ABOUT ABUNDANT BLISS

When times are difficult, it can seem inconceivable that joy and happiness could ever prevail. It is hard to fathom that something so awful could lead to something so wonderful. Abundant Bliss was written to pay homage to a particular instance of tragedy that blossomed into a shower of blessings.

Four years ago my daughter Brittany had just returned from studying abroad in Venice, Italy. We were thrilled to have her back home, safe and sound. After months of worrying about her safety while she was overseas, we finally felt at ease.

This was to be short-lived, however. My wife and I received a phone call that no parent ever wants to receive. It was a call from an out of town hospital saying that Brittany had been involved in a serious car accident. Brittany had traveled to visit her boyfriend to celebrate his birthday. Returning from dinner, they were riding in the back seat of Seth's mother's car. The car was hit head on by a drunk driver who was speeding and had run a red light. A passenger in the other vehicle was killed instantly. Brittany, Seth and Seth's mom were very seriously injured. It would be a long road to recovery. It was the darkest of days for our family.

Fast forward three years and both Brittany and Seth have made full recoveries. Seth and Brittany are engaged to be married. Their love has endured and grown even stronger through adversity. Seth has graduated from law school and Brittany is working towards her doctorate in Clinical Mental Health Counseling. Both were influenced by professionals they encountered during the months that followed their accident. Both are inspired to help others as they begin their careers.

I am so proud of the adults they have become. I wish them a lifetime of Abundant Bliss and hope they will remember that even when life gets tough it may lead to the happiest of times. To quote a favorite song, "Tension is to be loved when it is like a passing note to a beautiful, beautiful chord."

I hope that you and your students enjoy performing "Abundant Bliss," and I thank you for including it in your band's library.
