About QL+
The mission of QL+ is to foster and generate innovations that aid and improve the quality of life of those who have served our country. Founded in 2008 with a program at the California Polytechnic State University (CalPoly) in San Luis Obispo, CA, QL+ has now expanded to thirteen universities across the country. The program matches injured veterans with students to find solutions to improve their quality of life. The projects are accomplished as senior design projects in engineering programs, and also by Student Clubs at some universities. Some examples of the completed projects can be found on the QL+ website www.qlplus.org.

How you can make an impact
QL+ is not a membership organization and, therefore, depends on grants, donations and sponsorships to carry out its mission through programs across the country. Donations can be made by credit card directly on the QL+ website through a secure platform or by check accompanied by downloadable forms that can be sent to QL+. Donations can be one-time donations, a subscription for monthly donations, or a pledge for annual donations. To donate, please visit our website. www.qlplus.org

QL+ prefers unrestricted donations. However, donations may be designated for one or more of the universities that are part of the QL+ program, so that the funds will be used for projects and equipment at those locations. The current locations are:
- California: California Polytechnic State University (CalPoly) and San Diego State University
- Colorado: Colorado School of Mines and University of Colorado Boulder
- Texas: University of Texas at San Antonio
- Ohio: Ohio University, University of Dayton, University of Cincinnati, and Xavier University
- Virginia: Virginia Tech, George Mason, and Virginia Commonwealth University
- Connecticut: University of Connecticut

Donor Recognition
To the extent that donors wish to be recognized, QL+ will list the names of all donors in its annual report, and major donors (those that have donated $1,000 or more) will receive permanent recognition on a Major Donor Webpage.

For more information about becoming a QL+ Donor, contact QL+ Executive Director, Bob Wolff at bob.wolff@qlplus.org or 703-357-1985
