CAREER SUMMARY

Current Miami University student majoring in Criminal Justice (Freshman year). My main future goal is to improve the global legal system and improve international relations. I plan to continuously train myself in the fields of international relations, law, diplomacy, and political science. I seek to acquire and improve all types of skills, including soft skills, research, data collection in all populations, and knowledge of the history and diversity of cultures. I am from a very diverse culture in South America, specifically from Peru, and the experience of different sources of culture catches my attention, so, as a foreigner in the United States, I look to improve my skills in English and get to know American culture through of different experiences and opportunities.

RELEVANT SKILLS

Bilingual

- I was born and raised in Peru: therefore. I am completely fluent in Spanish.

- I have been studying English since I was five years old, and I took one year of an Intensive English Program that gave me all the conversation skills I need daily, workforce, and university classes.

Teamwork

- During the last 3 years I have taken Coaching and Leadership courses that have given me all the necessary knowledge to know how to work as a team, listen, and validate everyone equally. I am a person who values teamwork more and I have a personal need to always help others and work together.

Leadership

- I have had close dealings with leadership since I was very little. I have always had a passion for leadership and the path of learning. Being a leader is one of the most important qualities in society, and I believe that it is the skill that can produce the best treatment between people in any context. I could say that I have greatly developed the skills that pertain to leadership, and I like taking the initiative.

Creativity

- I am an innovative person who believes that new ideas can help in multiple ways. I like to contribute to work and help others create a good space in any environment.
