SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a final guidance for industry entitled “Cytomegalovirus in Transplantation: Developing Drugs to Treat or Prevent Disease.” The purpose of this final guidance is to assist sponsors in the clinical development of drugs to treat or prevent CMV disease in patients who have undergone SOT or HSCT. Specifically, this guidance addresses FDA’s current thinking regarding the overall development program and clinical trial designs for the development of drugs and biological products to support an indication for treating or preventing CMV disease in post-transplant populations. This guidance does not address drug development for treating or preventing congenital CMV infection or CMV infection in patients other than those undergoing SOT or HSCT. This guidance finalizes the draft guidance of the same name issued on May 21, 2018 (83 FR 23463). Changes in this final guidance compared with the previous draft guidance include:

- Clarification of the use of CMV DNAemia as a validated surrogate endpoint for use in certain clinical trials of CMV treatment or prevention
- Clarification that nonclinical combination studies for drugs to be used in combination are generally not needed
- Inclusion of updated background information to reflect the current literature on preventing CMV in transplant recipients

This guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The guidance represents the current thinking of FDA on “Cytomegalovirus in Transplantation: Developing Drugs to Treat or Prevent Disease.” It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.
