

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

ADAM D. DRUMMOND, EdD, has served as a consultant, manager, director, and keynoter for the International Center for Leadership in Education (ICLE). Adam's servant leadership and passion for making a change in the world have offered him the opportunity to work with students, teachers, and leaders across the country and internationally. Adam's mantra engages teachers and leaders and supports them in building their own leadership capacity and skill set to ensure that all students receive the very best education possible every single day. Today's children are tomorrow's leaders, and Adam believes that we must create the conditions that enable students and adults to be lifelong learners.

Adam has served as an elementary teacher, middle school teacher, K-12 technology integration specialist, elementary and secondary professional development coordinator, assistant principal, and principal. In addition, he has served as an adjunct professor of education and educational leadership at various universities in Indiana. Adam holds a doctorate in educational administration, a specialist degree in education with a K-12 school superintendent license, a master's degree in student affairs administration in higher education, and a bachelor's degree in education with a concentration in mathematics.

Adam has served on the board of directors of the National Association of Elementary School Principals and was a regional winner and finalist for Indiana Principal of the Year. Adam was also recognized for his school leadership by Fort Wayne (Indiana) Business Weekly as a 40 Under 40 award recipient and was honored by Ball State University Teachers College as an outstanding alumnus. In February 2016,

Adam was recognized with a House resolution by the Indiana General Assembly for his leadership as a school principal. Adam and his wife, Tiffaney, a high school administrator, reside in Indiana with their sons Chase and Carson and daughter, Carter.
