As this year gets fully into swing, I want to share with you the direction of our Sunday morning studies. We will be alternating from a textual study to a topical study for the first few months of the year. There are several topics that have been presented to me by our elders and I know they come from a place of concern for our current members, future members, and those who may currently be wayward. In the other weeks, between those topical studies, we will be looking at a specific book of the Bible and taking account of the message(s) that are being taught.

Last week, we began this journey by discussing how much we need the church and how much the church needs us. The prayer I have offered this week is for everyone who comes into this particular building to see a church family that loves and cares for one another spiritually, physically, mentally, and emotionally. When that is our attitude, the church will move beyond the four walls of a building and create a beautiful representation of Christ in its community.

This week, we begin a look at the first letter to the Thessalonians. This letter is widely considered to be one of the first letters written by Paul and it opens our eyes to the example Paul expected Christians to set in the world where they lived. This has not changed and we are expected to shoulder the load of burden when it comes to setting an example worthy of being imitated.

Join us in our studies today and let's be a family that loves and cares for each other. -SW
