Emotional Religion (part 1)
Special thanks to Frank Chesser, longtime and respected gospel preacher for this series.

Sin moved from the mind of Satan to the heart of Eve, destroyed her purity and innocence, soiled her soul with consequences for life, and broke the heart of God. Sin is the soothing sound of religious error that blinds the mind and calms the heart with a false sense of security, paving the road to eternal perdition upon which the masses of the Earth will travel. Sin is a husband and father, sitting in the dark of the night, shackled with the chains of lust, as the eyes of the mind feed on pornographic images moving across the screen of modern technology.

Sin is the subverted, seductive, insidious spirit of liberalism at war with the grace of God, defying law, eroding conviction, and driving the dagger of spiritual death into the heart of faith. Sin is a small, helpless baby, a portrait of perfect purity, whose brief life comes to a violent and tragic end under the abusive hands of human depravity. Sin is a perpetual stream of death that refuses to allow solace to inhabit a single moment of time. Sin is man's problem. Calvary is God's remedy. Obedience to the Gospel is God's means of reaching the cross and appropriating its benefits.
