The great object of every patr for...
THE SABBATH RECORDER, OCTOBER 11, 1866.

THE SABBATH RECORDER.

Wednesday, Oct. 11, 1866.

THE SABBATH RECORDER.

The following correspondence was received from a gentleman at the Battle of Gettysburg, Sept. 12th, 1863, which is now published:

To the Editor of The Sabbath Recorder:

Sir: Having been present at the Battle of Gettysburg, Sept. 12th, 1863, I desire to state the following facts relative to the capture of the town of Gettysburg, and the conduct of the troops in the field:

On the night of the 11th of September, 1863, the town of Gettysburg was occupied by the Union forces under the command of General Meade, who, after a severe engagement with the Confederate forces under the command of General Lee, had driven them from the field.

On the morning of the 12th of September, the town of Gettysburg was attacked by the Confederate forces under the command of General Lee, who, after a severe engagement, were driven from the field.

The capture of the town of Gettysburg was a matter of great importance to the Union forces, and was a matter of great rejoicing to the people of the town.

I am, etc.,

[Signature]

THE SABBATH RECORDER.

SABBATH RECORDER.

The following correspondence was received from a gentleman at the Battle of Gettysburg, Sept. 12th, 1863, which is now published:

To the Editor of The Sabbath Recorder:

Sir: Having been present at the Battle of Gettysburg, Sept. 12th, 1863, I desire to state the following facts relative to the capture of the town of Gettysburg, and the conduct of the troops in the field:

On the night of the 11th of September, 1863, the town of Gettysburg was occupied by the Union forces under the command of General Meade, who, after a severe engagement with the Confederate forces under the command of General Lee, had driven them from the field.

On the morning of the 12th of September, the town of Gettysburg was attacked by the Confederate forces under the command of General Lee, who, after a severe engagement, were driven from the field.

The capture of the town of Gettysburg was a matter of great importance to the Union forces, and was a matter of great rejoicing to the people of the town.

I am, etc.,

[Signature]