OUR STORY

EST. ATLANTIC CITY 1927

In 1927, Joseph Tarsitano, originally from Philadelphia, opened the Baltimore Grille at 604 Atlantic Ave. featuring pasta and excellent fried seafood (from Baltimore). Local legend says that one day Joseph's son, Tony, was summoned to the kitchen to help his father. He began serving what his father referred to as a Tomato pie, the first ever made in Atlantic City. This pie has gone on to become our now world-famous, 12 inch pizza.

When Joseph died, his brother John owned and operated the Grille. Tony faithfully served in WWII and following his discharge, he and his two younger brothers, Dominic & Lou, purchased the restaurant from his uncle & renamed it Tony's Baltimore Grill.

In December of 1964, Tony and William "Ricky" Rich bought Paddy McGahns Cafe and Musical Bar and converted it to the present day Tony's Baltimore Grill.

They opened April 1st, 1965 with lines stretching down the Avenue.

What makes the Baltimore Grill really special are your memories. Many children have been raised here. Whether it was picking up pizza and cigarettes for your grandparents, or the place to be after prom or a sporting event. "I've been coming to Tony's since..." is overheard every single night in our dining room & bar.

The Baltimore Grill is the soul of Atlantic City. As unique as our boardwalk, the very first in America. While the Tarsitano and Rich families are no longer involved, their simple traditions are very much alive and well today. The current owners, a local family, proudly say that they do not own the grill. They are just taking care of it for your grandkids to enjoy. The real owners are our customers, who would never let a World War, a superstorm, or a pandemic take away their beloved Baltimore Grill.
