

Renovaré BOOK CLUB

There You Are

Carolyn Arends

I was hoping you would write to me a message in the stars
As if the stars themselves were not enough
And I awaited your arrival here from some place very far
As if I couldn't feel your constant touch
Why did I think that you'd send thunder
To wake me from my slumber
When any time I open up my eyes

Chorus:

There you are – loving me like crazy
There you are – though I am unaware
There you are – when my heart is doubting
Even there you are

I was waiting for a miracle and hoping for a sign
As if each breath I take is not a gift
And I was acting just as if the way you gave your life for mine
Didn't have my foolish heart convinced
What did I think could cause this hunger
Did I ever stop to wonder
Why every time I open my eyes

Repeat chorus

I was hoping you would write to me a message in the stars
As if the stars themselves were not enough

© running arends music/New Spring Publishing, a division of Brentwood Music Publishing, Inc. (ASCAP)

Studio version available on Feel Free, live acoustic version available on Seize the Day and Other Stories