CREATIVITY FLOWS HERE!
240+ Working Artists • 23 Buildings
RIVERARTSDISTRICT.COM
Welcome to the River Arts District (RAD), one of the largest arts districts in the United States. In working studios, galleries and classrooms spread among 23 historic buildings, over 240 artists create and share their art with visitors daily all year long. For details on artists’ individual hours and locations, visit our website or use this Studio Guide to aid your exploration and enjoy a day—or more—exploring the diverse art and artists in the RAD. As our district grows in amenities and population, we remain independent artists promoting the RAD through our artist association, RADA. Our major transportation project to improve sidewalks, greenways and roadways will be completed this fall, with overwhelming cooperation and ongoing communication with the City of Asheville. We hope you enjoy your time in our unique and exciting River Arts District.

Industry to Artistry
In the 1880s the Norfolk Southern Railroad began service alongside the ancient French Broad River in Asheville. It brought industries and a population boom, until the historic 1916 flood devastated the railroad and the businesses it served.

When downtown Asheville began an urban renaissance in the 1970s, artists looking for affordable space began to move into buildings along the river. Highwater Clays was first, moving to Lyman Street in the mid-80s. In 1987 Porge and Peter Buck opened Warehouse Studios, calling the Warehouse artists “the river avant-garde.”

RAD Pioneers
1987: Steve Keull bought the 1910 Armour Star Meat Packing Plant, 375 Depot Street
1989: Pattiy Torno bought the 1916 Standard Oil Co, now Curve Studios & Garden
1990: Helaine Green and her sister acquired the 1902 Hans-Rees Tannery, now Riverview Station
1995: Brian + Gail McCarthy bought Clingman Ave. Complex, now Odyssey Center, Jonas Gerard Fine Art and Ultra Coffeebar
2002: Sculptor John Payne bought the 1916 Farmer’s Federated Ag Co-op, now the Wedge
2003: Ceramic artists Marty and Eileen Black bought the 1887 Cotton Mill building

Historic Buildings
- Riverside Studios: general store built in 1891
- The Hatchery: chicken hatchery built in 1955
- Eco-Depot Marketplace: Part of the Glen Rock Hotel, built in the late 1800s
- Pink Dog Creative: 1920s textile warehouse
- 362 Depot Street: 1900s general store and meat processing plant
- NorthLight Studios: tannery built in 1904
- The Lift Studios: National Biscuit Company built in 1907
- Warehouse Studios: Williams Feed Company built in 1901

A Vibrant Community on a Treasured River
Since its beginnings the River Arts District has grown rapidly. Historic buildings are still being purchased by artists for studios and co-ops, and today scores of studios are open daily and hold special events throughout the year. The first Studio Stroll was held in 1994 with a few artists; today 240+ artists’ studios open during the second weekend in November, and studios are open every day, year round.

Currently the RAD is undergoing improvements to create a vibrant, long-term urban plan recognizing the French Broad River and its arts district as one of Asheville’s great treasures.

Information compiled by Wendy Whitson. Visit riverartsdistrict.com/history for more.
Please come in.
We’d love to share our inspiration with you.
