Key Members of Government

The United Arab Emirates is a constitutional federation of seven emirates. Under the UAE system of government, the President of the Federation is elected by a body known as the Supreme Council of Rulers. The federal system of government includes: The Supreme Council, made up of the rulers of each emirate; the Council of Ministers (Cabinet); a parliamentary body in the form of the Federal National Council; and the Federal Supreme Court, which is representative of an independent judiciary.
