The place-names on this document are not indexed because they are not written in a place of birth or nationality field. We don't know whether they refer to a place of birth or a place of departure or arrival. So the field would be marked as blank or tabbed over, according to instructions in the field help.

If the column heading doesn't show on the image, then index the first locality or nationality written for the record.

The place of birth or nationality would be taken from this column. You would type Sweden for all passengers shown on this document.

Record on this blank United States citizens and citizens of insular possessions of the United States foreign port or a port of the insular possessions of the United States, and such citizens arriving at a port of continental United States, or a port of another insular possession.

This document is a special kind of passenger list for citizens of the United States.

Most passengers listed on this kind of document will be from the United States. However, occasionally you may see a passenger with a place of birth listed that is outside the United States.

Index place-names from the "If Native of the United States..." column only. Do not index information from the "If Naturalized..." column.

The image below is from a standard passenger list, not one that was specifically for US citizens.

The third record below indicates that a passport was issued in Washington DC, but it doesn't specify the issuing country or the nationality of the recipient.

Because no birthplace or nationality was recorded and only information about a passport was given, in this case the Place of Birth or Nationality field would be marked <Blank> for the third record.

Some documents do not have the words “Country of Birth” or “Nationality” in the column heading, but often a different column heading indicates the country of birth or nationality. In the type of document shown above, you would index the information in the column titled “The country to which they severally belong.” This column indicates nationality.
