About the Composition

Osmosis was commissioned by the Otto Shortell Middle School 7/8 Concert Band in Oneida, New York under the direction of Nicholas Anderalli, Jr. This was a unique collaboration in which I composed the music based on the ensemble's strengths, and then the students came up with the title. They choose Osmosis because the initials of the school (OSMS) were embedded in the word. It goes to show you that titles can come from anywhere.

The music is very theatrical and has its roots in some of the great monster movies of old. Often in these movies, a simple three- or four-note theme is employed to paint the picture. I employed this technique here to also challenge myself to come up with creative material without using a lot of notes. Stravinsky was a master of creating amazing music with a relatively small amount of notes. Some of his techniques are on display in this composition, as he is one of my compositional heroes.

Be sure to bring out the contrasting rhythmic eighth notes with the elongated melodic idea. Dynamics are also integral in creating the drama and musical intent. The section at m. 53 gives a brief respite from the intense rhythmic energy, so cherish the lyrical quality of it. Throughout the piece, each section in the ensemble gets the melody, so make sure you match the intensity across the different sections. Take some time at the very end to bring out the final statement of the melody.
