Performance Notes

The tritone was once considered an ugly sounding interval. So ugly, in fact, that it was referred to as diablos in musica. Consequently, many composers for centuries have used the sound of the tritone to musically depict something sinister. A famous example is in the introduction to Saint-Saëns' Danse Macabre where the notes A and E♭ are bowed simultaneously on a retuned violin.

My humble contribution to this category of compositions is Doctor Tritonicus. He is a character of my own imagination inspired by the genre of villainous comic book characters whose names are frequently preceded by the title of doctor. The following is a formal description of the music interspersed with comic book elements which students may find entertaining:

Doctor Tritonicus makes his formidable entrance in mm. 1-19 as tritones are heard in fortissimo bass instruments. At m. 20 the tritone persists quietly, yet ponderously, in the bass line as the clarinets state a marcato theme in C minor. A crescendo at m. 39 leads to a forceful repeat of the previous material; this time with the chimes ("Hell's Bells") reinforcing the bass line. A brass fanfare at m. 56 features tritone progressions as the woodwinds and xylophone answer with tritone figurations of their own. A new countermelody of tritone-laden intervals at m. 78 ornaments the first C-minor tune heard earlier. At m. 99 Doctor Tritonicus opines that he is not entirely sinister. Here the saxes, woodwinds, and horns perform a lyrical melody over a bass line of tritones. The first portion of the lyrical section (mm 99-118) harmonically spans a tritone chord progression from C minor to F♯ minor. The second section (mm. 118-138) inverts the tritone progression from F♯ minor to the C minor recapitulation at m. 138. Once again Doctor Tritonicus displays his sinister character in a faster and more agitated tempo with "Hell's Bells" reinforcing the tritone bass line. The Coda at m. 196 desperately hammers the sinister tritone sound until the a comic book hero descends from the sky (mm. 208-209) to resolve the tritone with the sound of a victorious C-major chord.

About the Composer

Joseph Compello was an instrumental music teacher in Maryland Public Schools for over 30 years. During that time he wrote numerous original compositions to meet the needs of his students. In 1992 these classroom-tested compositions came to the attention of Andrew Balent who was Editorial Supervisor of Carl Fischer's Educational Music division. The immediate success of Compello's music soon found him making yearly contributions to the Carl Fischer Performance Series. Now retired from teaching with over 200 published works to his credit, Compello, with degrees in music education from the Peabody Conservatory and Towson University, continues to draw on his extensive background to compose new music exclusively for Carl Fischer. His music for young players is now a model for college curricular study by music education students. A master's thesis by Abel Borg entitled "The resourceful and engaging compositions for beginning band by Joseph Compello" is available at York University, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Compello's journey from school teacher to internationally published composer was recently chronicled in the Baltimore Sun. His ASCAP award winning music is now performed worldwide in venues ranging from school concerts to Carnegie Hall. 2024 will mark Compello's 30th year as a contributor to Carl Fischer's catalog of music for young bands.

The Carl Fischer Performance Series for Band has five performance levels to provide you with a highly focused repertoire for your band. Each level has been carefully designed and graded, within specific guidelines, so that each piece in a level will work with your band when it achieves that level. Each level is also color coded for ease in finding the series that will be appropriate for your band, as it develops.

Within each grade level, you will find selections in a variety of styles and genres designed to meet all of your performance and teaching needs. The Carl Fischer composers and arrangers are some of the most respected writers in the business. Their music is dynamic, fresh and eminently worthy of your attention.
