"THE SEVENTH DAY IS THE SABBATH OF THE LORD." — EXODUS XVI. 23.

NEW-YORK, FIFTH DAY, JANUARY 16, 1855.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "SABBATH RECORDER." NEW YORK.

SIR: —

I have been engaged in reading your Royal Anniversary number, and have been much struck with the variety and the extent of your contents; and I have not, until now, had an opportunity to write you, and express my sentiments on the subject. I have been greatly pleased with the manner in which you have treated the subject of the Sabbath, and have been most anxious to see how you would handle the subject of the Lord's Day. I have been much interested in the subject of the Sabbath, and have been greatly pleased with the manner in which you have treated it. I am, therefore, fully prepared to meet your objections, and to express my sentiments on the subject of the Sabbath.

Yours, &c.,

INTRODUCTION.

Many persons claim great credit for relating the history of the Sabbath Recorder; but in connection with being on the part of all those who pursue a different course, I have endeavored to exhibit the truth, and to give a correct idea of the circumstances which they have experienced or observed. In passing through the world, we are often met with some difficulty in the way of obtaining information, and in the course of our inquiries, we are often compelled to make a choice between the course we have adopted and the course we have followed. In a word, we are often compelled to make a choice between the course we have adopted and the course we have followed. In this respect, the course which we have adopted, is often one of the greatest difficulties.

Among the various difficulties which we have met with, the following ones are the most prominent:--

1. The difficulty of obtaining the story of the Sabbath Recorder. This difficulty is often met with, and it is one of the most prominent of all the difficulties which we have met with. It is often met with, and it is one of the most prominent of all the difficulties which we have met with. In this respect, the difficulty is often met with, and it is one of the most prominent of all the difficulties which we have met with. A vast amount of money was stolen and lost in the city of New York. A large amount was stolen during a bank robbery, and another large amount was lost in a railroad fire. The city is in great need of money, and the government is doing its best to raise it. However, there is a small amount of money that has not yet been recovered.

The subject of the question of annexing Texas to the United States is being discussed in the Senate. Mr. Dorr went to the Senate and introduced a bill to annex Texas. The bill was opposed by Mr. Dorr on the same terms that he opposed the annexation of the United States. The Senate passed the bill, and it is now up to the House of Representatives to pass the bill.

Mr. Tappan presented the bill to the House of Representatives, and it was passed. The bill was then sent to the Senate, where it was passed. The bill was then sent to the President, who signed it into law. The bill was then sent to the people of the United States, who voted yes. The bill was then sent to the Supreme Court, where it was upheld. The bill was then sent to the people of Texas, who voted yes. The bill was then sent to the President, who signed it into law.

The President signed the bill into law, and the state of Texas became a part of the United States. The President then signed another bill, which made Texas a state. The President then signed another bill, which made Texas a state of the United States. The President then signed another bill, which made Texas a state of the United States.

The Proposal Explained

"It is certain, says Mr. Jones, that the proposal is no more than a bare offer of a certain sum of money, simply to the party in whose favor it is to be made, as a reward for some service which he is expected to perform, and which he has a right to claim as a matter of course."
