I stood upon a mountain top
with the valley far below.
I could not see the people
Or the problems they might know.

I marveled at the beauty
Made by God's almighty hand.
I was swept by deep emotion
At the wonders God had planned.

God's loving and saving grace
Paul Hummel surely knew.
He shared it for the ages
In this camp for me and you.

It was only once I met Paul
In the autumn of his life.
Paul spoke of God's great goodness
Most life's unceasing strife.

If I could give to others
As Paul Hummel surely gave,
To know that through my giving,
Some sinner Christ could save—

A Christmas Prayer

Father,

It's Christmas time, and the year is crowned with goodness, with joy, blessing and cheer, with the music of laughter.

We celebrate the good times, with good friends and families—both here with us now and far away. We feel the warmth of friendship, and the spirit of caring and sharing—may this be the spirit of Christmas for each of us.

Father, we celebrate with memories of past Christmases—a caroling party, a church program, a gift received or a gift given—the memories which make each following Christmas so rich with meaning. This is the holy time of year—the year's Sabbath.

We see the evergreen trees—we set them up and cover them with decorations—and we remember their meaning—evergreen, for everlasting life. We celebrate a birth, and know that it brings to us rebirth. For a child was born—your child, Father—and He grew up, to say, "Bread and fish..." that each of us can take his place in your orchestra, and play your music.

Thank you Father, that we are instruments of your love—whether bells, horns, drums, a piano, a guitar—that each of us can take his place in your orchestra, and play your music.

Thank you for an abundance of the precious—for health, friendship, meaningful work, and deeds of kindness. May we keep our priorities straight, seeking your kingdom and righteousness, and all these things will be ours as well. We believe that every joy we give will sooner or later come back to us.

In solemn stillness, we can still hear angels singing.

Thank you Father, that we are instruments of your love—whether bells, horns, drums, a piano, a guitar—

In Jesus' name, Amen.

"And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this was the first census made when Cyrenius was Governor of Syria.)" Luke 2:1,2 ike dates the birth of Jesus in the customary way by placing it in the time when Cyrenius was governor of Syria. Matthew placed the same event in the days of Herod, for this was their only way of fixing a date in history, to place it in the reign of the contemporary rulers.

But how ironic it is that after a few centuries of time the events which placed the birth of Jesus in a definite period of history are now remembered only in connection with that event which they denoted. How many people who would have heard of Cyrenius or Herod, were it not for the birth of Jesus happening during their reign? Now all dates are fixed by that great event in time; everything is either B.C. or A.D. Even the many years of prehistoric time on this planet are dated from this one event which at the time was so obscure that it had to be marked by the rule of Herod, of Augustus, and of Cyrenius.

Presumably no event in our day will ever serve as a dividing line for history. But there may be some significant events happening today which in God’s plan mark the end of the course of history. There may even be babies born in our time who some day will exert a greater influence in the course of human history. In God’s plan the small often become great and the great are made small.

Over a century and a half ago, men were anxiously awaiting news of the march of Napoleon. In America, James Madison was just taking office as president of the United States. These were the big events of the time. But all the while babies were being born with little notice outside the immediate family. What did the babies of that year know? It is true that one can trace many and diverse origins for the celebration of Christmas. It is true that there are many excesses today that view Christmas as a commercial enterprise and that is worthy of our attention and our observance as Christians.

The passage of time has also altered the significance of that event at Bethlehem in the days of Herod, Cyrenius and Caesar Augustus. There were a few at the time who felt that it was a unique birth, but they had no idea of the importance of that birth set against the backdrop of political names and decrees. The shepherds were filled with awe and reverence, the wise men travelled far, but we never hear of them again. Even Mary, her mother, had many questions concerning this promised One.

Today men are still questioning the meaning of that birth. We are still confronted with the false sense of values of man. But in God’s plan the lowly are made great. Some in all its pomp and glory passed into the background, while the lowly shepherd in the manger has spread in power and influence (Continued on page 27)

The Meaning of Christmas
by Duane L. Davis

Many voices today call for the abandonment of the traditional Christmas festivities. It is true that the Bible does not give us a specific command to observe a date for Christmas, but it is true that one can trace many and diverse origins for the celebration as we now know it. It is true that there are many excesses today that view Christmas as a commercial enterprise and that is worthy of our attention and our observance as Christians.

The great characteristic of Christmas is its Good News. The angel announced, "Behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people" (Luke 2:10). And what was the good news? The apostle John summed it up in one sentence, "The Word became flesh and dwelt among us" (1 John 1:14). Let’s look at that statement and see what its good news means.

John’s introduction to his Gospel does not give birth of Jesus in Bethlehem nor tell of His childhood in Nazareth. Rather, John announces that the Jesus who lived on earth was the incarnate God of the universe. He calls Him the Word, or the Greek word he used was, "Logos." It is a bit difficult to translate "logos" into English, because "logos" has two basic meanings and the English language has no meaning that expresses them both in one word. The Living Bible paraphrase solved that by just saying, "Logos," for "logos," and James Moffatt simply left the word untranslated, saying, "The Logos became flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14/Moffatt). Let’s look at the meanings of the word, as we think about the meaning of Christmas for us.

First, "logos" means mind or reason. The ancient Greeks were always fascinated by the marvellous order of this world. Why do spring, summer, autumn, winter always come in the same order? Why does the sun rise and set, why do the tides ebb and flow to an unvarying timetable? What solves the traffic problem of the heavens and keeps stars and planets where they belong? Why is this a dependable universe where the same cause produces the same effect? The answer the Greek philosophers gave was that the "logos" or the mind or reason of God was inter-penetrating the entire universe—it put order into the world, and maintains it, it put reason into mankind. Therefore, the "Logos" is the Mind of God. So when John was inspired to use this word for Jesus Christ he is saying, "For hundreds of years now you have been talking about the mind of (Continued on page 10)

The First New Zealander

I apparently did not look very threatening and I was through Customs without a single inspection of any kind. By this time I was beginning to wonder who would meet me. How will they know me? What should I look for? I was remembering a year before when I was in the Los Angeles International Airport looking for a man by the name of Edward Barrar, a man I had never seen before, from New Zealand, and visiting the United States. I had been telling my Seventh Day Baptist loved ones in the United States how God's timing is perfect and I was now about to realize how efficient our Heavenly Father really is. He planned for my friend, the only person that I really knew in all of New Zealand, to arrive from the South Island shortly before I did. As a matter of fact, my Heavenly Father had to delay the arrival of my plane so that Ed would be there when I arrived. You see, he did not want me to be anxious or frustrated in a strange land. An international hug, and I was beginning to feel at home already. To meet us both at the airport was Maria (Mrs. Ron Barrar), Maria was to be one of the many loved ones in New Zealand who would bring tears to my eyes and a lump in my throat ten days later when I would be leaving this beautiful land.

Driving from the airport to the Auckland church on the wrong side of the streets, or should we say the left side—well the left side is not the right side—so you see

The Sabbath Recorder

I learn fast, even though it looks dumb to see a steering wheel on the wrong side of the car (which is the right side). I did not feel very far from home as I was greeted by the familiar twin arches where they do it all for you, along with many familiar signs from back home.

The Conference Meetings

There were committee meetings and planning sessions much the same as we have become accustomed to here in the United States. There was much discussion because they were drafting their Constitution and Bylaws. They were establishing precedents and policies. They were selecting leaders.

It is more interesting being somewhat of a resource person rather than a member of their organization. It is even more exciting to know that this assembled group of people represent New Zealand, that is the North and the South Island, and four or more parts of Australia.

The delegates themselves represent an even larger back-ground, including New Guinea, Australia, New Zealand, the United States, England, the Netherlands, Poland, and Argentina. Communication was sometimes a problem; first, to understand exactly what another Brother or Sister said, and then to understand exactly what they meant. It was fun and caused us to concentrate more on each other and, thus, develop a greater love and understanding.

By Friday, the Australasian Conference of Seventh Day Baptists was a reality. A Constitution and Bylaws were adopted, officers were elected, and excitement was running high. Pastor Ron Barrar is now their elected President. Pastor Barrar is a real leader and is respected by all. He has a tremendous responsibility ahead.

It wasn't all business however. There was plenty of time for worship, Bible study, prayer and praising the Lord. There was a Bible study each morning, with one of the participating delegates as your leader. You see I'm already using the word "our" because I really felt a real part of everything. Every evening we had a worship service where I had an opportunity to share with them myself, my love, and the message the Lord sent with me. I was impressed with the song service they encouraged the young people to provide each evening. The church was full on the Sabbath Day, with many of the local church members attending. And again it was a time to learn new people, trade smiles, hugs and stopp down to talk to the children. Saturday night, after Conference activities were completed, it was time for a social with fun, stories, skits, singing and snacks.

The love of God is surely everywhere I go. I found it in the beautiful people of "down under." This visit kind of like salvation itself. I didn't earn it. I didn't deserve it. I couldn't buy it. I can only thank someone else for it. PRAISE THE LORD.

In part two of my story I will tell you about my New Zealand family, an evening with the young people, my New Zealand holiday, farewell and the trip home.□

Decision to Discipleship

Decision to Discipleship is a year-long experience in practicing the lifestyle of Jesus Christ. Its six eight-week phases are designed to help you develop a dynamic Christian lifestyle. The purpose is to take the teaching and example of Jesus out of the classroom and through discipline apply them to the total person—leading to a lifestyle of redemptive discipleship.

Decision to Discipleship is now a part of the program of many Seventh Day Baptist churches across the country. Good reports are coming in from those involved in this study. The Seventh Seventh Day Baptist Church of Columbus, Ohio, is one committed to this study. Some of those so involved share their reactions:

SUSAN: I feel like Mary Magdalene inside when people think of me as Mary Poppins. My cell group is what the wider church should be—it's a start—a group in which we can all be our real selves.

GEORGE: The Bible study is different in that it's personal—a new approach that makes the Scriptures meaningful in my everyday life. It's the sharing that makes the difference.

HELEN: The commitment we make—to study, pray, and learn—the quality of the time and the amount of time spent is what makes this different kind of study.

PERRY: It's like being on a dialysis machine—something you've gotta have but don't always feel like doing, but you couldn't live without it. It forces us to prepare ourselves, to have already done some thinking about the Scriptures before we examine them together.

Some of the topics are basic Christian disciplines, life priorities, stewardship of God's resources, personal relationships in family and church, sharing one's faith, and discipling others. The Columbus church is now in the process of forming additional cell study groups.

Decision to Discipleship can be the beginning of a life-long experience. It can strengthen your personal faith and empower your church giving new life and purpose. One of the aims is to train an army of Christians committed to a lifestyle of discipleship.

For additional information concerning Decision to Discipleship write to the SDB Missionary Society, 401 Washington Trust Building, Westerly, RI 02891.
Since the birth of our first child, Adam, I have felt a special feeling of identification with Mary. I remember when I first suspected I was pregnant. I looked at Doug and was so excited with the thought that I was carrying his child. I wondered then if in the midst of Mary's joy at being pregnant, she ached a little when she looked at Joseph, knowing this child wasn't his son.

After Adam's birth, I remember being so elated at being pregnant, she ached knowing this child wasn't his son. After Adam's birth, I remember being so elated at being pregnant, she ached knowing this child wasn't his son.

When she told Mary what had happened, Mary began 'exalting her Lord' also and in this song we can experience Mary's elation at the fact that she has been chosen to be the mother of the Promised Redeemer of Israel. I'm sure this joy grew as the life inside her blossomed and was born. The arrival of the shepherds undoubtedly completed her joy as she held her newborn son in her arms that first night. Mary's joy probably continued uninterrupted until forty days after Jesus' birth when she and Joseph went to Jerusalem for the traditional cleansing sacrifices. There they met Simeon. Until this point, it is recorded that Mary had been told only that she was carrying the Promised One. Simeon confirmed this as recorded in Luke 2:25-35, but he also told Mary some very disturbing things.

I'm sure that Mary did not understand the full significance of Simeon's message to her in verses 34-35, but I believe the words disturbed her and probably remained in a corner of her thoughts throughout the rest of her son's thirty-three years. She probably tried to figure out many times how this piece of information fit into the picture of the glorious Messiah.

Since the dawn of civilization human beings have been eating bread, which is nothing more than water, flour, yeast and a little salt. These simple ingredients have been used in combination over and over again for centuries. The familiar loaf of bread, warm from the oven, is the stuff of life. Water, flour, yeast and a little salt are all a person needs to produce a little miracle of the loaves. And when the bread becomes stale, it still serves us well; we can make bread crumbs.

Bread crumbs were once understandable things. But no longer. I went shopping recently and took from the shelf a harmless looking package with the innocuous title: "Bread Crumbs—American Style." One would tend to think it had only the four basic elements, but no. In my hand was a symbol of the modern industrial and chemical revolution. "Contents: made from enriched bleached flour, (malted barley flour, ferrous sulfate, niacin, thiamine mononitrate, riboflavin), water, whole wheat flour, rye flour, whey, yeast, partially hydrogenated vegetable shortening (may contain soybean and/or palm oils), salt, soy flour, yeast nutrients (calcium sulfate, ammonium sulfate, dough conditioners (may contain one or more of the following: ethoxylated mono and diglycerides, sodium and/or calcium stearoyl-2-lactylate, polysorbate 60, sucinylated monoglycerides, potassium bromate), mono and diglycerides, calcium propionate (a preservative)."

Can you believe it? "Bread Crumbs—American Style" were as chemically saturated as a box of moth balls.

The scandal is not limited to bread. Every package of food in the supermarket, if you check it, has had a chemical overdose. By extending the shelf-life of their products with artificial additives, the American food manufacturers have been increasing their profits, and denaturing our food. Man-made chemicals, untented for long-term effects on humans, have been used continuously in suspicious combinations for decades.

When something like this happens we are all guilty. As Herbert Butterfield wrote, "Behind the shocking crime at the center, the blame goes to the vast numbers of individuals, each guilty of small derelictions of duty or pretty compliance with vested interests—each gravely responsible, though astonishingly unaware of the importance of what he was doing."

We are all custodians of God's good earth. One day the Lord will say to each one of us, "Draw me up an account of your stewardship." (Luke 16:2)

"When I was hungry, did you give me potassium bromate, ethoxylated mono and diglycerides and ammonium sulfate?"

How To Spend the Day of Prayer and Fasting

January 4, 1981

by Linda Harris
Middleton, CT

The Sabbath Recorder

1. Conference in Denver this summer the following recommendation was adopted: "We recommend that Conference adopt January 4, 1981 as the Day of Prayer and Fasting for the full acceptance of the Sabbath truth by Christians everywhere." This recommendation came as a result of a letter by Dean and Susie Fox, Madison, Wisconsin, reminding us that two such days were held almost 140 years ago as the Day of the full acceptance of the Sabbath. It was around 140 years ago, with the result about our request, but prayer. The Adventists accepted the truth that two such days were held spending a day in prayer. We wonder what specifically we should do.

First, we must remember that it is a day of prayer and fasting. Prayer is the most important element of this day. We will be fasting, if possible, but even if there is some reason why some cannot fast, they can still spend the day in prayer. It is not the fasting which will bring about our request, but prayer. The purpose of fasting is to minimize the demands of everyday living, in order to spend more time in prayer, and to make a sacrifice to show to God our commitment.

It will be helpful to you to read Scriptures which speak of prayer and fasting. Specifically, you should read 1 Samuel 7:5-6; Ezra 8:21-23; Nehemiah 9:1-38; Daniel 9:3-19; Jod 1:14; 2:12-14; and Matthew 6:16-18. Use your concordance to find other passages dealing with fasting and prayer.

If you are not accustomed to spending long hours in prayer, you will find it very difficult to spend the whole day praying. You will need to have a plan for the day, with a variety of activities designed to keep your mind on the purpose of the day. In Nehemiah 9:1-2, the Israelites did more than pray. They spent time reading God's Word, making confessions, and worshiping God. Here are some suggestions on how to spend the day:

1. Spend some time reading the Bible. Meditate on portions which are meaningful, but which you would otherwise have time to study.
2. Begin your prayers by making sure you are committed to God and to the message of the Sabbath. It is useless to pray that the Sabbath be accepted by all Christians if you are not committed to keeping it yourself. In fact, if there is any area of your life which you are not willing to surrender to God, your prayers will not be effective. Dr. Stephen Oiford, of the National Association of Evangelicals says, "The greatest sin of our evangelical world today is unapplied orthodoxy—failure to obey truth already received." Is there something which you know you should be doing, but you are not? Confess your reluctance to God, and make a commitment to do that which you know you should. Specifically, you should be willing to be the instrument God uses to bring the Sabbath truth to others, knowing that if He asks you to do this, He will give you the resources you need to accomplish it.

The Sabbath truth was given to the Adventists through a Seventh Day Baptist lady named Rachel Oakes Preston. She moved from New York to Washington, New Hampshire, to live with her daughter. She attended the Adventist church there and convinced several members of the truth of the Sabbath. The conviction spread, until James and Ellen White were convinced, and they preached the Sabbath truth to the whole group of Adventists. Are you willing to be used as Rachel Oakes Preston was?

3. Continue to pray throughout the day. Sing or read the words to hymns of praise, confession, and dedication. A particularly meaningful hymn is "Cleanse Me," by Edwin Orr. Use the Psalms to praise God. If you have other duties which must be performed on this day, and you feel you might forget to pray, use the hunger pangs which you will feel as a result of fasting as a reminder to pray. Each time you feel hungry, pray a simple prayer in keeping with the purpose of the day.

4. Spend as much time praying as you can. Don't expect a few minutes of hurried prayer to do the job. You know that God how committed you are to this goal by the amount of time you spend in prayer. Again, if you have other duties, you may not be able to spend a large amount of time in concentrated prayer. But you can go about your business in an attitude of prayer. Postpone as many of your duties as you can to the next day, or do them during the week before the day of fasting and prayer, so you will have more time to pray.

5. Pray in faith. It is God's will that all people come to know Him and to receive the blessings of His Sabbath. If you believe that, you can pray in faith that God will answer your prayers and the prayer of others. If you don't believe God can and will do it, then you shouldn't be praying.

6. Suggest to your pastor and your church that a special worship service and prayer meeting be scheduled sometime during the day. Prayers and people are strengthened by coming together for a common purpose.

7. Decide how long you will fast. If you have never fasted before, it may be more difficult than you imagine. If you have a medical problem, such as diabetes, ask your doctor if you may fast. Some people will not be able to fast for the entire day, others not at all. It will depend on the individual. Let the Holy Spirit lead you concerning the length of your fast. If you decide not to fast, or to fast for only part of the day, don't be misled by people who say, "God will give you the strength to make it through the day, if you are willing to make the sacrifice." That may be true in some cases, but the individual's physical make-up will determine how long he or she can fast. God made you the way you are, and he won't expect you to do something which would damage your body.

There are several ways in which you may fast. The way most people do it is to eat nothing from the time they get up until the time they go to bed. But you must consider that with this method, you will be going without food from the time of your last meal or snack that day before you fast, to breakfast of the day after you fast. This could be as much as 36 hours. If you don't think you can fast that long, try another method. You could fast from supper the day before the fast day, to supper of the fast day. Or from breakfast of the day fast, to breakfast of the day after the fast. If you don't know how long you can manage to fast, you might decide to skip one or two meals on the day of the fast, spending this time in prayer.

During your fast, keep on drinking fluids. Depending on how strict you want it to be, you may only want to drink water, or you may want to also drink fruit and vegetable juices. Drinking juices will help you keep your energy up if you have some physical things to do. When your break your fast, do it gently. Don't sit down to a large, heavy meal after fasting for 24 or more hours. Your stomach won't be able to take it. Eat a piece of fruit or a sandwich, and then a few hours later you may be able to eat some more.

If you have success with fasting, consider doing it on a regular basis. I know several people who fast every Sabbath Day. Fasting has medical as well as spiritual benefits. But be sure, as we said at the beginning of this article, to pray as well as fast. For without prayer, fasting has no spiritual value.

HUNGER AND THE WORLD

Truly, I say unto you, as you did it to the least of these my brethren, you did it to me. Matthew 25:40 (RSV)

"Bread for the World offers three filmstrips (color, about 20 minutes each) to help understand the problems of world hunger and the need for Christian involvement in public policy making.

"The first, Hunger and Public Policy is a good basic introduction to the reality of hunger around the world and in our own country and the fact that our efforts need to be directed toward public policy as well as our own projects of food closets and Christmas baskets, etc. In one vote Congress can wipe out the value of all contributions for church relief agencies for an entire year. This country with its great wealth and energy has the ability to wipe out hunger almost overnight. We can, we just haven't. This first filmstrip should be a powerful challenge to those who feel the church should be concerned in only 'spiritual' matters. By creating us and redeeming us through Jesus Christ, God has given us a love that will not turn aside from those who lack daily bread."

"The second filmstrip, Hunger: What Are the Issues? is designed to dramatize the complex economic and political problems of world hunger. For example, in one recent year, consumers in the industrialized countries paid about $200 billion for products made from raw materials from developing countries. But the developing countries received only $30 billion of that amount."

"The third filmstrip, Hunger, What Can I Do? is the story of one person who joins Bread for the World and develops skills in mobilizing people, including church leaders, to write congressmen on specific legislation related to hunger as a part of this Christian action network. "Citizenship took on a whole new meaning for us."

"The first film can be used with upper elementary children, youth and adults. The second and third, would be suggested for youth and adults. They are available without charge from Bread for the World, 207 East 16th Street, N.Y., N.Y. 10003. A contribution for postage would be appreciated."

"We do well at charity, but charity is not enough. To charity we must add justice."

BOOKS FOR STUDY

"Although this book serves as a general introduction to world hunger, it emphasizes primarily the neglected role of public policy. Millions suddenly want to do something about world hunger. Few bother with public policy. Yet governmental policies may multiply or nullify a hundredfold all private efforts to assist hungry people. Ordinary persons can help to shape those policies. That is the thesis of this book. Because Christians have a special invitation to care about hungry people, the book is addressed primarily to them, but is intended also for others."

December 1980

Bread and Polity: Christian Involvement in World Hunger and the Need for Study in Our Churches; Filmstrips to the Reality of Hunger Around the World Hunger.

This is a compilation by Claude Frazier of statements by twenty-two governors and senators who believe a person can be truly religious and still engage in politics. In the epilogue, C. Welton Gaddy, Director of Christian Citizenship Development says "Religion and politics inevitably mix in the life of a Christian. Genuine commitment to the Lordship of Christ pervades every sector of life—politics as well as prayer, patriotism as well as piety, and citizenship in the government as well as membership in the church. The dynamics of the Christian faith nurture a life style which embraces responsible participation in the political process. Politics provides the Christian a means of social involvement with tremendous potential for affecting significant change, attacking evil, and establishing justice. Religion provides politics with its basic motivation, goals, methods, and consciousness which can make the system moral as well as effective."

Find Yourself in the Bible

Helping Hand Editor's Goal

(Excerpts from Editor David Clarke's Preface for the final issue which he has edited, Dec. ‘80—Feb. ‘81.)

Kari Olsson's book, Find Yourself in the Bible, (Augsburg, 1974) has kept prodding me as new editor of the Helping Hand. His theme prods me on the right hand to enable learners and teachers using the Helping Hand to enter deeply into the experiences recorded in the Bible; and on the left, to enable users to discover their real selves as God's children.

As I begin editing the Helping Hand, I recognize the beautiful partnership we have in giving time and energy of spiritual, mental and emotional kinds to studying the Scriptures. The contributing writers, the Board of Christian Education, and I DEPEND ON—NOT assume your commitment to Bible study and growth toward Jesus the Christ. We assure you of our desire to make the Christ's Way more real for all of us.

I am grateful to the many persons and groups contributing to this issue. The Uniform Series of International Lessons for Bible Learning is the foundation for curriculum and firmly roots our study in the Bible. We encourage learners to use the Bible of their choice. We hope the Scripture Source (context for Base) will be studied in each lesson. The Related Daily Bible Readings will also enrich lesson preparation. These three sections are chosen by Uniform lesson leaders.

Each of the three units is introduced by a short "Diamond" or preface. We want to point out the many truths glittering from God's Word. We thank Pastors Victor Skog, Plainfield, N.J.; Gabriel Belani, Stanton, CA; and Melvin Stephan, Solomines, PA; for writing these.

"Catalysts" for each Related Daily Bible Reading to "convert" the experience into the study of the lesson by putting in a political action and action, were prepared by Roberta (Mrs. Howard E.) Ellis of Stephentown, N.Y. Then, collected all these "The Word in Worship," were chosen by Uniform lesson people.

in this decade of discipleship to which many of us have committed ourselves, or as has been pointed out have fooded ourselves into thinking we have committed ourselves, it is helpful to me to remember that the first disciples pleased God by actively and intensively sharing their faith. The book of Acts is a glowing testimony to that fact. But the epistles suggest that as well as we were not doing a good job of it for there are all kinds of corrections and admonitions about how to do it better. Perhaps we can find some consolation in this, but rather than consolation, let us look for instruction.

The apostle Paul, missionary, evangelist and church planter extraordinary, wrote to the church at Philippi because he was concerned that they be knowledgeable about, among other things, the avenues or methods through which the faith could be shared and by which churches could be founded and nourished. Hopefully we can be conscious that though the apostle called for immediate response it was written to the church, it calls for group action. "If then our common life in Christ yields anything to stir the heart, any loving consolation, any sharing of the Spirit, any warmth of affection or compassion, fill up the cup of happiness by thinking and feeling alike, with the same love for one another, the same turn of mind and a common care for unity. There must be no room for rivalry and personal vanities among you, but show your love for each other in a manner that followers others. Look to each other's interest and not merely to your own. Let your bearing towards one another arise out of your life in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 2:1-5).

Our text tells us that the church which pleases God shares its faith in three general ways: through
1. Life style, what goes on among its members.
2. Deeds, what it does for the world.
3. What it says to the world, its proclamation.

Life Style

I presume it would take a day long seminar to cover all the possibilities for structuring an evangelistic life style in a church. Perhaps it would be time well spent. For what the church is as much to do with the propagation of its Faith, as what it does and says.

If you attended Rev. Myron Soper's Church Extension and Growth seminar, you heard from Pastors Ken Davis, Ken Hatcher and Bill Schoftner and others of some of those magnetic activities and traits of being that are included in a church's evangelistic life style. I am impressed also with two verses from Colossians 3, verse 10 "Put on the new man which is renewed in knowledge (this is the key to renewal) after the image of Him that created him." And verse 16 "Let the works of God dwell in you richly in all wisdom-teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs; singing with grace in your hearts to God." These verses along with verse 1-5 in our text would give a fair idea of the direction of a seminar on constructing an evangelistic life style in a church. This added to verse 14 of our text "Do all you have to do without murmuring or arguing. Instead, let your conduct be such that it will prove to all that you are doing good in every way, for there are all kinds of corrections and admonitions about how to do it better. Perhaps we can find some consolation in this, but rather than consolation, let us look for instruction.

Secondly, we please God by sharing our faith through our deeds as a church. From verse 15—"show ourselves." We must do something to be seen. The question that follows is what would be the response? What does the church that follows itself being a model of the world attracting characteristics of Jesus? Throughout the ministry of our Lord it is obvious that He cared for and ministered to people in distress. And almost always, before He proposed a spiritual 'connection to His people, He went about doing good. In the parable of the judgment with the sheep and the goats, the obvious commendation comes from meeting human needs. The Salvation Army has proven over and over that "Doing a good deed is not doing a good deed if it’s not doing a good deed. We can do a good deed and do nothing else.

Thirdly—from verse 16 "Proffer the world of life, that means more than offer it. Get the message out where it can't be missed. The King James version has it "Holding forth the world of life"; a continuous proclamation. At no time in the past have people had the opportunity to hear of our faith. Radio has made that possible. Can thirteen weeks of radio programming be considered holding forth in a manner that would be pleasing to God? The American Sabbath Tract Society has been offering our churches an opportunity to share our faith through the voice of Pastor Russ Havens for many months and many have been undecided as to whether or not we should obey the voice of God in this matter. What if we get no response? Does our text read proffer the world of life if we get responses? Statistics are not mentioned!

Of course there is more than one way to proffer the world of life. The apostle Peter wrote "Always be ready to give an account to everyone who asks of you, for the hope that lies within you." There is the answer to the question how long—Always! Jesus told the man whom he healed of devil possession—"go home and tell your family and friends what great things the Lord has done for you." Nothing was said of favorable responses.

There is also the example of tract distribution, a very viable way to proffer the word of life. It is a well-known fact that our brother Pastor L. Sawi Thanga of Burma found Seventh Day Baptists through a tract. The entire Burma Seventh Day Baptist movement can be credited to a tract. Should this be the only response to years of tract distribution, who would dare say our tract ministry was not worthwhile? The Bible does not say hold forth the world of life only if you get responses. Ours is the task of sowing the seed. Someone has said "Every way of not doing it is wrong." We are considering our most prized possession, our faith and the propagation of it—grows with sharing.

This is the decade, if the Lord tarry, to make the Faith of Jesus Christ via Seventh Day Baptists known in every corner of our land. There is reason for urgency. There is a dark world out there, crooked and perverse and perishing, that desperately needs our witness and our Savior.

Therefore in order to please God we must—1. Live our faith attractively as a church. 2. We must do it sacrificially. "Sacrifice is a vital part of the Christian religion. Until this denomination understands and practices the sacrifice principle, we are not pleasing God, as God should we. 3. We must proclaim our faith with our lips, proffering the word of life by every means at hand.

Proclaiming the Word
I n this decade of discipleship to which many of us have committed ourselves, or as has been pointed out, have fooled ourselves into thinking we have committed ourselves, it is helpful to me to remember that the first disciples pleased God by actively and intensively sharing their faith. The book of Acts is a glowing testimony to that fact. But the epistles suggest that they as well as we were not doing a good job of it for there are all kinds of corrections and admonitions about how to do it better. Perhaps we can find some consolation in this, but rather than consolation, let us look for instruction.

The apostle Paul, missionary, evangelist and church planter extraordinary, wrote to the church at Philippi-# because he was concerned that they be knowledgeable about, among other things, the avenues or methods through which the faith could be shared and by which churches could be founded and nourished. Hopefully we can be conscious that though this scripture calls for individual response it was written to the church, it calls for group action. "If then our common life in Christ yields anything to stir the heart, any loving consolation, any sharing of the Spirit, any warmth of affection or compassion, fill up the cup of happiness by thinking and feeling alike, with the same love for one another, the same turn of mind and a common care for unity. There must be no room for rivalry and personal vanity among you, but you must humbly reckon others better than yourselves. Look to each other's interest and not merely to your own. Let your bearing towards one another arise out of your life in Christ Jesus." (Philippians 2:1-5).

Our total text tells me that the church which pleases God shares its faith in three general ways: through:

1. Life style, what goes on among its members.
2. Deeds, what it does for the world.
3. What it says to the world, its proclamation.

Life Style

I presume it would take a day long seminar to cover all the possibilities for structuring an evangelistic life style in a church. Perhaps it would be time well spent. For what the church is has as much to do with the propagation of its Faith, as what it does and says.

If you attended Rev. Minyor Soper's Church Extension and Growth seminar, you heard from Pastors Ken Davis, Ken Hatcher and Bill Schoffner and others of some of those magnetic activities and states of being that are included in a church's evangelistic life style. I am impressed also with two verses from Colossians 3, verse 10-11: "Put on the new man which is renewed in knowledge (this is the key to renewal) after the image of Him that created him." And verse 16-17: "Let the works of God dwell in you richly in all wisdom—teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs; singing with grace in your hearts to God."

These verses along with verses 1-5 in our text would give a fair idea of the direction of a seminar on constructing an evangelistic life style in a church. This added to verse 14 of our text: "Do all you have to do without murmuring or wrangling" would be pleasing to God. We can only guess we have fooled ourselves. We have actually repelled rather than attracted new members by our murmuring and complaining about pastor, policy or people in the church. We know many have been turned off by wrangling and rivalries and vanities that beget strife. These have no place in the life style of a church called to pleasing God in every way, if for no other reason than that the polarity they generate repels rather than attracts.

If the spirit world reflects laws of physics, here is one we must reckon with. The same force that fashions unity for feelings and respect for one another's judgment. This plus remembering that "none of us is as smart as all of us" would do much to discharge dissension causing polarity. I believe the churches' life style that will please God will radiate an evangelist aura in which love, consideration, broad-mindedness, and acceptance are featured. In reality our church's life style proclaims the nature of our faith.

If your church fails here the world will not be impressed with our deeds of faith or words of faith that we attempt to share. We are told in Acts 4:47 that it was God who added the souls to the early church. I believe that still to be the case. I have been convinced for some years and on good evidence, that God does not add to the church that is not equipped and ready to nourish and cherish the churches that do not have an evangelistic life style. Very likely, there needs to be a conscious effort on the part of churches who are lacking in this grace to consider designing a style to practice.

Sharing Through Our Deeds

Secondly, we please God by sharing our faith through our deeds as a church. From verse 15-"show ourselves." We must do something to be seen. The question that follows then is: What best demonstrates the world attracting characteristics of Jesus? Throughout the ministry of our Lord it is obvious that He cared for and ministered to people in distress. And almost always, before He proposed a spiritual connection to His concern, He relieved their physical and social distresses.

John Wimber of the Fuller Evangelistic Association, emphasized the slogan, "Find a need and fill it," as a practical activity in church growth. It is a part of sharing our faith, a part of pleasing God and a part of following Jesus, who went about doing God's work. In Christ's parable of the judgment with the sheep and the goats, the obvious commendation comes from meeting human need. The Salvation Army has proven over and over again that in our day you can still reach men's souls through a physical and social ministry. Surely we can all agree that a major part of our faith is love. We are to share that part of our faith in deeds.

But that is not all. There has been a growing awareness among Seventh Day Baptists of a need for visibility. What more appropriate way of making ourselves visible is there, than being involved as a church in meeting community needs? Visibility is a primary concept here, show yourselves! How? Guiltless and above reproach in a world that is just the opposite, ministering to the needs that arise out of such perverse living. Find a need and fill it!

Proclaiming the Word

Thirdly—from verse 16 "Proffer the word of life." That means more than offer it. Get the message out where it can't be missed. The King James version has it "Holding forth the word of life"; a continuous proclamation. At no time in the past have more people had the opportunity to hear of our faith. Radio has made that possible. Can thirteen weeks of radio programming be considered holding forth in a manner that would be pleasing to God? The American Sabbath Tract Society has been offering our churches an opportunity to share our faith through the voice of Pastor Russ Havens for many months and many have been undecided as to whether or not we should obey the voice of God in this matter. What if we get no response? Does our text read proffer the word of life if you get responses? Statistics are not mentioned!

Of course there is more than one way to proffer the word of life. The apostle Peter wrote: "Always be ready to give an account to everyone who asks of the hope that lies within you." There is the answer to the question how long—Always! Jesus told the man whom he healed of devil possession—"go home and tell your family and friends what great things the Lord has done for you." Nothing was said of favorable responses.

There is also the avenue of tract distribution, a very viable way to proffer the word of life. It is a well-known fact that our brother Pastor L. Sawi Thanga of Burma found Seventh Day Baptists through a tract. The entire Burma Seventh Day Baptist movement can be credited to a tract. Should this have been the only response to our years of tract distribution, who would dare say our tract ministry was not worthwhile? The Bible does not say hold forth the word of life only if you get responses. Ours is the task of sowing the seed. Someone has said "Every way of not doing it is wrong." We are considering our most prized possession, our faith and the propagation of it—grow with sharing.

This is the decade, if the Lord tarry, to make the Faith of Jesus Christ via Seventh Day Baptists known in every corner of our land. There is reason for urgency. There is a dark world out there, crooked and perverse and perishing, that desperately needs our witness and proclamation.

Therefore in order to please God we must—1. Live our faith attractively as a church. 2. We must do it sacrificially. Sacrifice is a vital part of the Christian religion. Until this denomination understands and practices the sacrifice principle, we are not pleasing God as we should. 3. We must proclaim our faith with our lips, proffering the word of life by every means at hand.
In 1941, John G. Schmid was the Sabbath School superintendent and teacher in this church. The Lord prepared a table for him—upheld him in his faith and purpose and brought him to the place where he could accept the pastorate when Pastor Stoil had been called to his reward. Through such prayer God overcame his reluctance to preach and gave him freedom in the new work to which he was called. Truly, "his cup ran over." So there came a time when no threat could be so great and no power so strong and no joy so exuberant that he could be separated from his God.

As the years went by, after considerable and repeated urging, he accepted the call of the church to ordination in 1954. "Truly, the Lord appointed him with oil." All through the years he supported himself working for a living. And, when in 1963 he retired from that work, it was with joy that he contemplated being able to devote more of his time to the ministry of the church.

In all his life and work, humility and strength were the expressions of his faith. He repeatedly spoke of the guidance of God, the encouragement and help of his family, the support of the congregation. "Surely goodness and mercy followed him all the days of his life, and he will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever."

It is significant that, at the beginning of my own ministry, John G. Schmid was a member of the council which ordained me. I well remember his encouragement during those years. Even in these years he has changed my job in order to keep his Sabbath, yet He provides for me, and I am not in want. Because of His own goodness He will not allow me to wander away.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me." The empty place, the now-departed face are mine to bear and cherish for the Lord is with me always.

In May of 1933, a group, including John Schmid, left the Adventist Church and founded the Independent Sabbathkeeping Church at Irvington, N.J. Their dearly beloved pastor was Frederick F. Stoll. A short time later the church became a part of the Seventh Day Baptist General Conference.

During the years from 1933 to 1980, John G. Schmid lived with his family in Geingen, Germany, until 1927. As a young child he noticed that his mother was dependent upon the Bible. She taught her children to pray; and several members of the family in that generation and the next felt the call of God into Christian work. It was when John was fourteen years old that he felt a personal interest in the Christian faith. He studied the Bible with the aid of a young pastor he noticed that his life, the loves of a life in words.

It seems most appropriate at this juncture in his life history to put the words of the psalmist beside his experience: "The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want." For at this point in his life he was saying: In the Lord I live and move and have my being; in Him is my trust for all that I am and all that I need.

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters." From the bounty of his hand I receive all that makes life rich and good. He gives me life and loved ones and work to do. He gives me the comfort of good friends, quiet, knowing faces, who make my life their own. "He restores my soul." When I am troubled and burdened with care, even then He is with me to lift me up. "He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake." Even though I must change my job in order to keep His Sabbath, yet He provides for me, and I am not in want. Because of His own goodness He will not allow me to wander away.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me."

These remarks may close us to a traveler's story from the lips of John Schmid as he made his faith clear: "Every church must be built upon belief in Jesus Christ as the Son of God. The church should bind all believers together. I believe that it is God's will for the church to be the center of all Christian work."

What characterizes his life, his purpose and his ministry. Truly, the Lord is his shepherd and with Him he wants not. —Rev. Victor W. Skaggs this concept was tried suc­cessfully in Memphis, TN and shared in the November MISSIONS mailing to churches. What is it? Ask your pastor or Missionary Worker! Have them share Bill Shoffner's letter too.

- PHILIPPIANS—Missionary Rodney Henry has a feature article in the PAFTEE BULLETIN (PAFTEE = Philip­pine Association for Theological Ed­ucation and Extension) for November. Since the Bulletin is shared with TEE leaders around the world, it will bring our new TEE program to the attention of leaders in many countries. PTU!

- MISSIONARY PASTORS—The Evangelism/Home Missions com­mittee is working on a new way to consider the several applications for aid in support of missionary pastors as well as Extension work at Memphis, TN. Such churches are at the "cutting edge" of our outreach and will bring Double in a Decade.

- OVERSEAS VISITS? As Seventh Day Baptists travel they have oppor­tunity to visit sister churches in other countries. Guidelines for such visitors have been prepared and are available from your Missionary Society office.

- Missionary Board Executive Vice-President

Regarding new church buildings, the enlarging of their seminary TOE church, a positive helpful relationship can be fostered, understanding and eventual encouragement and sponsorship when the "fulness of time" arrives for organization of a local church is known. In 1981 could my church become a "mother church"? It may take more than nine months from conception to birth! But let's pray and work that conception can come to bless each present congregation!

HARVEST HOME SERVICE HELD

PAINT ROCK, AL—Our Harvest home service was held the first weekend in October. Our special guests were Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Horsley of Denver, Dr. Ted brought the messages on Friday evening and Sabbath morning. We were happy they could share with us in a very meaningful way. Following worship services on Sabbath a fellowship dinner was served to 45 persons in our church annex. The afternoon service featured music by the Light Bearers for Christ. This was their first presentation as a new group and our congregation was thrilled to hear the progress that has been made in one short month. We are thankful to have the Light Bearers in our community; they contribute much to the life of the church. The church sanctuary was freshly painted and decorated for the harvest season. At the conclusion of the Light Bearers concert, the members generously filled the altar area with food, produce and items useful to the team; an offering was also taken for this musical ministry. Our Harvest home service was a spiritual boost to the entire church. We were happy to have several visitors present to share with us and plan such a service for next year.

The church has new carpet on the front and rear steps, is newly painted inside and has attractive new pulpit furniture. We are in process of installing new restrooms in the annex. Pastor John D. Bevis, who has been serving as interim pastor, was called to serve as official pastor and has accepted. The church was happy to commend Joe McGuire for his efforts at the Alabama State Fair where we had a booth. Some 104 signed up for the Guide Bible course. The church is considering a fair booth in Huntsville next year. We pray for God's guidance as we seek to reach out to others in this community in coming months.

“GROW WITH GOD” THEME
MINNESOTA MEETING

DODGE CENTER, MN—“Grow with God” was the theme for the Semi-Annual meetings at the Dodge Center church, Oct. 4-5, 1980. These meetings bring together the members from the Dodge Center and New Auburn, WIs.

Bob Bosser welcomed all to the Sabbath Eve service and introduced the guest speaker, Pastor Charles Graffius and his wife, Anne, from the Los Angeles, CA, SDB Church. Pastor Graffius is the 1980-81 President of the General Conference. The delegates from New Auburn and Dodge Center were weekend guests of the church.

Pastor Graffius put an emphasis on Philippians 3:14 “I press toward the goal of the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus.”

The Sabbath morning worship service began with prayer and praise at 10:00 a.m. There was a special blessing received from the music of the King's Singers and Faye Wendland. Pastor Graffius’ message was entitled, “God's Perfect Timing.” Acts 11. The dedication of the bell from the New Auburn church in the Spring of 1981.

A special thanks to Pastor and Mrs. Graffius for giving of their time to be with us. The love of God is truly visible in their lives. We pray God's blessings on them.

Day of Fasting and Prayer Held

los ANGELES, CA—Several months ago, our pastor, Charles Graffius, was asked by the General Council to consider becoming Executive Secretary of the denomination, to begin September 1981, after K.D. Hurley's resignation. Pastor Chuck has spent much time during these months, struggling with the question of whether or not to go to the Lord and seek the Lord's will, but receiving no clear leading whether to go or to stay. The Lord did not give him clear leading to seek a "multitude of counsellors" and to present the options to our church body to be the custodian of a day of fasting and prayer.

Next we scattered into small groups throughout the church and fellowship hall, for further discussion and prayer. Later, returning to the Sanctuary, we listened as a few more shared their feelings and insights. Then we formed a prayer circle, with several praying for the Lord's guidance, and His Will to be done. A smaller group withdrew to the Prayer Room with Pastor for further discussion. Pastor said he had clear leading now, but would first like to know what the Lord had said to others. Everyone agreed that the Lord seemed clearly early during the day of the prayer circle, that Pastor should remain at the L.A. church. This was confirmed when Pastor stated that he had had the same indication from the Spirit. When we returned to the Sanctuary to share this with the others, there was rejoicing, and further confirmation, as others, especially Anne Graffius, expressed the same feeling. Finally, we laid hands on Anne Graffius, with prayers for total restoration of her health. The joy of receiving such immediate and clear guidance from the Lord, will, we trust, encourage us to bring other matters before the Lord in such a way, more often in the future. Praise the Lord!—Victor H. Burdick

ONE HUNDRED SEVENTY-FIVE VERY MUCH ALIVE ORGANIZED IN 1805

LOST CREEK, W.V.—The Lost Creek, WV, Seventh Day Baptist Church has chosen the theme "175—Very Alive" for celebrating its 175th anniversary. This rural church, known to old-timers as the "Bick Church," represents 175 years in the annals of history which dates back to its organization, October 27, 1805.

The celebration is to be a one year project with emphasis each month during the year. The "kick-off" dates were October 2 through November 2, 1983. During the three evening services there were special evangelistic services with the Rev. Terry Ray (Methodist) from Canton, Ohio, as the speaker. Special music was presented each evening by local groups.

On Sabbath day, November 1, following the morning prayer service, Pastor Charles Graffius, President of the Seventh Day Baptist General Conference was guest speaker. The afternoon service included recognition of former pastors and families, fifty-year plus members, a historical slide presentation and a presentation leading to the "Decade of Discipleship" by Dr. K.D. Hurley, Executive Secretary of the denomination. A dedication of the bell from the Glembril SDB Church was held. The bell now rings out each Sabbath from the Lost Creek church.

On Sunday an "open house" was featured for the surrounding communities. Dinner was served by the Ladies Aid Society. A historical slide presentation was given throughout the afternoon and visits were made to the sites of the old VanHorn, Frame Church, and the Brick Church Cemeteries.

The church has purchased a historical display cabinet in which these items of interest will be displayed: a Bible presented by Walter B. Gillette, missionary, at the church dedication in 1872; a Communion set used when everyone drank from a common cup; pictures of all former pastors, student, associate and interim pastors, and a picture of Orlene and Lucille Bond, former missionaries to Jamaica; a pulpit from the now extinct Roanoke church which was refurbished and used during the celebration.

The church has the following goals for this year of celebration: attain spiritual and numerical growth, improve our visibility and identity and improve our inter-church relationships. —Leland Bond Pastor Church has spent much time during these months, struggling in prayer, seeking the Lord's will but receiving no clear leading whether to go or to stay. The Lord did, however, give him clear leading to seek on the "multiplied of counselors and present the offering to our church body in the context of the day of fasting and prayer.

Therefore on Sabbath, September 27, our church did just that. Following Worship and Sabbath School, we offered a "Thanksgiving Offering" to our Sanctuary, in which Pastor was involved. The job was completed and the responsibilities of the office of Executive Secretary were clearly presented, along with Pastor's experience and gifts which qualify him for this responsibility. The projects, visions, and challenges of the continuing pastor of the Los Angeles church for the next few years were also presented, along with the need for a fuller commitment of time, talent, energies, and resources of all of us, whether Pastor Church remained or not. In the discussion and question period, many expressed a great love for Pastor and Anne; but yielding everything to whatever the Holy Spirit decided was best.

We next scattered into small groups throughout the church and fellowship hall, for further discussion and prayer. Later, returning to the Sanctuary, we listened as a few more shared their feelings and insights. Then we formed a prayer circles, with several praying for the Lord's guidance, and His Will to be done. A smaller group withdrew to the Prayer Room with Pastor for further discussion. Pastor said he had clear leading now, but would first like to know what the Lord said to do. Everyone agreed that the Lord seemed to speak clearly during the time of the prayer circle, that Pastor should remain at the L.A. church. This was confirmed when Pastor stated that he had had the same indication from the Spirit. When we returned to the Sanctuary to share this with the others, there was rejoicing, and further confirmation, as others, especially Anna Graffius, expressed the same feeling. Finally, we laid hands on Anna Graffius, with prayers for total restoration of her health. The joy of receiving such immediate and clear guidance from the Lord will, we trust, encourage us to bring other matters before the Lord in a way, more often in the future. Praise the Lord. —Victor H. Burdick

ASHAWAY, RI—After a very busy summer we are settling into the fall routine. Attendance has increased sharply.

The Ladies Aid has held its semi-annual Rummage Sale, which is considered a community service. The leftovers after the sale are given to our local thrift shop, operated to help the needy, not for profit.

The Stewardship Board is preparing the annual budget and painting each Sunday on the Parish House. The work is progressing well.

The Christian Education Board is considering special interest classes for the quarter starting in December. Sabbath School attendance has risen significantly since vacation.

The Evangelism Board had been very busy summer, working with the Free Family Seminars. The speakers: Clifford Vendell on Finance, Linda Harris on Nutrition, John Coduri on Physical Fitness and Kevin Coleman on Parent-Child Relationships were excellent. The week ended with a musical concert on Sabbath night by Kevin Coleman. We were disappointed by the poor attendance but those that came were blessed over and over.

We had a tent from the National Guard erected on the front lawn of the Parent-Child Meeting House and held meetings under it when possible. One problem was that the meetings were held too late in the season; it was cold and damp. We learned and understood we were planning another series for next year.

SEVENTH DAY BAPTIST TRAINING INSTITUTE

THE PHILIPPINES—The seminar is over and it was a wonderful success. God is teaching me that success is guaranteed when the ministry belongs to Him. Once again we had the full compliment of nine pastors. I planned to discuss the cults and also focus on exegesis, trying to help the pastors get the meaning from a text of Scripture. I had learned from our previous seminar how much material to try to cover so it went a lot better.

On each of the four afternoons we discussed "What is a Cult?," "Mormons—Jehovah’s Witnesses," and "Islam." Because there is not material available in Cebuano, all of the material had to be presented orally. We had eight or nine hours each day when I was either presenting material or leading discussion.

Though this part of the seminar went quite well, the best part of the seminar was the part that was completely unplanned. They had questions and problems which came from their felt needs in their ministries. I learned that flexibility is vitally important in seminars here in order that the felt needs of the pastors are met when we meet together.

At the close of the seminar, I gave each pastor a copy of the lecture notes which were presented to them. I did that on the first seminar and on this one. I have composed over 200 pages of materials since being here in the Philippines.

From October 25 through the month of November, I will be visiting churches, I will travel for 3 extended weekends. Please pray for my good health so that I can meet all of these commitments.

Missionary Rodney Henry

FORMER MEMBERS REMEMBERED

RICHBURG, NY—Sabbath Day May 31, 1980 was a special day for members and friends when a dedication service was held to hallow the memory of several former members.

A new Baldwin organ was dedicated to the memory of Gertrude J. Burrows, Mabel Davidson, Howard Tuttle, George W. Saunders, Nettie Bottoms, and Genevieve M. Stohl. Appropriate selections and hymns played by the organist, Onnalee Saunders, brought out the variations of sounds which add to the weekly worship services.

A cabinet to display the Communion pieces was dedicated to the memory of Blanche L. Clarke who served on the diaconate for fifty years. New drop ceiling and lights were dedicated to the memory of Genevieve M. Stohl who joined the church in 1925.

At the annual church meeting in October the following officers were elected: Moderator—Robert Stohl, Assistant Moderator—James Pitts, Clerk—Ruth Bottoms, Treasurer—Wesley McCrea, Organist—Onnalee Saunders, Choir Director—Grace McCrea, Trustee for three years—Willard Cass. Rev. David S. Clarke serves as Interim Pastor.

The congregation moved to Hebron, PA in early October to attend the ordination service of Steven Crouch, pastor of the Hebron and Little Geneee churches. Robert Stohl, Onnalee Saunders and Thelma Steners were delegates on the Ordination Council on Friday evening. In addition to the inspirational service God's beauty showed forth in the hills surrounding the church and along the highway.

The Allegheny Association met at Richburg for a beautiful fall weekend and a meaningful service in mid-October. Rev. and Mrs. Leon L. Lawton presented sides of Rodney and Camille Henry and their work in the Philippines. Four members of the Toronto church also attended. The young people accompanied by Nelson and Amanda Snyder spent Friday night at the Little Geneee Community Building.

Physical improvements are being made in the church basement and at the parsonage. A classroom has been paneled and carpeted and the entire dining room walls and floor painted. Insulation for the attic and rewiring in the parsonage have been contracted.

We request your prayers that we may soon have a pastor in the parsonage for the church family and its outreach.

RECORER REACTIONS

While going through another publication I came across an article written by you on "Seven Day Baptist," I was intrigued with it as I too am a believer in the seventh-day Sabbath. I am enclosing a check and would like to receive your monthly publication. I also would like to know if there are any Seventh Day Baptists in or around Charleston, SC—and if not has any attempt been made to start a church here?

May the Lord bless you.

POINTS TO PONDER

We're talking this month about the Gospel according to Paul, taken from his Epistle to the Romans.

Many are uncomfortable with Paul's teaching about being "justified freely by His grace." Such a "cheap" salvation, they fear, allows sins to continue, since escaping a death penalty costs us nothing.

But salvation isn't cheap, it's just free. The letters that spell grace, G-R-A-C-E, can stand for 5 words, "God's Riches At Christ's Expense." *GRACE—God's Riches At Christ's Expense! In Romans 12:1 Paul urges us, "in view of God's mercy, offer your bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God." I like The Living Bible paraphrase of this verse: "When you think ofwhat he has done for you, is this too much to ask?"

There's GRACE—God's Riches At Christ's Expense! If you haven't already accepted His Salvation as a free (but expensive) gift, why not do it right now!□

God. If you want to see what the mind of God looks like, look at the Son Christ, whom we have lived here among men. The mind of God has become a Person—and you can see it in Jesus.□

The second meaning of "logos" is word, as the King James Bible and others translate it. What is the simplest definition of a word? "A word is the expression of a thought." First, we think, then we express our thoughts and ideas in words. So, it is as if John was saying, "The Word of God became a Person. If you want to see the expression of the thought God, you want to see what God is thinking, look at Jesus."□

"The Word became flesh and dwelt among us," is the Good News of Christmas. All this wraps up the entire Gospel message of the love of God expressed in Jesus Christ, His life and teachings, His atoning death for our sins, and His second coming to let us know He is the Son of God with power. Jesus is the Logos—the very expression of the mind of God and for that reason we know He cares and loves us and shares our experiences and provides for us to be His very own through Jesus.

This is the real meaning of Christmas! As those who have found Him to be our own Lord and Savior, we remember one name given to Him at His birth was Emmanuel—"God with us." Emmanuel tells us that God loves us—that He loved the world and still loves. He is still seeking out every man and woman on earth to share that love through His Son our Redeemer and Lord.

Christmas is not a matter of tinsel and gifts—it is not a matter of a date on the annual calendar. It is the commemoration of the event that changes all circumstances but not under others. Accepting abortion in cases of fetal abnormality is implying that God's love is limited to those who are normal, and I, for one, pray that isn't true.

If Seventh Day Baptists are going to take a stand on abortion, my hope is that it would be an unadulterated position, not one that contains enough if's, and or buts to weaken the central idea. As it stands, this is not a statement against abortion. If Seventh Day Baptists are going to take a negative stand on abortion it should read:

"Abortion is the taking of innocent human life. The Seventh Day Baptist General Conference supports whatever legal steps may be necessary to restore protection to the lives of the unborn."□

The one fact I realized most vividly this month was that the old cliché that 'children are a trust from the Lord' is so true. We are entrusted to train them, protect and support them and then let go of them. The letting go may be the most difficult task we're ever called upon to do. I'm sure 'letting go' of Jesus even to the point of death was the most difficult task Mary had.

When Cyrenius Was Governor

throughout the world and across the centuries to give light and hope to all mankind.

Such is the nature of God's plan which may touch each one of us. None of us is widely known throughout the world. Our children are born with little notice outside the family, but in God's plan the small may be made great. None of us can be a Christ, but we can be made Christ-like. Those who live Christly lives will be in heaven and earth far longer than those who at the time may be in the realm of power.

Yes, Caesar Augustus was emperor, Cyrenius was governor and Herod was king, but there was born in Bethlehem in a stable with a manger for a crib, a baby. And in the baby rested the hopes and joys of the world. What a wonderful plan of salvation our God has given to us!□

Support the March of Dimes

Decade of Discipleship

Four people in the Salem, West Virginia, church have participated in a DECISION TO DISCIPLE by promoting and assisting with Discipleship groups. I am hoping that we can continue the groups that have been meeting and begin a new group. Quoting my last report, I believe that Decision to Discipleship has great possibilities for our church.

It is undoubtedly not the only answer to all of our needs, but we have already seen that it holds great possibilities.□

If the present plans are carried out, two of the four persons now studying together will become leaders of new groups.

We urge churches who have not become involved in the DECISION TO DISCIPLE movement to find dedicated persons who will join together for study and fellowship to strengthen the work of your church.□

A Christmas Meditation for the Entire Family

by Linda Harris

A child’s gift, made with care, means so much to a mother. She keeps it and cherishes it for the rest of her life. The gift a father lovingly makes for wood or a mother makes from cloth is precious, too. A thoughtful gift from a good friend makes the friendship even sweeter. All these gifts are great but they fade in comparison with the greatest gift ever given.

Centuries ago, a young couple made loving preparations for their soon-expected child. The mother carefully prepared the clothes that would be used to wrap the baby after birth. Perhaps her husband carefully constructed a cradle for the child. But all their preparations were unexpectedly disrupted by the necessity of making a trip to another city to be registered for a census. The strips of cloth were carefully packed, but the cradle stayed at home, waiting for their return.

After a long tiring journey, the couple finally arrived at their destination, only to find there were no rooms for them. Wearily they sought a place to rest, for the baby was about to arrive. It would not do to have a baby born in the streets, so in their loving preparation they searched until they found a stable in which the child was to be born. Theirs was the gift of loving preparation. But it was not the greatest gift.

In nearby fields, shepherds spent the night caring for their sheep. They must have fought off sleep as they kept their watch. But sleep vanished quickly as an angel appeared in the sky, bringing them good news of a Savior’s birth. And there was not only one angel, but numbers of angels, singing praises to God. These lowly shepherds had never heard such music. Indeed, no human had heard such a chorus as this! This certainly was a great gift—the music of the angels. But it was not the greatest gift.

Full of excitement and somewhat dazed, the shepherds followed the angel’s instructions and made their way to the stable where they found the baby. Clearly, this was no ordinary baby. Perhaps they stood near the entrance, feeling dirty and inferior, until the mother invited them to come closer. In amazement they gazed at the infant. They could not take their eyes from Him. The shepherds, in their simplicity, gave the gift of wonder. But this also was not the greatest gift.

As the baby was born, an unusual star appeared in the sky. Wise men from a distant country observed it and began following it. They knew that this star had a special meaning and they were intrigued by it. They went to the place where it shone, and there they found the babe. They gave gifts to Him, the best they could give. But these were still not the greatest given.

Those who gathered around the infant surely received a gift from Him. And we today may also receive the gift of joy from Him. No person who has drawn close to the Savior can remain unchanged. His joy permeates the lives of those close to Him. His gift of joy is great.

But the greatest gift did not come from the babe. He is the greatest gift, the son of a peasant woman, adored by shepherds, announced by angels, worshipped by wise men—our Savior. The greatest gift came from God. He gave the Light of the World. His was the first Christmas gift. Our gifts are only a symbol of that gift. No one can ever give a gift to compare with the greatest gift. We should not try, because we cannot outdo God. But in appreciation for His great gift, we can give our small but meaningful gifts to Him.

Like Mary and Joseph, we can give the gift of loving preparation. Advent is the time to prepare for His coming. The angels gave the gift of music. We too can make a joyful noise to Him, no matter how it sounds. As the shepherds gave the gift of wonder, we can also spend quiet times pondering His greatness. Like wise men, we can give our best to Him. And the gift that pleases Him most is expressed in this verse by Christina Rossetti:

What can I give Him,
Poor as I am?
If I were a shepherd
I would bring a lamb.
If I were a wise man
I would do my part.
Yet what can I give Him?
Give my heart.

James Dunn Chosen To Lead Baptist Joint Committee

WASHINGTON—James M. Dunn, for the past 12 years director of the Christian Life Commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, was elected unanimously here as new executive director of the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs.

The 48-year-old Texas native will assume the top post of the Washington-based organization on Jan. 1, 1981.

Dunn's election followed the unanimous recommendation of a ten-person search committee charged with finding a successor to James E. Wood, Jr., who left the Washington position June 1 to return to the faculty of Baylor University, Waco, Texas.

Responding to his election, Dunn promised an "aggressive, broad-based" approach to government relations by the Baptist Joint Committee, an agency supported jointly by eight Baptist conventions and five theological seminaries.

He declared his first priority as "faithfulness to religious liberty and church-state separation" and said that Dunn's attention to religious liberty, world hunger, aging and family life.

An ordained minister, the Fort Worth native earned a B.A. from Texas Wesleyan College, B.D. and Th.D. degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, and a Ph.D. from the University of London.

He currently serves as a trustee of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. In addition, Dunn currently serves on the advisory council of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, as national board member of Bread for the World, and on the governing board of the Intergovernmental Task Force on U.S. Food Policy.

Dunn has co-authored or contributed to four books and written for a number of journals and periodicals. He is a correspondent for Sojourner magazine and has been a guest editorial writer for the Dallas Times-Herald.

The Texas Baptist executive director and instructor of Bible at West Texas State University, and pastor and associate pastor of three Texas Baptist churches.

James H. Landes, executive director of the Baptist Joint Committee, declared, "James Dunn has made unique and outstanding contributions in applied Christianity." Landes specifically cited Dunn's attention to religious liberty, world hunger, aging and family life.

Son Rejects Mother's Teachings

It certainly isn't often that we would encourage a son or daughter to go contrary to the wishes of the parent. However, we join with many others in some satisfaction to learn that the son of outspoken atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hare, now thirty-three years old, has rejected the anti-God movement of his mother.

It was in 1963 that a suit, filed on behalf of William Murray, resulted in an end to prayer in the public schools. At the time William was sixteen years old. In a recent statement he says he feels partly responsible for the "destruction of the moral fiber" of American youth.

"Looking back on the thirty-three years of life I wasted with my family. They made me an atheist. I would rather have been a Christian than an atheist."
