TO THE DIRECTOR

Combining both samba and hard swing, functional and modal changes, and lots of creative writing, it produces a chart that's sure to bring the house down! Listening to the recording will give you a great idea of what it can sound like.

The tune works best at a tempo of 200-220 bpm. It's important that the drummer and bassist capture the drive and energy needed to make your performance dynamic. The chart starts high energy with a pedal point in the low register and the trombones capturing a chromatic progression over the top. The dynamic is forceful right from the beginning. At measure 17, it should relax a little, but don't allow the stop time to drag.

Exaggerate the dynamics in this chart, therefore be sure to drop the volume way down at measure 34. At measure 50, the drums should swing hard, but not too loud. Save the volume build up for the downbeat of measure 67 and then really drop the decrescendo down to nothing. The introduction comes back next and then modulates into measure 89, be sure everyone bumps it up a notch, including the drums.

Swing hard again at measure 97 with the big send off into the solos and do not let the energy drop as the alto sax solo beginning at measure 105. Build with backgrounds (swing feel) behind the alto sax and then drop down a little at measure 129 for the trumpet solo, building again at measure 153 and then heading back into the full band.

Measure 168 starts some mad contrapuntal lines. Drums should come down in volume, but not in energy. Be sure the hi-hat sizzles here as you keep the samba time beneath the instruments. The melody lines are divided by sections and each section is doubled by one of the rhythm section instruments. Be sure they are heard enough to add the desired colors to the melodies. It all comes together at measure 198. Really drop the volume and quickly bring it back up on the triplets. At measures 199-202, push the volume and embrace the dissonance!!

Measure 203 is the shout section and should do just that. It's crucial the saxophones play up to the brass here and at measure 212. Take a breath as everything finally relaxes at measure 219, starting with just the rhythm section and then adding the horns. It will naturally get louder as more instruments come in, but this is not a long crescendo to a big note at the end. From measure 213 on, the chart is in a diminuendo vibe, with instruments getting softer and eventually dropping out until all that is left is the trombones and the bari sax. 4th Trombone and bari saxophone split the bass line in this ending. It is vital that their volumes match as they switch back and forth.

There is no ritard at the end, so please be sure the last 9 measures of the chart, after the drums drop out, do not slow down. The ending will be most effective if performers and conductor will freeze their physical position after the last measure, about 5 seconds should do it.

SoloMate recordings are available at kendormusic.com for new Kendor and Doug Beach releases. This innovative resource lets students practice their solos by downloading professionally-recorded rhythm section accompaniment tracks. A full recording of this chart can be downloaded at www.kendormusic.com.

Kris Berg has written big band charts for professional and school groups for over 20 years. As a bassist, Kris frequently performs at jazz festivals and has appeared or recorded with artists such as Wayne Bergeron, Phil Woods, John Pizzarelli, Kurt Elling, Randy Brecker, Peter Erskine, and many others. Kris Berg and the Metroplexity Big Band have released two critically acclaimed CD's, Time Management and This Time/Last Year, and have garnered 8 Global Music Awards.
