Survey of Drug Product Manufacturing, Processing and Packing Facilities --21 CFR Parts 210 and 211

OMB Control Number 0910-NEW

FDA has the responsibility to regulate the safety, as well as the efficacy and quality, of drugs in the United States. Under the Food and Drug Administration Safety and Innovation Act (FDASIA) enacted in 2012, the term current good manufacturing practice (CGMP) includes the implementation of oversight and controls over the manufacturing, processing, and packing of drugs to ensure quality, including managing the risk of, and establishing the safety of, raw materials used in the manufacture of drugs. The safety and availability of drugs can be affected by raw material suppliers, the material supply chain, and the facility's controls over raw material quality. Risk management enables manufacturers to make proper choices and ensure the continued suitability of these materials and supply chains. The Agency needs to better understand how manufacturers, processors, and packers of drug products approach managing risks related to components, containers, and closures as well as the supply and distribution chains between the producers of raw materials and drug product manufacturers, processors, and packers. Such information will allow FDA to examine the potential economic impact of changes to regulations that govern the manufacturing, processing, and packing of drugs.

This is a one-time information collection, the primary purpose of which is to collect industry-wide data on how facilities that manufacture, process, and pack drug products for use in humans and/or animals ensure the quality of their operations, including their current risk management approaches and practices for ensuring the quality and suitability of the drug components, containers, and closures that they use. FDA intends to use this information to inform its economic analyses of potential updates to CGMPs for human and animal drug product manufacturing, processing, and packing facilities under 21 CFR Parts 210 and 211. Survey respondents will be contacted by email or, if necessary, by regular mail. Respondents will be able to take the survey online or, if requested, they can return a hard copy by mail. FDA estimates the maximum burden of this collection of information as follows:
