension. M. 128 begins the conclusion of the piece, and it is imperative to set and maintain the indicated tempo. As with the beginning fast tempo, a slightly faster tempo would be appropriate if desired. M. 158 should be played with power, giving strong musical direction up to the very last note of the composition.

I hope you enjoy preparing and performing Into Heaven's Hands.
