EITI Reports

Countries implementing the EITI Standard? publish EITI Reports that disclose the revenues and other information from extraction of the country's natural resources. Companies report payments to government (taxes, royalties, etc) and the government reports what it has received. These two sets of figures are compiled and reconciled by an independent administrator? and published in the EITI Report?, together with other information.

Together with the report, each country submits a set of summary data, which can be found here: eiti.org/summary-data

Disclaimer: The International Secretariat has extracted summary data from these reports. Users are advised to consult the original reports for detailed information. Where figures are not available in US dollars, the annual average exchange rate is used. Should you have any comments please contact the EITI Secretariat.
