THE SEVENTH DAY IS THE SABBATH OF THE LORD TRUE GOD.

THE SABBATH.
To the Editor of the Sabbath Recorder.

SIR:—A good cause never fails to attract a good soldier, and the cause of the Oregon Territory is one to which I am attached. Should the two nations meet, as it is very probable they will, it will be a field for the bravest to do their best. The Oregon question, now so much agitated, is one which the country will have to decide. The Oregon question involves the principles of national honor, of national honor, and of national good. The Oregon question is one which the country will have to decide. The Oregon question is one which the country will have to decide. The Oregon question is one which the country will have to decide.

Very respectfully,

A. Smith.

HON. J. R. GURDON EVANS.

MISCELLANIES.

"THE F/SPT'S LAST HUSBAND.

Part I.

BY HENRY SARGENT."

FOR THE CHILDREN.

THE YOUTH'S LAST HUSBAND.

A beautiful story of love and sacrifice. It is a touching picture of the life of a young man who has been forced to leave his beloved home and friends in order to seek his fortune in a distant land. In the end, however, he is able to return, bringing joy and happiness to those he loves.

THE CURTAIN FALLS.

When I was young, many years ago, I remember a day when my mother and I were walking in the park. We came upon a group of children playing, and my mother stopped to watch them. She was so inspired by their joy and innocence that she decided to write a story about them. The result was a beautiful work of literature that has touched the hearts of many readers.

THE YOUNG MAN'S HUSBAND.

When any old husband and wife have a child, it is a great joy for them. It is as if a new chapter has been added to their story, filled with hope and promise for the future. The love and care that parents give to their children is a precious gift that cannot be replicated.

WHERE IS DADDY?

I once saw a little girl standing in front of a large building, sobbing and crying. She looked so lost and alone, and I knew that she was looking for her father. I approached her and asked her what was wrong. She told me that her father was gone and she didn't know where he was. I felt a great sense of responsibility to help her, and I promised her that I would find her father.

SPIRITUAL JOURNEY.

I went on a journey with a group of friends to see the sights of New York. We walked through the bustling streets, looking at the famous landmarks and trying to imagine what it would be like to live in such a vibrant city. It was a wonderful experience, filled with memories that I will cherish forever.

JUVENILE SIMPLICITY.

The simplicity of childhood is something that we all yearn for in our adult lives. It is a time when the world is new and full of wonder, when every day is an adventure and every moment is precious. It is a time when we are free to dream and imagine, without the constraints of grown-up responsibilities.

A SIMPLE LITTLE TENDERNESS.

We were playing in the park with our little girl, and I noticed that she was feeling sad. I asked her what was wrong, and she told me that she couldn't find her favorite toy. I comforted her and promised to help her find it, and we searched the park until we finally found the toy. It was a simple moment, but it brought us closer together and showed me the power of love and compassion.

THE HOLLOWAY.

"A mother must have her daughter," said Mrs. Smith. "I feel so blessed to have Mary with me. She brings so much joy to our lives." Mrs. Smith was sitting on her front porch, watching Mary playing with her toys.

UP AND AWAY.

"And thus the wings of hope were spread," said the bishop, "and the little bird flew up into the sky. It was a beautiful sight to see, and it filled me with a sense of gratitude for the power of faith." The bishop was standing in front of a group of children, giving them a speech about the importance of having faith.

THE PRINCE'S BONNET.

"It is a beautiful day," said the prince, "and I think it is time to go on a picnic with my friends." The prince was standing in front of a group of children, showing them his new bonnet.

THE SAVIOUR'S SERIAL.

In the place of Marsden, in Germany, a great many chemists are engaged in the manufacture of medicines. They work in a laboratory, using various chemicals and equipment to create new drugs and cures. It is a fascinating field, filled with opportunities for those who are interested in science and medicine.
