Program Notes

Galops have always held a special place in my heart, whether they be of the circus or symphonic variety. A great galop should convey humor, excitement, and fun; my hope is that this work, The Boom-Boom Galop, succeeds at this requirement.

The Boom-Boom Galop is intended to be a somewhat humorous work, with many loud interjections from the bass drum and timpani (hence the title). Anytime the bass drum is featured, it should be played very dryly (choked) and with a lot of impact. Think Haydn's Surprise Symphony meets Bozo the Clown and you're somewhere in the right ballpark.

As with any such work, dynamic contrast (bass drum notwithstanding) and light articulation will be key to conveying the fun and surprise of the piece. Tempo is also key, as the title suggests (and demands) that the work be played as a "galop," not a "trot." By all means, practice slowly at first to achieve the correct technical facility; however, a performance at a slower speed will rob the piece of its character and intent.

While teaching this work, I would draw your students' attention to some of the great galops, can-cans, and dances of the repertoire for reference, ex. Galop (Shostakovich), Pas redoublé (Saint-Saëns); additionally, any of the numerous dances by Tchaikovsky would be perfect examples for your students. The work is in ternary form (ABA) with miniature ternary forms within (ABA – CDC - A - Finale overall)

This work was commissioned by the St. Joseph Middle School Band of St. Joseph, Illinois, and their director, Jeremy Dassow.
