

TRAVELING TO COLORADO?

Don't forget these before you head to your adventure

Red Rocks Concert?

Red Rocks is unforgettable, but be prepared for the amphitheater elements. Wear close-toed shoes that can handle dirt and changing weather. Bring a full bottle of water to stay hydrated at altitude, and pack a blanket for when the stone seats turn cold after dark. A GreenDoor box sets you up with tailgating essentials for the scene in Lower South Lot 1, joints to share, and edibles to enjoy throughout the show.

Visiting Loved Ones?

Cannabis hits harder at a mile high, so begin with less than you normally would and give it time to settle in. Keep water close to stay comfortable. If you are visiting family, a little discretion goes a long way. With a GreenDoor box, you can choose from a variety of local products so you always have the right option whether you want to keep it low key indoors or share openly when the setting allows.

Ski Trip?

A ski day in Colorado is better when you are prepared. Wear sunscreen because the sun reflects off the snow. Keep lip balm in your pocket to protect against the cold and wind. Bring water for the lift lines and your GreenDoor box which includes the essentials: a lighter, green on-the-go and sealed snacks, so you are ready from the first chair to the last run.
