Performance Notes

Steel Driving Man was composed in 2020 as part of a series of annual premieres for the University of Mobile High School Honor Band. Part of a multi-work series for wind band called “The American Legends,” this piece is based on the legend of John Henry. Despite being considered folklore, the story of John Henry appears to be based on a true story of a powerful steel-driving man who was part of an 1800s railroad tunneling crew. According to the legend, he was a former slave whose prowess was tested in a contest with a new steam powered machine, a contest that lasted up to 24 hours. John Henry won the contest, but died from the exertion. Various locations in West Virginia, Virginia and Alabama have been suggested as the historical site of the contest.

Musically, John Henry’s name is a three-note motif played by the entire ensemble to begin the work, continuing as a recurring motif throughout. Bring that out whenever it occurs. There are a number of dramatic and sudden tempo and character changes throughout the introduction which need to be handled carefully. Beginning at m. 20, the band sings! This tune follows the character of a railroad work crew song. Enthusiasm is more important than vocal quality here. Measure 61 is where the contest between John Henry and the steel-driving machine begins. The tempo needs to be absolutely steady until directed to change with dramatic dynamics. Allow the layered percussion parts to drive the piece from here to its dramatic conclusion in m. 119. The piece returns to the work crew song and concludes simply, proclaiming both John Henry’s victory and sacrifice.

About the Composer

Steve Dunn is Associate Professor of Music, Music Department Chair and Director of Instrumental Studies at the University of Mobile, where he directs the Symphonic Winds and other smaller instrumental ensembles. He also currently teaches Music Theory, Instrumental Conducting, Arranging and Orchestration. He has worn numerous musical hats in his professional life: Conductor, teacher, performer, composer/arranger/orchestrator and author – primarily in the educational and church music worlds. Prior to beginning his tenure at UM in 2012, Steve served as a director of orchestras, bands and other instrumental and vocal groups at churches in New Mexico, Texas and Alabama. He is a regular guest conductor, clinician and/or speaker for schools, churches, universities and various conferences at the local, state and national level. He has music degrees from Jacksonville State University (BA in Music, brass performance) and the University of New Mexico (MM, composition).

As a composer/arranger/orchestrator, Steve Dunn has approximately 300 works in the catalogs of numerous publishing houses. These include works for concert band, orchestra, choir and other mixed ensembles, yet represent a fraction of his more than 1,000 musical creations. He has also written for recordings, orchestrations for touring artists, radio and television commercials, short films and other media.
