A sanctuary in Shoreditch

Located in Shoreditch, Long & Waterson is set in a quiet enclave in the heart of bustling Shoreditch.

Where it all started

WRITTEN BY

Glenn Waldron

Shoreditch resident Glenn Waldron is a respected international journalist and editor contributing to publications including The New York Times, W, Vogue, AnOther and *Wallpaper.

For over half a century, the site of Long & Waterson has reflected the dynamic, ever-changing story of Shoreditch. Originally built in 1958 to house a series of bespoke workshops, the buildings initially focused on traditional London crafts – from carpentry and furniture making to handmade leather goods. Throughout the following decades, the site has continued to progress and adapt. From tailors and textile makers to fashion designers, artists and photographers, successive generations of creatives have made the studios their own – drawn to Long Street's light-filled spaces and raw industrial detail.

Shoreditch guide

If the centre of London is moving east, it's largely due to the soaring popularity of Shoreditch and the rich culinary, lifestyle and retail offerings that have made it such a buzzy place to be by day and night.
