Citi Foundation

Does your organization work with young adults 16-24 years old? Are you looking for supplemental resources to help get them on track for college and career? We invite you to use our free ServiceWorks Online curriculum!

ServiceWorks Online is a component of the groundbreaking national ServiceWorks program that uses volunteer service as a strategy to help underserved youth and young adults develop the skills they need to prepare for college and careers.

Our curriculum assists young people with project management skills, networking, and personal development by providing practical examples of community outreach, interpersonal skills, and career readiness.

We believe it is a great complement to existing programming and we think you will too. Contact us to receive your free access at serviceworksonline@pointsoflight.org.

Self-paced. Engaging. Personalized. Actionable. Free.

Choose Your Own Service Adventure

Courses can be taken individually, or all 3 are embedded as part of a Choose Your Own Service Adventure (CYOSA) option.

This gamified version allows learners to navigate through a comic book-style storyline, selecting a character and thinking through multiple decision points along the way.

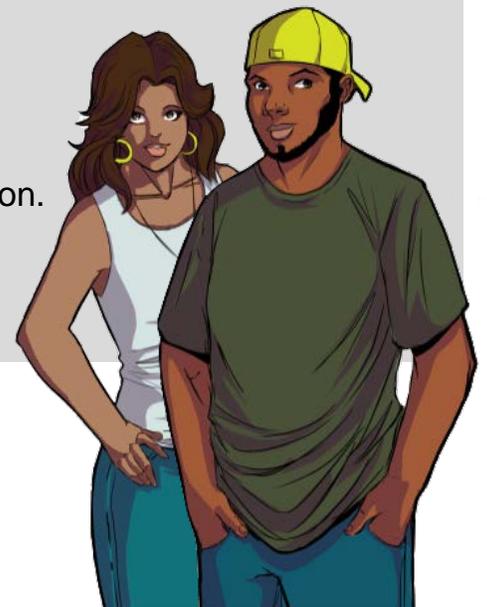

Will your character successfully lead a service project? How will you guide them through different scenarios? Find out by taking the Choose Your Own Service Adventure course!

"The greatest lesson I learned from this experience is learning how even the smallest things anybody does to help their community can make the biggest difference. If someone wants to make a difference in their community or make a change it has to start with them." – W.A., 15

"[I learned] there is a lot of work and planning that goes into a community project, and those skills can be applied to other aspects of my life." – K.C., 16
