

A LEADING LATIN MEDIA AND CREATIVE STUDIO

CITY EDITOR

Remezcla.com seeks a Cities Editor to join our editorial team. This is a managerial role that will oversee and direct local editors and freelancers to produce engaging content that covers relevant local events, inspires readers to try new things, and creates a cultural buzz. The right candidates will be passionate about exploring emerging Latin culture (new parties, restaurants, venues, movies & more), have a wide range of local contacts, and understand the personalities of our different markets.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Set the content strategy and editorial calendar for our individual city sections
- Oversee an editorial process that ensures content is being produced on time and within budget.
- Recruit, manage and motivate local writers/event curators
- Network and build awareness with Latin culture scenes
- Edit and approve content for publication
- Oversee production of weekly newsletters

REQUIREMENTS

- Bachelor's degree - Journalism or English preferred, but not required.
- Excellent writing, interviewing and copy-editing skills.
- Experience promoting content through SEO and social media.
- Strong interest in the independent and underground local Latin scene
- Knowledge of Spanish (please note: our content is published in English only, but Spanish is often required to get the story).

BENEFITS

- Competitive Compensation
- Health/Medical Benefits
- Travel and Entertainment Budget

CONTACT

Submit a resume, a cover letter explaining why you're the best candidate for the job, and samples of your work to editorialjobs@remezcla.com (write "Remezcla City Editor" in the subject line). Boilerplate cover letters will not be considered! Send something that shows us your personality and voice, is specific about your interests, etc.