Announcing...

NIST International School in Bangkok seeks a new Head of School for July 2020. This is an important and professionally rewarding opportunity where your leadership expertise, strategic perspectives, and commitment to the future of teaching and learning will find a receptive and welcoming community.

Founded in 1992 as a not-for-profit foundation school, NIST was conceived as an inclusive learning community dedicated to a truly international education. Still true to this vision today, the School embraces diversity, as well as the strength and richness of over 1,600 students representing more than 60 nationalities.

NIST was the first school in Thailand to become a full International Baccalaureate (IB) World School, offering all three IB programmes. The School is crystal clear in its educational intent: "NIST is focused on inquiry, exploration, reflection and—most significantly—the belief that learning is at the core of human experience".

The IB philosophy closely aligns to the shared vision of the school community." The School also makes it clear that, "...at our core we remain a community of dreamers, of learners who see the world with optimism and hope." Refreshing and motivating.

Deeply mission-driven, the School rigorously holds to its four values—integrity, caring, community and growth—to provide the bedrock foundation for decision-making and the art and craft of student learning. NIST intentionally sets lofty aspirations to discover individualized and authentic learning pathways and success for all students.

The next Head of School of NIST International School will benefit from an established culture of excellence, well-defined organizational strengths, a dynamic community, and a history of impactful leadership for student learning.

...at our core we remain a community of dreamers, of learners who see the world with optimism and hope.

Consistent with the vision and values of NIST, the next Head of School will provide leadership and direction for what is a fast paced, dynamic, results-driven and inclusive school. The successful NIST leader will bring leadership skills, dispositions, and success stories that demonstrate the following:

- An innovative, entrepreneurial spirit
- An excellent understanding of 21st century learning and a vision for the future
- An abundance of energy, initiative, vision, drive, and imagination
- A willingness to push the envelope in support of a progressive education model
- Well-honed collaboration skills to foster partnerships and teamwork
- Excellent interpersonal and listening skills and a genuine care and interest in others
- Strong cross-cultural competence and experience
- A willingness to develop relationships in the local and global communities to support the school's mission and programmes

We will be visiting the NIST International School in early August, and a full position statement will be available after that time.
