PROGRAM NOTE

The composer writes, "To say that I love Olympic music is a serious understatement! The combination of dazzling brass fanfares and dynamic percussion have always sounded like an echo of historical myths and legends to my ears, especially when combined with the colorful pageantry of the opening and closing ceremonies. For many years I've pondered writing my own celebratory piece, so I felt it was time to try and capture the essence of this exciting style. With that in mind, I went back to Greek mythology and tried to conjure up images of Zeus, Apollo, Poseidon, Aphrodite and the other Olympians dwelling high above the clouds on Mt. Olympus, amidst opulent marble temples and roaring waterfalls."

NOTES TO CONDUCTOR

While the brass and percussive elements in this piece are clearly the focus much of the time, it's important to also let the woodwind and string colors take over when scored to do so, especially in the middle processional section. The strings have many places when they're scored in multiple octaves for power. I've avoided divisi most of the time for the same reason. Similarly, the horns have moments where they play full four-note chords, but many of their bigger statements are written in two-part harmony for a fuller sound. If you're somehow incredibly fortunate to have more than four players, try adding an additional player on horn 1 and 2 or all four parts for that bigger film score sonority!

Aside from the obvious connection to the Olympic Games, I hope you find creative ways to program this piece for commencement ceremonies, patriotic events, or any other time a bold musical statement is needed!
