Acme, Lull & Porter Shutter Hinges

88-377PC

Acme, Lull & Porter Shutter Hinges * (WeatherWright)

- Raw cast iron mortised shutter hinges
- Designed so that they cannot be lifted off by the wind
- Set includes 2 left-handed hinges, 2 right-handed hinges, 2 sets of fasteners (enough hardware for one window)
- Does not include mounting screws
- "Powder Coated" Hinges offered in all sizes and as retail packs with screws.

* WeatherWright applies to only powder coated hinges.

Mortised Hinges-

The once patented Acme, Lull & Porter hinge is used in applications when enough wood trim is exposed with the window opening to mount the shutters. One side of the hinge is mortised into the edge of the shutter and the other side is mortised into the window casement. If the windows of your house are flush with the surface or if storm windows cover the window casement, you will more than likely need a Clark's Tip surface mounted hinge.

Choose a hinge that gives you the best clearance away from the window casement. Chart provides hinge dimensions to determine the clearance. Be sure to allow adequate clearance from the surface of the house for ventilating purposes. See our Shutter Hardware Installation Details Insert for more information.

Shutter Fasteners

- Raw cast iron
- Fastens shutters closed (wood windowsill required for application.)
- Pair includes 2 latches, 2 hatches, and 2 keepers

88-303 Application Instructions:

Slide latch into hatch and attach to the bottom back of the shutter with the hook pointing down. Note that the keeper has a lip on it. Screw the keeper into the windowsill so that when the shutter is pulled closed the hook catches the lip and fastens.

Surface Mounted Hinges-

Clark's Tip Blind Hinges are mounted to the face of your house or the face of your window trim.

If you are using surface mounted hinges, choose hinges based upon the "throw." To find the throw, measure from the window casement to the inside edge of the shutter as it sits out from the face of the house. The type of home construction and the depth of the windowsill will both affect the throw. A deeper casement will require a larger throw; a shallower casement will require a smaller throw. Naturally, you must also consider the casement width when choosing the hinge size. See our Shutter Hardware Installation Details Insert for information.
