HealthLynked CEO Dr Michael Dent joins Proactive's Natalie Stoberman to discuss the company's latest patent for "Secure Patient Access via Healthcare Service Provider Specific Wireless Access Point" technology.

Dent says the patented technology encompasses systems and methods for providing a healthcare service provider-specific wireless access point, or 'HUB', that facilitates secure communication between patients, providers, and third-party services.

When in range of the HUB, such as in a doctor's office waiting room, patient devices can connect to the healthcare service provider's wireless access point. The access point can then be configured to detect the presence of a patient device, obtain identifying information, and send the information to a server to facilitate a layer of digital healthcare.
