Often used as the first block for young girls learning to make quilts, this is an aptly named block. Made up of nine small squares, the Nine Patch pattern often consists of five dark squares alternated with four light squares.

Although simple to make, the beauty of this block lies in the color arrangements.