Vision- and passion-driven Sports Manager and multidisciplinary professional with a unique blend of elite athletic experience, luxury brand operations, and global talent acquisition expertise. Currently recruiting for a leading AI company in the United States, I bring a sharp, intuitive understanding of people, performance, and potential—whether on the field, in the boardroom, or across international markets.

A former national figure skating champion turned dynamic coach and mentor, I have translated my competitive drive into the worlds of high fashion, international education, and data-informed team performance. At Dolce & Gabbana, I served as a bridge between corporate and retail operations, optimizing service flow and enhancing customer experiences through strategic data analysis and brand storytelling. My work is marked by excellence, creativity, and a deep commitment to growth—for myself and those I lead.

Fluent in Spanish and English, with working knowledge of Italian and Japanese, I thrive in cross-cultural environments and high-impact roles. Whether building world-class teams or creating compelling narratives, I am known for my emotional intelligence, bold initiative, and the ability to turn vision into action. Above all, I bring an energy that inspires, a professionalism that delivers, and a purpose that never fades.
