Who are Seventh Day Baptists?

If you've never read The Sabbath Recorder before, you might be wondering who Seventh Day Baptists are. Like other Baptists, we believe:

- the saving love of Jesus Christ,
- the Bible as the inspired word of God and a record of God's will for men. The Bible is our authority both for our faith and our daily conduct.
- freedom of thought under the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

The seventh day

God commanded that the seventh day (Saturday) be kept holy. Jesus agreed "by keeping it as a day of worship. We observe the seventh day of the week (Saturday) as God's Holy Day as an act of loving obedience—not as a means of salvation. Salvation is the free gift of God through Jesus Christ.

It is the joy of the Sabbath that makes Seventh Day Baptists just a little bit different. If you would like more information, write: Seventh Day Baptist Center, 3120 Kennedy Road, PO Box 1678, Janesville, WI 53547-1678. Phone (608) 752-5055; FAX (608) 752-7711.
Experience the New Life
by Dennis L. Palmer

The atomic bomb that dropped on Hiroshima on August 6, 1945, was due to an error in communication, according to Coughlin’s report. An even greater miscarriage in communication occurs when one is asked a very simple question: “How can you become a Christian?”

• I became a Christian—that is, born again—when I was baptized.
• You become a Christian and can go to heaven when you keep all the commandments of God, go to church every Sabbath, and work real hard at being good.
• You are a Christian if you are sincere in what you believe.
• A Christian is one who is a member of a church.
• You become a Christian by loving Jesus.

None of the above answers are correct; yet these are the common answers that people give to the question of how one can receive eternal life. What is your answer?

Man is a sinner
Romans 3:23 says, “For all have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God.” We are all guilty of sin. We have all done something that does not please God. We have all spoken words that do not please God. We have all done something that does not please God. We have all spoken words that do not please God. We have all spoken words that do not please God.

The consequence of those who continue in their sins is that they will be thrown into the “lake of fire and brimstone” (Revelation 20:10, 15; 21:8). This is the outpouring of God’s wrath which will be inflicted without any pity (see Isaiah 66:15 and Revelation 19:15). The furnace of hell is prepared.

Consider the danger you are in if you are at odds with God. As Jonathan Edwards preached in his sermon, “Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God,” you are like a man hanging “by a slender thread, with flames of divine wrath flashing about it, and ready every moment to suge it” and to drop you off into a spitfire that far exceeds the unmerciful disaster in Hiroshima.

The natural man is headed for hell
The natural man has an inclination which is sinful and hostile to God (Romans 3:10-18). God will punish sin (“I will by no means leave the guilty unpunished,” Exodus 34:7).

The consequence of those who continue in their sins is that they will be thrown into the “lake of fire and brimstone” (Revelation 20:10, 15; 21:8). This is the outpouring of God’s wrath which will be inflicted without any pity (see Isaiah 66:15 and Revelation 19:15). The furnace of hell is prepared.

Consider the danger you are in if you are at odds with God. As Jonathan Edwards preached in his sermon, “Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God,” you are like a man hanging “by a slender thread, with flames of divine wrath flashing about it, and ready every moment to suge it” and to drop you off into a spitfire that far exceeds the unmerciful disaster in Hiroshima.

The Christian is going to heaven
In this life, we do not have much to show in terms of material gain. No matter how rich you may be, your wealth is small in comparison to heaven itself and the New Jerusalem—that city of gold with its purely gates, its streets of gold, and its jasper walls (Revelation 21:18, 21).

God’s promise to those who are Christians is that He is going to give them an “inheritance which is imperishable and undefiled and will not fade away, reserved in heaven for you” (1 Peter 1:4).

The good news is that God loves you, dear friend, and He wants to give you eternal life. The door of heaven is open to you. The problem is that many people try to obtain eternal life by their own efforts.

Man cannot work his way to heaven
Eternal life cannot be earned or deserved. Romans 6:23 says, “For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.” Wages are what we earn and rightly deserve, but eternal life is a gift which cannot be earned because it is priceless.

Imagine that you were given a priceless piece of art—the Mona Lisa. Just think how much you would offend the wealthy donor if afterwards you tried to pay for the Mona Lisa by giving him a dime. Trying to pay God for eternal life by your works is an insult to God. It is like offering God one cent for all the heavenly mansions and streets of pure gold.

Man simply cannot work his way to heaven. That is why Titus 3:5 says that God “saved us, not on the basis of deeds... but according to His mercy.” Ephesians 2:8-9 also calls salvation a “gift of God,” and this gift is “not as a result of works” so that no one will have anything to brag about.

Heaven is a free gift from God, but you must receive this gift.

Man needs to know something about God
Salvation is of the Lord. Since it is from God, we need to understand something about God. The Bible says that God is One, yet He manifests Himself in three persons: God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit.

This unity of three persons within the Godhead is called the Trinity. Christians express their belief in the Trinity in their hymns. One old hymn declares that God is “Holy, Holy, Holy! Mereiful and mighty! God in three Persons, blessed Trinity!”

Man needs to know something about Jesus Christ
In order to receive the free gift of eternal life, we need to understand more fully about the nature of Jesus. Jesus Christ is fully God and fully man. John 1 speaks of Jesus as the divine Word who existed with the Father from eternity: “In the beginning was the Word [Jesus Christ], and the Word was with God, and the Word was God... and the Word [Jesus Christ] became flesh and dwelt among us.” As God, He was equal with the Father: “For unless you believe that I am He [God], you shall die in your sins” (John 8:24).

On the human side, Jesus was born into this world. He had a mother whose name was Mary. But His birth was supernatural. He did not have a natural father; He was conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the virgin Mary.

Jesus lived a perfect life. He did not sin. 1 Peter 2:22 says that no “deceit was found in His mouth.” Hebrews 4:15 explains that Jesus “has been tempted in all things as we are, yet without sin.”

Jesus Christ died on the cross for our sins and thus bridged the gap between God and man (see below).

Romans 6:8 says that “while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.” Before we manifested our love towards Christ, He died for us because He freely loves us.

Jesus points out the type of selfless love demonstrated when an airplane plunged into the icy Potomac River. Five times the line from the rescue helicopter was lowered within the man’s reach, and five times he passed the line to a struggling fellow passenger. When the line was dropped for the sixth time, the man was gone. He, like Christ, died for others so that they might live.

Jesus Christ, in His death, blot­ted out all of our sins. Colossians 2:14 says that Christ made you alive with Him “having forgiven all our transgressions, having can­celed out the certificate of debt... and He has taken it out of the way, having died to the cross.”

Jesus has written across the long list of our sins, “The blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin” (1 John 1:7). Isaiah 53:6 even says, “All we like sheep have gone astray; each of us have turned to his own way, but the Lord has caused the iniquity of us all to fall on Him [Christ].” When Jesus died, God laid on Him all our sin and guilt. Jesus canceled our sin debt on the cross.

Jesus also arose from the dead to give us eternal life. Romans 4:25 says that Jesus “was delivered up because of our transgressions, and was raised because of our justification.” He has ascended into heaven where He is now seated at the right hand of the Father.

His sure promise is that He will “come again and receive you,” so that “where one [Christ] am, there you may be also” (John 14:3). How­ever, if you are going to heaven, you must receive Christ.

Man needs to receive Christ
We receive the gift of eternal life by faith. Ephesians 2:8 says, “For by grace you have been saved through faith.” No works can save you, dear friend, but repentance is included in the act of believing.

1. The necessity of repentance

Repentance is the first step to receiving Christ. Luke 13:5,5 says, “I tell you... unless you repent, you will all likewise perish.” Repentance is a change of mind; it is looking at your own sin as God views it. You repent by turning from your sin and turning to Christ. You repent by confessing your sins before God and acknowledging before Him that you are a sinner and in need of His forgiveness. You say, “I am sorry for all my wrong-doing,” and then you turn from your sins to Christ.

Repentance is making a U-turn in your life. You were once headed on the highway of sin leading to destruction, and now you make a U-turn onto the highway of heaven leading to eternal life.

2. Saving faith

We receive the gift of eternal life by faith. Ephesians 2:8,9 says, “For by grace you have been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God; not as the result of works that no one should boast.” Faith opens the channel through which grace becomes operative. Eternal life becomes ours through faith.

Acts 16:31 clearly indicates that we become a Christian by placing our trust in Jesus Christ. “Believe [trust, have faith] in the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved.” The same message is in Romans 10:13, “For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life.” One becomes a Christian by trusting Jesus Christ alone for his salvation.

“Faith” is an old and threadbare term. Faith, for many of us, may mean that we will trust the Lord with our finances, or for good health. Some would understand this term to mean trusting in the Lord’s guidance while traveling or making family decisions. But all these types of faith are temporal because they are placed in temporal objects.

Saving faith is trusting Jesus for your salvation. In other words, saving faith is relying upon Christ’s complete work on the cross to give you eternal life.

John 3:16, “For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life.” The passage in John 3:16, “For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life.” This verse is also the beginning of the same message in John 3:16, “For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life.”

In receiving Christ, you must repent of your sins and turn to God. You must transfer your trust from yourself to Christ who died for you.

All your sins are to be laid upon Jesus. He has already paid your sin debt. Now let Him take charge of your life. Place yourself in the hands of Christ. Let Him be your Ruler and King.

Accept God’s gift of eternal life. Lay hold of eternal life by trusting in Christ alone for your salvation. Take a few moments to repent of your sins and pray for Christ to come into your life:

Father, I pray for the gift of eternal life. Dear Lord, you know all the secret sins of the heart and mind. I turn to you by faith, and the gift of eternal life.

Lord Jesus, take over my life. I am a sinner. I renounce my sin and ask you to forgive me of all of my sins. I transfer my trust from myself to Jesus. I now place my trust in you.

I accept you as my personal Lord who died for me, and it is my desire to serve you for the rest of my life. I thank you for giving me eternal life. Amen.

If this prayer was the sincere desire of your heart, then you can know that you have received eternal life. John 6:47 says, “Truly, truly, I say to you, he who believes has eternal life.” Take time to see the change in your life you have received with someone you know.

The results of receiving Christ is that he will follow Him, and your local Seventh Day Baptist church can guide you in your new life.

3. Deciding to follow Jesus

You may wonder what role good works play in the Christian life. When you repent, you turn away from your sin and turn to God. Consequently, repentance involves the acceptance of Jesus as Lord of your life. You desire to put Him first in your life and obey His commandments.

Good works are thus the result of a saved relationship with Christ, and not the means by which one receives eternal life. My willingness to follow Christ is simply like any big “thank you” for the love that Christ has shown me in dying on the cross for my sins and giving me eternal life.

Pray to receive Christ

Perhaps you, dear friend, have always depended upon your good works to save you. But now God is reaching out in love, through Jesus, that you might have eternal life and be saved from hell.

In receiving Christ, you must repent of your sins and turn to God. You must transfer your trust from yourself to Christ who died for you.

All your sins are to be laid upon Jesus. He has already paid your sin debt. Now let Him take charge of your life. Place yourself in the hands of Christ. Let Him be your Ruler and King.

Accept God’s gift of eternal life. Lay hold of eternal life by trusting in Christ alone for your salvation. Take a few moments to repent of your sins and pray for Christ to come into your life:

Father, I pray for the gift of eternal life. Dear Lord, you know all the secret sins of the heart and mind. I turn to you by faith, and the gift of eternal life.

Lord Jesus, take over my life. I am a sinner. I renounce my sin and ask you to forgive me of all of my sins. I transfer my trust from myself to Jesus. I now place my trust in you.

I accept you as my personal Lord who died for me, and it is my desire to serve you for the rest of my life. I thank you for giving me eternal life. Amen.

As some of you know, I traveled to Jamaica again this year. Before I tell you about my trip, I would like to send a big “thank you” to all those who supported me with donations. Without them, I wouldn’t have been able to do the Lord’s work that I believe He has asked me to do. The Lord bless you richly.

I had traveled to Jamaica in the summer of 1995, and spent three weeks with Pastor Joe and Sister Joyce Saunders. I helped with Confer­ence reports and VBS at the Jamaican Conference. It was an ex­perience that I will never forget.

The first year, everything was so new—people, food, climate, condi­tions, you name it! And when I was taking off in the plane to return home, all I could do was cry, and say to myself, “I probably would never get back that way again. I was going to miss it all!”

Oh ye of little faith.” I thought I was doing the same thing this year—only more so! (That is, taking off from the airport to fly home and cry and cry. I did not want to have to do it again.) There is so much work to be done, and I felt that I did such a small part.

Have you heard of the Jamaican “Maiden Hill” project? The project is to plant coffee and banana tree seedlings to earn money for the Da­memian SDB Conference, Inc. Then they would be more self-sufficient and rely less on others. Small cash crops, such as Irish potatoes and other vegetables, are to be planted, and when harvested, sold for cash to purchase the tree seedlings.

I believed then, and even today, that the Lord wants me involved with this project. So, I set out to do something about it. I knew that I didn’t have the money to flat out give to the Missionary Society for this purpose, so I checked into the possibility of obtaining seeds to send, or take with me, for use in that project.

Well, I found a seed company that was more than willing to don­ate seed to this cause. They are called ECHO, out of Ft. Meyers, Fla. They are a non-profit missions oriented company that will donate seed for projects such as this, as long as the person is willing to pay the postage.

I couldn’t pass this up! They sent me over 400 packages of various vegetable and herb seed, along with about eight pounds of peas and bean seed. You should have seen my suitcase!

Besides all the seed packets, the Toronto (Canada) SDB Church do­nated office and school supplies. Thank you, Toronto. That was one suitcase; the other held music and my clothes. You never think you are taking very much, until you have to carry it from one terminal to another...

Even at this point, I had not left yet and was not sure that it was worth all the hassles of preparing to leave my home and job for a month. I said to myself, “Well, I have the plane tickets so I must go, but this will be my last year.”

The plan was to meet Sister Joyce Saunders at the Miami, Fla., airport and fly the rest of the way to Kingston, Jamaica.

We arrived in Kingston on time, and had no problems in Im­migration or getting our baggage. Next was customs—not my most favorite place to have to go through. We got up to the line and were waiting for our turn. I started to look in my purse for my keys to the suitcases, just in case they wanted to open them. (Last year, they didn’t.) I was getting frantic; I could not find the keys!

Then it dawned on me that they were back in New York on my key chain, which my husband, Bob, had in his possession. “Great!” I thought. “Now they will have to break the locks, and one of the suit­cases is my sister-in-law’s. Every­thing went just fine today until now. Why, Lord?”

It was our turn to go through. They asked us the usual questions, “What is in your luggage? etc.” I told them church supplies and mus­ic, plus clothes, and that I just discovered that my keys were left at home in New York State. I asked that they not break the locks, espe­cially on my sister-in-law’s suit­case.

Well, they didn’t open anything except my basket with canned food.
The opening service commenced with Pastor Joe giving his message, "A Blessed Hope." "If this was the start of Conference," I was saying, "we are in for a great week."

On Wednesday, daily Vacation Bible School started. Though a smaller number of children participated this year because of summer school, there were still about 25 children in attendance. Sister Chambers was the director. I helped with the music this year. It was special. We learned new songs for worship that the children sang for the Conference at the end of the week. Hopefully, they will return to their churches and teach others the songs. There are so many talented children with really good voices.

During each day, Wednesday through Friday, Pastor Joe Samuel gave a morning Bible Study on Revelation 15: "The Beauty and the Beast." What an eye opener! Then Friday evening came, and just when I thought that we all had been blessed richly, the Kingston Young People's group put on a drama, written by a Brother Karl. As if Revelation 13 Bible Study wasn't enough, the drama made me nearly speechless. All I can say is, if those who were unsaved, or even those who were and really hadn't been able to understand the book of Revelation, they would have had to know what this drama was about. Remarkable, to say the least!

Sabbath Day was a special day of worship, music, and fellowship, with the message titled, "We Shall Be Like Him," given by Pastor C. Ferguson.

Sunday, the last official day of Conference, started out with a baptism in which money is raised by everyone's admission fee, plus in other fun ways, such as paying a singer to either stop or repeat their performance. All the money raised is used to help with the expenses of the Jamaica SDB Conference.

I was certainly blessed! The week had been so fulfilling. I sang in the Conference choir and did special music with the help of Brother Tony Higgins and Pastor Ben McLean. Listening to the messages, hearing the music, and seeing the growth of "groups" into official churches, I felt, "Yes, the Lord is working mightily in Jamaica."

There were strong thoughts going through my head all the week as I listened to the groups of singers and the other musicians. I even mentioned to Brother Tony an idea that was on my mind. So many of the people that are involved with music do not know how to read the music they play. Don't get me wrong, they really can play and sing wonderfully. But music lessons are not affordable to most people in Jamaica, and the schools do not have good music programs like the schools here in the states. So Tony and I talked about the possibility of a project or a workshop involving the lead musicians and choir directors from the SDB churches on the island. He said it sounded like something that was needed.

I said that we would have to talk with Pastor Ben, who is more in charge of Conference music. Pastor Ben arrived on Friday, and we only briefly mentioned the idea. Without any details, we just thought that we three should get together back in Kingston, after Conference, and have a meeting to discuss the subject further.

On the last Wednesday I was there, we had our meeting at Pastor Joe's house. Brother Tony could not attend as he had to be elsewhere. Pastor Ben and I started the meeting with a time of prayer. Then we discussed the possibility of a "workshop" for those in the music ministry at SDB churches. But I wasn't even planning on coming back next year! The Lord was telling me, "You are not done working down here yet." As we showed each other the outlines of what the workshop should include, and a tentative four-day schedule, we sat back in amazement. It was almost word-for-word an exact duplicate of the other's outline! We hadn't discussed it or even each other's written ideas until that time. We now believe this is truly what the Lord would have us do and are actively working toward that goal.

I was asked to write a syllabus for the intensive, 48-hour training program, to be held most likely in August 1994. This will include the basics of reading music, the different keys, sharps, flats, vocal music, etc. The workshop will start out with a day spent in the Bible, studying on why music is in the church.

Training would include hands-on participation with piano or keyboard, and any other instrument used. Also vocal training will be given to choir directors or vocal groups. We would accept 30-35 participants for this first year (1994) into the program. We plan to have the workshop either at the Kingston SDB Church or at Maiden Hall, if accommodations will be suitable. Also, we know there is a need for a van to transport the music and sound equipment. (See box.)

I will also be trying to raise funds for the trip to Jamaica and next year's project. Sure, I wasn't going next year, but the Lord said, "GO!"

Transportation costs will most likely be up again this year. It cost me $611 for round-trip airfare this year, plus about $300 for costs while in Jamaica (bus fare, food, money towards gas for those over 7 years of age). I believe that I would need around $700 for airfare and $300 again for expenses while I am there for three or four weeks. If you are interested in making a donation for next year's Jamaican mini-mission project, or the Jamaican "van" project, you may write one check to: Jamaican Mini-Missions Project '94, c/o Susan W. Cartwright, 605 Streeer Brook Rd., Little Geneva, MI 49067. (For deductible purposes, make checks out to the Richburg SDB Church, with the memo area stating the Jamaican Mini-Missions Project '94.)

The ultimate goal through this project for 1994, as in everything else I try to do, is to glorify God, and hopefully to extend the saving knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. I thank you for all the help that will be received. Please keep this project in your prayers.
Pray around the world

To help you pray around the world, the following is a suggested guide, taken from the book, Operation World.

- Afghanistan—(652,000 sq. km.) War's devastation has brought immense suffering to the nation. An estimated 800,000 people have lost their lives. It will take decades to clear the 10-40 million mines and rebuild homes, schools, farms, and shattered lives. Pray for peace and deliverance from further tyrannies.

- Bahamas—(An archipelago of 700 coral islands between Florida and Cuba.) Under a religious veneer, society is sick. It has the highest rate of drug addiction in the world. Among Christians, commitment is low. Pray for revival.

- Cameroon—(Population: 11,245,000 in 1990.) Praise God for present religious freedom, church growth, and localized touch of revival.

- Ecuador—(Spanish-speaking 5.9%). Barriers to the Gospel are many—intellectualism, rationalism, widespread involvement in the occult, individualism, and a nodding acquaintance with institutional Catholicism.

- Hong Kong—(Major cities: Victoria, Kowloon.) The countdown to 1997 when it reverts to China dominates the thinking of all. Pray that politicians on both sides may act with wisdom and integrity before and after the handover.

- Laos—(Politics: Communist control despite economic liberalizations.) Pray that soon there may be permission to build a Bible school in the country.

- Malawi—(Religion: Christian 81.1%; Muslim 14.9%) Praise God for the relative peace and freedom for preaching the Gospel.

- Netherlands—(Over 30% is below sea level.) Pray for unity among Dutch Christians.

- Oman—(About 10% of the population and 70% of the work force are foreign.) Almost the entire Christian community is expatriate. Pray for a pure lifestyle.

- Paraguay—(Immigrant minorities: Gaucho 72,000; Italian 26,000; Ukrainian 26,000.) Pray for the government as it seeks to build the nation's institutions and infrastructure on the basis of democracy.

- Qatar—(Petroleum products are 82% of exports.) There were no Qatari Christians before 1985. Pray for the new believers' unity.

- Paraguay—(Immigrant minorities: Gaucho 72,000; Italian 26,000; Ukrainian 26,000.) Pray for the government as it seeks to build the nation's institutions and infrastructure on the basis of democracy.

- Qatar—(Petroleum products are 82% of exports.) There were no Qatari Christians before 1985. Pray for the new believers' unity.

- India—(Capital: New Delhi.) Calcutta is one of the biggest issues facing the nation. Pray that Christians may both preach and live by biblical standards.

- Jordan—(Unemployment over 20%) The Gulf War worsened Jordan's economic crisis and destabilized political life. Pray for the maintenance of religious freedom in the face of raising extremism among some Muslims.

- Kyrgyzstan—(Economy: based on wool, tobacco, cotton, and agricultural machinery.) The first Central Asian republic to break free from the USSR. Pray for spiritual freedom.

- Laos—(Politics: Communist control despite economic liberalizations.) Pray that soon there may be permission to build a Bible school in the country.

- Malawi—(Religion: Christian 81.1%; Muslim 14.9%) Praise God for the relative peace and freedom for preaching the Gospel.

- Netherlands—(Over 30% is below sea level.) Pray for unity among Dutch Christians.

- Oman—(About 10% of the population and 70% of the work force are foreign.) Almost the entire Christian community is expatriate. Pray for a pure lifestyle.

- Paraguay—(Immigrant minorities: Gaucho 72,000; Italian 26,000; Ukrainian 26,000.) Pray for the government as it seeks to build the nation's institutions and infrastructure on the basis of democracy.

- Qatar—(Petroleum products are 82% of exports.) There were no Qatari Christians before 1985. Pray for the new believers' unity.

- Jordan—(Unemployment over 20%) The Gulf War worsened Jordan's economic crisis and destabilized political life. Pray for the maintenance of religious freedom in the face of rising extremism among some Muslims.

- Kyrgyzstan—(Economy: based on wool, tobacco, cotton, and agricultural machinery.) The first Central Asian republic to break free from the USSR. Pray for spiritual freedom.

The gates of Hell will not prevail...

by Joel K. Osborn

"He [Jesus] asked, 'Who do you say I am?"

"Simon Peter answered, 'You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.'"

"Jesus replied, 'Blessed are you, Simon son of Jonah, for this was not revealed to you by man, but by my Father in heaven. And I tell you that you are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not overcome it'" (Matthew 16:15-18 NIV).

When things got rough, that last phrase above has always given me comfort. I could picture Christians sitting safely in the fortress of the Church, safe in the knowledge that Hell would not overcome their gates. All of them sitting comfortably around the fire swapping stories and drinking hot chocolate... But wait! That's not what the verse says. The verse says nothing about the gates of the Church standing up to attacks from Hell. Rather, it says that the gates of Hell will not overcome the Church.

I heard a radio preacher on my way home from work one day. He helped to shatter my mind. He made me rethink this passage. What sort of offensive weapon is a gate? Why would Christians have to worry about being overcome by the gates of Hell, if we are sitting, safe and secure, inside the gates of the Church?

That's the point. Gates are defensive. If the gates of Hell are not going to prevail, then they must be attacked. Christians must put on their full armor (Ephesians 6:10-18), put down their hot chocolate, and go out from behind the safe gates of the Church.

So what do we do with this newfound vision of this Scripture? That's up to each of us to settle with the Holy Spirit. Maybe we need to get involved in our schools and make sure our children are not getting their minds poisoned. We all need to be more aware of the spiritual warfare that exists around us. Instead of simply defending against it, we must move to drive the evil forces away.

For if the gates of Hell are not attacked, then they will prevail. But if we trust God and follow His will, we can be "more than conquerors through him who loved us" (Romans 8:37 NIV).

A musical Christmas in the Holy Land
by Lili Bylon

Bethlehem's Manger Square will once more resound with music from many lands this Christmas. Under the patronage of the vice president of the Fiji Islands, 100 singers of the Moa Choir from the island of Lau will come to the Holy Land to bring musical holiday greetings from their country.

So will some 100 Korean singers accompanied by a Korean television team. Their repertoire for the December 24th concert in Manger Square includes Christmas songs in Korean and English.

The United States will be represented by two choirs: the True Light Hyde Park Choir, with members from churches in the Chicago area, and the Sonlight Choir of the First Baptist Church in Orlando, Fla.

The Jerusalem Community Christian Choir represents temporary and permanent Christian residents of Jerusalem, originally from some 40 countries. This special choir, created only for Christmas, will also sing this year in Bethlehem.

"Each group is warmly welcomed," says Ohio-born Adina Hano, director of the Events Unit of the Israel Ministry of Tourism. The Unit has brought two dozen orchestral, choral, and folk-dance groups to entertain audiences in the Holy Land so far this year.

For many singers, the highlight event in Israel is the International Christmas Choir Assembly, which takes place each year in Bethlehem and Jerusalem. Singers from Scandinavia, England, Switzerland, the United States, Spain, Iceland, and Germany visit Israel year after year to perform in Manger Square on Christmas Eve.

While expenses incurred—flights, sightseeing, transportation, and other land arrangements—are borne by members of each group, the Israel Ministry of Tourism arranges a maximum of three performances in venues such as auditoriums, universities, churches, and academies of music throughout the country, and also provides for publicity through its regular channels. Choirs from abroad who wish to perform in Israel are advised to apply to the nearest Israel Government Tourist Office at least six months ahead of time. They should provide information concerning the size, repertoire, and composition of the choir, technical requirements, and preferred venues. They are also requested to furnish an audio-cassette recording of the choir.

Israel's musical tradition traces its beginnings to the Bible, to Jubal, father of all musicians, who played the lyre and pipe. King David, associated with the harp and the lyre, has been dubbed "the sweet singer of Israel." Musicians were highly honored in biblical times, ranking in prestige after kings and priests. They were exempt from labor and payment of tribute, and were maintained by the state.

The Israel of today is known for its many-faceted and much-appreciated musical life. Indeed, the "Land of Milk and Honey" can also be called the "Land of Music."

And whatever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks through Him to God the Father" (Colossians 3:17 NASB).

This past March, I sent out questionnaires to our Seventh Day Baptist women's groups. It was exciting to receive their answers and learn about the various ministries our Seventh Day Baptist women are involved in.

Many of our women provide services for their local church. They paint, clean, make curtains and drapes, serve or host fellowship meals, teach Sabbath School, sing in the choir, and contribute in other ways to keep the local church vital and active.

It's especially exciting to hear how Seventh Day Baptist women are ministering in their communities and reaching out to others.

One woman said, "We have a small church community. The women are actively involved in reaching out to the community through the church and our community service organization." Another said, "We have a women's group that meets regularly to plan outreach activities for our church and the community. We have volunteered to help with local events and have donated food to those in need."

The women of several of our churches have hosted retreats and invited local women to participate. The Portland, Ore., group planned a women's retreat in June, and Dodge Center, Minn., and Verona, N.Y., hosted retreats led by Mary Jane McPherson and Althea Rood. What a wonderful way to reach out to the women of your community by inviting them to a special weekend of blessing and sharing!

The Richburg, N.Y., women participate in a community World Day of Prayer service, and they help support the distribution of the Upper Room magazine to all women in their church. The women from the First SDB Church of Houston, Texas, help with the monthly USDA Food Surplus distribution. Our women in Riverside, Calif., sew and stuff toy bears for the Riverside Police Department to give to small children in times of crisis. They've also made scrapbooks and lap robes for a community convalescent center.

The women from the Bell SDB Church of Salemville, Pa., reach out to a small African child by contributing to World Vision. West Palm Beach, Fla., reports that they were blessed to reach out to the victims of Hurricane Andrew.

Alfred, N.Y., women are involved with Our Opportunity Shop, a place where good used clothing and other items can be bought for a reasonable price. The Daytona Beach, Fla., women make school bags and layettes for Church Women United. It is important for us to be involved in our local congregations.

But it is just as important for us to be involved in some way in a larger community or world mission to people. How is your church involved in reaching out?

Drop me a line and let me know: Charlotte Chroniger, P.O. Box 145, Shiloh, NJ 08080.

If your local women haven't done so, consider a special outreach project for 1994. You will be tremendously blessed, and the Lord will use your efforts for His Kingdom.
Faith: Give more, have more

Arthur E. Main introduced the work.

While Christian character and righteous conduct must always be the best witness for Bible religion, it is the clear and strong voice of history and experience that the true and best aggressive means of building up the Sabbath cause, and any truth, doctrinal or practical, is gospel preaching and teaching, in all the world, supported by the essential auxiliaries of denominational schools and denominational literature. And the closer Seventy-First Day Baptists keep to this way, the more successful will be in winning to Christ and the Bible truth.

In a general reflection on Foreign Missions, Dr. E.M. Dunn wrote:
The reflex influence of Missions upon the Home field during the past century is most worthy of note... The awakening and spirituality that have come to the home churches by reason of their enlisting in Foreign Missions have been more to these churches than all the Foreign Missions have cost. It was objected a hundred years ago to sending Christianity abroad that we have none at home to spare; whereas it has been found that religion is such a commodity that the more we give the more we have.

Those churches which are not missionary churches wane and die; and the same is true of the pietist of individual members. So that it is no longer a debatable question whether the heathen can be saved without the gospel; the practical question is, Can we be saved and not give the gospel to the heathen?

Another century has now passed. Many achievements have been made. Yet there remains an unfulfilled vision. Those Jubilee Papers were written at the time our China Mission was in full force, and doors were opening in other parts of the world.

The Home Missions report at Conference that year showed 34 home missionaries in 18 states and territories reporting: 897 weeks of field work with 2,449 discourses; 925 prayer meetings; 4,976 visits; the distribution of 98,769 pages of tracts and 1,082 papers; 590 additions (195 by baptism); and the organization of one church, four Sabbath schools, and seven Christian Endeavor societies. Total reported members that year in American Seventh Day Baptist churches was 2,422. (Over a thousand were added during the next decade.)

Conditions have changed. New methods of communicating the Gospel have opened new avenues of work. Yet the concluding words as they looked to the future still ring true in our ears:
The present is a kind of crisis in our history, a turning point, the nick of time. And by the manifested infinite love of God in offering redemption to men, we need to be made to realize more and more man's low estate, and to know that our highest appointed mission is to publish far and wide the great salvation... And down through a hundred years, across ocean and continent, from that ever-memorable discourse of William Carey in June 1792, there rings out the mighty appeal: "Expect great things from God. Attempt great things for God."

Resources for teaching The Helping Hand

The themes include biographical, topical, and book studies. This fall quarter, September through November, we studied the book of Genesis. During our new quarter, we will study Luke's Gospel.

Teachers should consider using the excellent commentaries and teacher's annuals produced by a variety of publishing houses. Each lesson has eight pages of teaching materials. From the printed lesson text in the King James Version, to a verse-by-verse explanation of the Bible text, to practical applications of the major lesson truths, the Standard Lesson Commentary is designed to suggest teaching activities for the teacher. A full-year packet of teaching visuals (posters, maps, and overheads) is also available. The lesson commentary, September 1993 through August 1994, is published by Standard Publishing Company, 8321 Hamilton Avenue, Cincinnati, OH 45231 (phone: 1-800-543-1383).

The International Lesson Annual, 1993-94, edited by William H. Wilson, has been used for 38 years by teachers of the International Bible Lessons. The Annual features detailed explanations of the Bible text, the King James Version and New Revised Standard Version texts in parallel columns, lesson analysis, and creative teaching suggestions. A weekend in the woods

by Ben Cruzan

Without a doubt, some of the favorite activities included volleyball and football. Ripped clothing was a common sight, but no serious injuries occurred. Also, as always, food and beautiful autumn weather and colors, the fun, the chance to see friends they hadn't seen for some time, new friends they met, and the new wisdom that the lessons had brought to them. They prayed for a safe return to their hometowns, strength for when they got there, and that they might be able to see each other again soon.

On behalf of the youth who attended the 1993 Fall Retreat, I would like to thank the staff, those who provided transportation, those who donated food, Mr. Gramp, Dan Cruzan, and mostly God, for making it a great experience.

Twenty-seven native South Jersey youths were joined by four from Maryland and one from Raritan Valley.

The staff members included: Steve and Dodi Moncrief (Shiloh-Marlboro YP leaders), Jere and Ruthanne Davis, Lois Mazza, Bill Probasco, and daytime help by Pastor Mel Stephen. The focus of this year's retreat was the book of Revelation.

The first encounter with this topic was on Sabbath morning. The Sabbath service, held at camp, was planned by volunteer campers. In his sermon, Robert Gramp laid a foundation of Revelation's overall purpose.

Later that day, Dan Cruzan came down to camp and led a Bible study on the book. The Bible study continued later that day and again Sunday morning. Dan gave insight into some of the major symbols and signs seen by John that everyone should be aware of and understand.

As the weekend came to a close, the campers and staff pulled their tired but happy selves to the closing circle on the beach of the camp's lake. They thanked God for the

His son—our time

by Susie Butts

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord" (Luke 2:11).

This is the season when Christians all over the world will be celebrating the birth of Jesus. We will prepare for the Christmas program at our church, buy or make gifts for the ones we love, sing carols, decorate our homes, and most of all, remember how God gave the gift of His only son, Jesus.

But the reason the Christmas season is so special is not only because Jesus was born, but because He gave His life for those lost in sin—you and me. How we are afflicted by this event depends on what we do with it. As Christians, we have taken God's gift and internalized it. We have asked Jesus into our hearts and now have a personal relationship with Him.

But then what? Jesus gave His life for us, and once we accept that, we're done, right? Well, not exactly.

As we begin our walk with God, there are many things we start to bring into our lives. We read our Bibles each day, pray, attend church regularly, and often start tithing our income to God. Besides study, tithing is probably the easiest responsibility to keep track of. We simply take a percentage (usually 10 percent) of our income and give it to God. But have we ever thought of doing the same thing with our time?

When I was a senior in college, I attended a weekly Bible study entitled, "Christian Disciplines." One week, to prepare for the "Managing Times and Gifts" session, I was required to keep track of how I spent my time. I was amazed at how much time I wasted, and was curious to see if I could utilize that time better by tithing it to God.

I began to figure out exactly how much time I was dealing with: taking 10 percent of each day would be two and one-half hours, or approximately 17 hours a week. After a little thought, prayer, and sacrifice, I managed to find a God-centered activity for all 17 hours.

I'm not trying to encourage all of us to be that legalistic, but it is something to think about. So as we enter this season of giving, and remember God's gift to us, let's give Him gifts in return—our talents, our time, but most of all, our lives.
The Advent message

His Will for His Way—Knowing and Doing

As His brief years of ministry closed, He prayed in the garden, "Father, if You are willing, take this cup from Me; yet not My will, but yours be done" (Luke 22:42 NIV). He completed God's plan for His life! Each individual today needs to recognize that we are here for a purpose. God has a plan, and our lives will not be complete until we recognize this. As indicated in John 6:40, we are to believe in Him and receive eternal life. This is the entrance into the family of God.

But following this entrance is His particular will for each life—vocation, education, ministry, and talents, as well as spiritual gifts. Using these to His glory—in accordance with His leading by the Spirit and His Word—brings us into harmony with His will and fulfillment in our life.

And God's message to Jeremiah was sure: "For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future" (Jer. 29:11 NIV). And such a message is sure for us, too!

Jesus declared, "For I have come down from heaven not to do My will but to do the will of Him who sent Me." (John 6:40 NIV).

Later, when called to task by the Jewish leaders, He humbly said, "I can of Myself do nothing. As I hear, I judge, and My judgment is righteous, because I do not seek My own will but the will of the Father who sent Me" (John 5:30 NCKJ).

As we come to the time of year when focus is given to His birth, let us not forget why He came: "For My Father's will is that everyone who looks to the Son and believes in Him, shall have eternal life, and to finish His work" (John 6:40 NCV).

Jesus set the example. God's plan for us begins at birth and continues until His will is accomplished. Let us follow our Savior by seeking and doing God's will.

Where were the evangelicals?

by Judy Waggoner

(2P8)—Following over five years of preparation, the second centennial Parliament of World Religions was held in Chicago recently. Over 8,000 people, representing at least 300 different religions, registered to attend. Many eastern, non-Christian religions point to the first Parliament in 1885 as their genesis in the western world. In the intervening 100 years, the percentage of Americans who claim to be in the “other religion” category has risen to 10 percent, according to a recent Gallup poll.

Religious pluralism is a fact of life in America, as it is worldwide. “Whether we live in the United States, Britain, Canada, Holland, or other ‘Reformation countries,’ it really does not matter. The historic Christian faith is in the minority,” wrote the late theologian, Francis A. Schaeffer, in The Church at the End of the 20th Century. “Most Christians, especially those of us who remember what the United States was like 45 or 50 years ago, go on as if we were in the majority, as though the status quo belongs to us. It does not.”

The relatively small representatives of evangelical Christianity at the Parliament of World Religions is symptomatic of a fear of religious pluralism. Christian institutions reflect the fears of individual Christians as they see the growing number of people from other religions in their neighborhoods.

“We as Christians fear that we will lose our place of majority,” says Terry Muck, associate professor of religious studies at Austin (Texas) Presbyterian Theological Seminary. “The founders of our country were Christian, the governmental structures are all based on Christian principles, and the vast majority of people in this country have always been at least nominally Christian.” Many Christians fear that religious pluralism will challenge the comfortable advantages of that heritage.

Christians dread more than just census statistics. “The deeper fear is that all of the work we have done as Christians to ‘Christianize’ our culture is liable to go up in smoke if people of other religions gain influence here,” writes Muck in his book, Those Other Religions in Your Neighborhood.

Voices exist to calm these fears. In a speech at the Religion Newswriters Association convention, which ran concurrently with the conclusion of the Parliament, Cardinal Joseph Bernardin revealed why he signed the Global Ethic, a statement of principles composed by 100 international religious leaders.

“Signing the Global Ethic means that one agrees with the fundamental values articulated in the document even though implementation might be different. And the Global Ethic can be used as a framework for greater collaboration and communication.”

Fear of religious pluralism can be overcome. In his book, Muck concludes, “When we look at the growth of the non-Christian religions in our culture, we should be anything but afraid. In fact, we should be pleased that we are in the midst of an environment where the Good News can be so effectively invested.”

Fire destroys two SDB homes

Lightning is blamed for the October 6 fire that destroyed Alice Crosby’s home in Holly Hill, Fla. Alice, 69, a member of the Daytona Beach, Fla., SDB Church, had lived in that house for 55 years.

Unfortunately, Alice’s insurance policy was dropped last February. The house has been demolished. If you wish to help, please contact the church at 145 First Ave., Daytona Beach, FL 32114. Phone (904) 255-4775.

The Smalley family was buying the farm house on a “contract for deed” and had no insurance for their personal property.

Religious freedom restored

WASHINGTON (Baptist News Service)—After three years, the Religious Freedom Restoration Act has become law.

On October 27, the U.S. Senate overwhelmingly approved the bill, regarded as one of the most important measures affecting religious liberty since the Bill of Rights was ratified in 1791. The vote was 97-3. The U.S. House of Representatives unanimously approved the bill on voice vote in May. President Bill Clinton endorsed the bill and signed it into law November 16.

The Smith decision evoked a strong reaction from the religious community, as well as many constitutional scholars, that resulted in the formation of the Coalition for the Free Exercise of Religion. The coalition of 68 religious and civil liberties groups represented nearly every point on the political and theological spectrum.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., a chief co-sponsor of the bill, acknowledged the diversity of supporting groups, "including the National Association of Evangelicals, the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs, the American Civil Liberties Union, Concerned Women for America, People for the American Way, the American Jewish Committee, and the U.S. Catholic Conference."

"These organizations don't agree on much," Kennedy said, "but they do agree on the need to pass the Religious Freedom Restoration Act."

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, another chief co-sponsor, described the measure as "one of the most significant pieces of legislation in support of religious freedom to ever come before Congress."

"This bill is important to our country because it restores to every American the precious balance conceived by our Founding Fathers between the interests of our government and the religious liberties of our citizens."

Correction
Last month's article about the Yearly Meeting in Newport, R.I., states, "It was the issue of sharing the communion which caused two Sabbathkeeping couples to separate from the Baptist Church of John Clarke.

The editor apologizes for changing the sense of the story. "Communion" alone was not the cause of the separation.

The faithful Sabbathkeepers (five Baptist church members) did not wish to share the Lord's Supper with two other members in the church who had once accepted the Sabbath, but later recanted and returned to Sunday worship. The Sabbathkeepers found it possible to commune with others within the church who had not accepted the Sabbath, but could not continue with apostates. The separation of the five, plus Stephen and Ann Munford, led to the formation of the first SDB Church in America, in 1671.

How do we reach out?
"Let me count the ways..."
In this issue, we've simply scratched the surface as to the many ways we can reach out to others and share the Good News of Christ.
We can use the direct "Plan of Salvation" approach like Dennis Palmer (page 4). Some of us are able to perform short-term mission work like Sue Cartwright (page 7). Many parents get involved with their children's schools and lives as Joel Osborn proposes (page 11).
The source from which Don Sanford drew his "Pearls" (page 14) is a fascinating collection of more ideas. The Jubilee Papers, written in 1882, mention Home Missions, the China Mission, the Holland Mission, Work for Jews, Education among SDBs, the Witness of History, SDB Publications, Women's Executive Board, Young People's Organized Work, and Sabbath Reform. (Sounds like a recent gathering of our SDB Coordinating Leadership Team.)
And the list of outreach ideas has kept on growing.
Could the contributors to the Jubilee Papers ever have envisioned the technical advances in promoting the Gospel? Just peek into a modern Christian bookstore and you'll see hundreds of tools to strengthen and share your faith. Card packets and giant catalogs of ministry ideas flood church offices every month. New strategies like a recent gathering of our SDB Coordinating Leadership Team.)
How do we get plugged in?
"Simple. Just order the material and take off," you say? Don't forget that you'll need the time, money, and commitment to see those programs through.
You may not have the "right" number for your packet of goodies, back up and take a good look at yourself.
Are you jumping on the church growth bandwagon without clear discernment and direction? You can foresee all the tremendous results; you've heard the glowing testimonies from the successful church leaders...
Have you heard from the Lord? Have you or the church sought His guidance? Have you poked into His storehouse of boundless material and resources?
Our MORE 2000 process (Mission of Revival and Evangelism) has helped churches to step back, take an honest look at themselves, seek the Lord's desire, and make definite plans to direct resources toward the primary vision of the church.
The churches' visions have been about as individualistic as Seventh Day Baptist. No two were the same. (In an upcoming issue, you'll hear one pastor's experience of seeking the Lord's vision for the church, through a powerful time of fasting and prayer.)
Up to this point, MORE 2000 has only been offered to clusters of local churches. The Coordinating Leadership Team has agreed to modify the process, and offer it to individual churches. Each church, in this modified plan, can discover God's vision for their situation, and learn how to share God's greatest gift with others.
The Jubilee Papers were heavily promoted ahead of the printing. The May 5, 1892, Sabbath Recorder stated, "It is believed that this will be a most valuable work on denominational history..."
Wishing all of our readers a very Merry Christmas.
