WagerWire, a first-of-its-kind platform that empowers bettors to buy and sell active sports bets announced today affiliate deals with nine operators including BetMGM, Caesars, SuperBook Sports, Unibet, Tipico, RSI's BetRivers & SugarHouse, and 888's SISportsbook, with more to be announced soon.

WagerWire onboards bettors to these partner sportsbooks through its original in-house content produced by its recently launched media network and soon to be launched mobile app. The company shares content on its social media channels and hosts it on the Community Page of its website, which is home to unique insights, viewpoints and written commentaries created by members of its rapidly growing community. The site also features proprietary tools like its "Bet Value Calculator," which instantly calculates the fair market value of any bet.

"WagerWire scratches an itch that has existed in the industry for a long time. There's a lot to love about this app." said Liam Roth of Caesars. "Between connecting to your favorite sportsbook, tracking your bet's real time value, and being part of a community, WagerWire shows there's never been a better time to be a sports bettor. At Caesars we're really excited to partner with WagerWire in hopes we can both bring in and continue to re-engage customers in this exciting new way."

In adherence to its strict commitment to regulatory compliance, WagerWire applied and was approved for vendor affiliate licenses in a number of gaming states prior to beginning services. WagerWire is now authorized to operate in 16 states, D.C., Ontario and Puerto Rico.

In recognition of its rapid accomplishments in the industry, WagerWire was shortlisted among industry giants for SBC North America's Sports Affiliate of the Year Award 2023. A hand-picked judging panel from the top of the industry will determine this year's winners on May 11 at the New York Hilton Midtown.

"This is an exciting milestone and represents the achievement of the next step in the roadmap of our media network" said Zach Doctor, co-founder and CEO of WagerWire. "We've built WagerWire through a 'community first' approach focused on education, responsibility and fun. The addition of these iconic brands to our partnership group sets a strong foundation for the next phase of our growth and the rollout of our betting marketplace."

WagerWire first came onto the scene when it announced its seed round in July 2022 from the likes of Miami Marlins co-owner Roger Ehrenberg (IA Sports Ventures and Eberg Capital), Betr & Simplebet founder Joey Levy, NBA All-Star Richard Jefferson, among others. Since then, they have launched a community-driven content network receiving over 10 Million impressions a month, announced partnerships with Sparket, Wagr and released multiple data findings from a survey of bettors and non-bettors that discovered that education was the biggest barrier for would-be sports bettors.
