Other Ways to Watch The Cheltenham Festival Live

Live streams are a great way to watch the action unfold at Cheltenham but they're hardly the only way. If live streaming isn't to your tastes consider one of the following alternatives.

Watch on ITV

ITV will be providing live coverage of all four days of the Cheltenham Festival. So if you have a standard TV package and you live in the UK or Ireland you'll be able to watch all the action on your home TV or maybe at your favourite pub. The only catch here is that ITV will only be broadcasting 6 of the 7 races each day. That's because they have a contract with Racing TV which stipulates no one but RTV can broadcast all 7 daily races.

Watch on Racing TV

Racing TV is renowned for its blanket coverage of UK and Irish horse racing so of course they are going to have wall-to-wall coverage of Cheltenham. However, Racing TV cannot be accessed by simply signing up like many bookmaker live streams can, nor is the service part of a standard TV package like ITV.

That means you'll need to subscribe to Racing TV to watch their Cheltenham coverage and that's going to cost you around 25 per month. The good news is that once you subscribe you can watch the races on your TV, PC, tablet or smartphone. Plus when Cheltenham is over you can watch countless other horse races from more than 60 racetracks in the UK and Ireland throughout the rest of the year.

Cheltenham Festival Live Streaming FAQs

Cheltenham Festival live streaming of the Champion Hurdle and other races is a hot topic for discussion at this time of year. Fortunately, the average punter has plenty of options available to them so they never have to miss a moment of the action. To round out this guide we present some of the most commonly asked FAQs related to Cheltenham.

Which bookmaker provides the best Cheltenham Festival live streaming of the Gold Cup?

All of the bookmakers we listed at the beginning of this guide will provide first-class Gold Cup coverage, plus coverage of the 27 other Cheltenham races beginning on Day 1 and continuing right through Day 4 on March 17, 2023. Because each one uses top-of-the-line technology to deliver their live streams there is little to no difference in the quality of those streams. In most cases, the biggest factor affecting live stream quality will be the quality of the recipient's internet connection.

Will I have to pay to view a Cheltenham Festival live stream?

In most cases, all you will need to do is open an account with the bookmaker and make a token deposit into that account in order to access their Cheltenham Festival live streaming for the Stayers' Hurdle or any other race. Or you may need to have a stake in the race you want to watch. But when it comes to big events like Cheltenham the big bookmaking sites will sometimes waive the latter requirement.

Will I be able to watch live streams after the Cheltenham Festival ends?

If the only stipulation for viewing a bookmaker's live streams is that you maintain a positive balance and you are able to do that, then you'll be able to view all live streams from a variety of racetracks throughout the year. If their condition for viewing live streams is that you have a stake in the race you want to watch then you will have to satisfy that requirement if you want to view a particular live stream.
