Continuing to look at Hebrews 11 in hopes that your faith is strengthened and you are encouraged... (Special thanks to Chad Bobo)

Today's Reading – Exodus 14–15
People Crossing the Red Sea

Being first has had its rewards and drawbacks. Who thought it was a good thing to be the stuntman and fly like a bird off the side of a cliff with no real glider-wings? I say no to stuff like that. It makes me wonder what the first Israelites who followed Moses into the Red Sea were thinking. They had the God-chosen man of the people in front of them and thousands of Israelis behind them. With the direction from God, Moses led the Israelites to the Red Sea. He commanded Moses to spread out his rod and divide the waters. Now in my book, it didn't take much convincing. It was either going to work or they were all going to die. Just imagine more than a million people stepping into what was a sea but is now dry land. That first step had to be magical. Water and fish piled on either side. That first step into the sea represents a few, well-known, feelings I am sure ran through their hearts and minds. Fear had to be first.

They had to step out on faith when Moses held his staff over the sea and it parted and became dry for a million people to walk through. They had to have faith God would see them through this immediate danger. It is always a wonderful blessing to see God working in our lives. The Israelites found out if you obey, He will take care of the rest.
