Dark Beginnings

By Randall D. Standridge, Grade 1

About Mechanical Monsters

I think that people sometimes forget that I used to be a teacher.

For those not in the know, I was a band director for 12 years in Harrisburg, Arkansas. During that time, I taught 5th-grade general music, 6th-grade beginning band, 7-8 Middle School Band, and High School Band every single day (it was a small district). Because of this, I had a wonderful opportunity to facilitate and witness the growth of my students from their earliest experiences with music until they graduated. I strongly feel this provided me with a great amount of insight into how young musicians develop and the type of music they like. But I digress.

Occasionally, I would have my students (even my older players) do a "review marathon" in which we would play back through old lines of our beginning band books. Whenever I would call up Hot Cross Buns, Mary Had a Little Lamb, etc., there would be groans, and they would say the songs were "not cool." This always broke my heart a little bit because I would remember the first days we would play these songs and the looks of excitement and feeling of accomplishment plastered on their faces. Sunrise, sunset, and all that.

So, I asked myself, how do we make these songs "cool" again?

Dark Beginnings is a minor-mode mash-up of several beginning band tunes: Hot Cross Buns, Mary Had a Little Lamb, Twinkle Twinkle Little Star, and Baa Baa Black Sheep. They have been converted into minor-mode and set against driving rhythms, bombastic percussion, and textured with some easy polyphony. My hope is that the combination of new sounds with familiar tunes will re-ignite some of the enthusiasm our young musicians had for these well-worn classics.

I hope you and your students enjoy revisiting these songs, just on the darker side of the looking glass!

From one teacher to another.

Peace, Love, and Music.

Educational goals of the work:

- Understanding of minor-mode (what scale degrees are changed from major?)
- Tone production and proper note length
- Articulations: Staccato, Tenuto, Accents
- Polyphony (one melody layered on top of another)

For melody sheets, please check out our Handy Dandy Randy Standy Bandy Yay-Tudes vol 5: Dark Beginnings found at www.randallstandridge.com. You can find them on the product page for Dark Beginnings.

Rehearsal suggestions

- The clarinets/alto saxes may be assigned the regular part OR the optional French Horn double (or you may split your section as needed).
- The snare and mallet parts have been made available in "A" (Advanced) and "B" (Easier) versions. Please use whichever is appropriate for your players' abilities and developmental level.
- The vocal effects for the wind players should be powerful, low-pitched, and guttural. The "Huh!" should be staccato and accented, and the "Haaaaaah!" should be longer and have a natural crescendo to the end. Choreography is encouraged.
