PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

I am a dedicated and detail-oriented computer science student who is open to relocating with a strong foundation in data structures and algorithms. Currently enrolled in a computer science program, I am eager to apply my coding skills in an object-oriented programming language, such as Java or C++, to real-world projects. I am highly motivated to learn and have a solid understanding of software development concepts, including the software development life cycle, unit testing, functional testing, and integration testing.
