Where is God leading you?
Robe of Achievement nominations
The SDB Women's Society is accepting nominations for the Robe of Achievement for 2002. Please consider a woman in your church who meets these criteria for nomination:
- Was/is active as a volunteer in some phase of denominational effort
- Has shown evidence of special service with her family and/or community
- Must be a committed Christian
- Must be an active member of a local Seventh Day Baptist church
A complete résumé must be submitted containing a life history, including her achievements and activities. Without a résumé in hand, the committee cannot make a competent choice among many nominees. If an individual has been nominated before, and you still want that person considered, please resubmit the name as well as the resume.

Amazing awareness
by Mayola Warner

Africa. This country has stalked and captivated my wondering heart. It wasn’t just the sheer beauty of this country, it was a combination of everything—the amazing animals, the relationships we built while there, the aliveness I felt in my soul just waking up in Africa.

Because our Seventh Day Baptist Conferences are hosted in many different areas of our own United States, we have traveled to practically all of the “50.” Even to Hawaii and Israel on our occasions. Now in our retirement years, Garth and I were anticipating some other major overseas trip; maybe to the “Sound of Music” country? Maybe the British Isles, then go through the “Chunnel” to France? Maybe? But never Africa! Why Africa?

Then God used our friendship with a wonderful couple who were

Tourists and ministers
As we traveled halfway around the world, we eagerly anticipated the plans already laid out for our two-week visit. The Baranys had arranged to accompany us on some “touristy” things, like an evening cruise on a dhow along the African coast on the beautiful Indian Ocean, snorkeling off Wasni Island, four days of safaris, etc.

We were able to visit the Pwani Bible Institute for several days and helped in the library and nurse’s office, and participated in their chapel services. Just to be introduced to those students, to see their shining faces and sense our unity in Christ, was our first real taste of falling in love with Africa.

While Swahili is their native language, they all spoke English as well. We brought greetings from Christians in America, enjoyed singing with them and were asked to share our personal testimonies. Even now we continue to communicate with some of the students and appreciate so much their fervent prayers for us here at home.

Time to head west
It was time to leave the east coast and start exploring west. Linda had hired a native driver and his Land Rover to take us some 150 miles to a very posh tented game-drive park. Did you ever see the movie, “Out of Africa”? We were hardly “roughing it,” as our tent was equipped with deluxe beds and all the amenities of a room in a five-star hotel, supplied with electricity (solar power) and hot shower! Out in front of our veranda was a stream where we could watch at least eight hippos and even hear their occasional trumpeting!

Safari and more
In the darkness of early morning or evening, a native guide—complete with torch, bow, and arrow—came to escort us to the lodge for a five-course meal served on china and crystal.

The safari began at 6:30 a.m. We saw elephants, zebras, impalas, giraffes, lions, and lots of beautiful birds. Later on we visited another game park in Masai Mara, and by now we had seen all the usual game with the exception of leopard and rhino. These safari experiences were awe-some. It is just this reason alone that many people visit Africa! But for us, the best was yet to come.

Meeting Pastor Sarota
God had arranged for us to meet with the Seventh Day Baptist pastor and his family, to learn of the mission work being done there in Kenya. This is being done by a recent graduate of the Bible Institute in Mombasa who now lives in Kisii, some 500 miles west. The Kisii area is comprised of rolling hills covered with tea plantations, an assortment of smaller crops, orchards and gardens, and is located near Lake Victoria.

The Kisii area is comprised of rolling hills covered with tea plantations, an assortment of smaller crops, orchards and gardens, and is located near Lake Victoria. Dick had rented a car and drove us over the worst roads we have ever been on for our rendezvous.

When we met our contact student, he directed us to the mission home. As we walked down the lane to Pastor Sarota’s home, it was like the prelude to a wonderful three-act play. Let me try to describe “act one.”

Their home situation
First, we saw their home, which was comprised of five mud huts. Just mud—walls and floors, with only one window—and no electricity or running water. There were beautiful trees all around and other gorgeous foliage, and swept clean walkways. We were hearty welcomed by his wife, Grace, and several of their seven children.

"First things first" meant gathering around their table for prayer, singing, and tea. Grace then invited Linda and I to her kitchen hut for some "women talk" while she prepared a meal for us all. Garth and Dick stayed with the pastor for some serious question and answering time.

Their ministry

"Act two" consists of the current work and ministries. We learned that Pastor Sarota had resigned his commission as a teacher in the local elementary school so that he could run the business of the Seventh Day Baptist Conference in Kenya. He prepares lessons and sermons and also works in his garden.

He works with three branch churches. We visited their nearby church, which also serves as a school building along with one other small building close by. They have plans to increase the size of these buildings so that more students can be accommodated. However, this requires more money for building, equipment, and supplies.

Since the church is small and composed of poor farmers, the pastor receives no salary at all. His only income is from raising and selling crops from his small farm while he still supports his family. He also does evangelistic work, sometimes at their home base and sometimes in the city of Kisii.

The SDBs also sponsor an orphanage. It is listed as a non-denominational organization and welcomes aid from any source. In several instances of need, which include (in his own words):

1. I have a problem traveling to far places to preach (car?).
2. Because of funds, the work of God will not move to other areas.

I would hope that everyone reading this would commit to “pray for the work in Kenya” at least once a week.

And now, for the closing act of this extravaganza, I would like to share some of our vision and dreams for the future. Foremost, it is to be able to help men and women, boys and girls, to come to a saving faith in our Lord Jesus Christ. I’m thinking that this requires both prayer and action.

I would hope that everyone reading this would commit to "pray for the work in Kenya" at least once a week.

Some years ago, I started praying specifically for people and situations on certain days of the week. Like, "Tuesday, Kenya..." and secondly to support the good work financially.

Pastor Sarota gave us a list of seven areas

- in the past few years, boxes of clothing and other materials have been shared with the orphanage.
- Along with the orphanage, a school is located at the same place. This ensures that the orphans receive adequate education, giving them an important advantage if they choose to take it. School is mandatory and an added expense for the orphanage.

1. No funds for buying plots and building on them (construction).
2. A dispensary (health clinic) for the mission.
3. I am not supported from anywhere. I need support.
4. During camp meetings, I have many visitors who don’t have a good place to stay.
5. I have many children to support for school fees.

Won’t you help?

Our Verona, N.Y., church is graciously coming alongside with special offerings, Sabbath School giving, etc. I’m wondering if each of our North American churches might adopt one of our international missions as their family responsibility? Pray about it, contact our Missionary Society in Rhode Island (info on p. 17), and let’s all "get out of our comfortable boat and start walking on water!"

Lastly and from our hearts, Garth and I would strongly urge you to personally visit one of our Seventh Day Baptist outreaches. It could very well change your lives. It has ours! 🙏

by Jayme Osborn

The 10/40 Window is a “window” of nations that fall between the 10° degree and 40° degree latitude lines north of the equator. It includes all of northern Africa, the Middle Eastern countries, and Asia.

"And this Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world for a witness to all the nations, and then the end shall come” (Matthew 24:14).

I would like to talk about something that God has been laying on my heart—the preaching of the Gospel in the whole world for a witness to all the nations, and then the end shall come.

Our family recently attended a missions conference in Colorado. While there, we heard many things that really stirred up our hearts.

We learned that of the estimated six billion people living on the face of this planet, an estimated one billion follow the religion of Islam. An estimated one billion follow Hinduism, and another estimated one billion are either Buddhist or Animist in their beliefs.

That makes up an estimated three billion people—who mostly live in the “10/40 Window”—who have yet to hear the Gospel. These people belong to what are called unreached people groups.

Unreached people groups are groups or tribes of people who would be largely unaffected if revival broke out among Christians because there are literally no Christians who live near them.

If you have never heard of the 10/40 Window, let me explain what this is. The 10/40 Window is a “window” of nations that fall between the 10° degree and 40° latitude lines north of the equator. It includes all of northern Africa, the Middle Eastern countries, and Asia.

Some of the countries in the 10/40 Window are Morocco, Sudan, Sahara, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Libya, Abdul, Afghanistan, Turkmenistan, Tajikistan, and the Maldives Islands. I've water, malnutrition, and hunger-related diseases, tuberculosis, malaria, and other communicable diseases.

That is many more times the people who died in the World Trade Center attack and 36 times the people who died in the Titanic sink. Both of these events were tragedies that stunned the world, so why are we so unaffected by what is happening in the world every day?

Most of these 55,000 people who die every day have never even heard the Gospel of Jesus Christ. That means that 55,000 people every day walk from life on earth into a hellish eternity without God.

In 1998, according to Jack Winter, Americans spent $110 billion on fast food, $60 billion on soft drinks, $23 billion on pet food, $7.7 billion on movies, $7.1 billion on greeting cards, and $6.1 billion on computer games.

We are by far the wealthiest nation on the face of the planet, and yet statistics show that less than one percent of American Christians even tithe 10 percent of their income. We are responsible before God for how we use what He has given us. Are we using what He's given to us to further His kingdom, to help the poor, to feed the needy? Only you can answer this question.

life the same knowing that 55,000 people perish every day and most, if not all of them, go to hell.

The number of people who have yet to hear the Gospel is staggering, yet it is plain that God's heart and plan is that every people group and tribe and tongue would be represented in heaven. What are you and I going to do about it?

This generation of believers is responsible for this generation hearing the Gospel. Are you called to go? Currently only four percent of foreign missionaries are going to unreached people groups. Are you called to send? Statistics show that less than one percent of the money we spend on foreign missions is going towards evangelizing unreached people groups. Are you called to pray? Prayer is the foundation for all evangelism.

I challenge you to ask God what His heart and plan is for you. Are you going to do anything about it?

From the December 2001 "Joyful Newsletter" of the Dodge Center, Minn., Seventh Day Baptist Church. With Pastor Dale Rood's assistance, Roger obtained more information about the organization, which provides Christmas gifts for the children of prison inmates.

A packet from Angel Tree included the names of inmates who request this service through their prison chaplain. Roger discovered that there were two families in Waseca, Minn., that could use his help.

After volunteering to bring a gift to each child on his list, he was told to make it clear that the presents were from their father, to show them that their dad really cared about them. One of Roger's biggest challenges was finding gifts that "fit" children he had never met.

Roger phoned the mothers, explaining the Angel Tree program. One mom was especially open to the idea of having extra help, so Roger helped repair her car's alternator and starter. Later, while Roger was on a mission trip to Mexico, Pastor Dale and Tim Osborn helped with her car.

When he and Pastor Dale took the gifts to the families, they brought along small presents from Angel Tree: coloring books for the younger children, and tapes for the older ones.

One family accepted the gifts with thanks, but didn't seem to want further contact. The second family—the mom with the car trouble—reacted differently. They had gotten to know Roger, and one of the daughters even insisted on a hug.

While Roger and Pastor Dale were there, the woman's husband called from prison and asked to speak to Roger. The first words out of his mouth were ones of gratitude, thanking Roger for all he had done. As an inmate, the husband was frustrated at not being able to help his wife's

"I'll definitely do this again," Roger said. "After all, who else would have helped?"

The woman's husband called from prison and asked to speak to Roger.

The first words out of his mouth were ones of gratitude.

Angel Tree is a wonderful way to express Christ's love. It may help open hearts to receive the most important gifts: the one God gave to provide salvation and forgiveness of sins. It may introduce these families to your church, allowing you to provide year-round ministry. Call 1-800-55-ANGEL to learn more.

ALL these things?
by Shirley Morgan

"But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matthew 6:33).

What are "all these things" that Jesus was talking about? The previous verses tell us. Jesus was saying that if He feeds the birds of the air and tends the lilies, He certainly will take care of us, His special creation.

We read Scripture and recite it from memory. But do we really trust God to do what He says? God provided for us in so many ways. Many times, He did it through Christian brethren (you know who you are). He also provided my husband with extra income to lighten the burden. I really want to thank the Lord for my spouse. Even though it was hard, he stood beside me and worked endless hours to help make ends meet.

I'm reminded daily that when I seek God first, He will take care of my needs because He is faithful. Don't be discouraged when things don't seem to go right. Just remember that God stands behind every one of His promises. He didn't promise us a bed of roses, but He promised to be with us among the thorns.

Shirley Morgan is a member of the Miami, Fla., Seventh Day Baptist Church.

There were times when I jokingly told my children, "If there's a prize for the emptiest 'fridge' in town, we should get it!" Still, we never went hungry, even for one day.

Where do we get confidence?
by Wayne Hastings

"The Lord is my light and my salvation—so why should I be afraid? The Lord protects me from danger—so why should I tremble? When evil people come to destroy me, when my enemies and foes attack me, they will stumble and fall. Though a mighty army surrounds me, my heart will know not fear. Even if they attack me, I remain confident" (Psalm 27:1-3 NLT).

When I was a little boy, I was afraid of the dark. I do not know why, but it really bothered me.

My room was at the end of a hall and as a boy, that hall seemed so very long to me. Therefore, when I needed to go into my room at night, I would first turn on the hall light, then, once I reached my room, I would turn on my room light. Now, the problem was going back to turn off the hall light! Usually my Mom would come in and tell me good night and that solved my problem.

Fortunately, I outgrew the fear, but I can relate to David's problem. David was not fearful because he had God's light and His gift of salvation. David praises God—in spite of the enemies who surrounded him—because he knew with certainty that he had an eternal home.

David didn't just trust what God could do, he trusted God Himself. That kind of trust comes from an intimate relationship—a relationship that can only be developed based upon trust and confidence. God was not some far away being. He was right there with David.

For some reason, I always picture David writing this psalm in a dark cave. His enemies are all around him; he is hiding out. He cannot light a torch because in the still, clear desert night his enemies could see this light from any distance. Therefore, David talks about God's light and the Lord's presence.

David cannot fear because God is his light. David has no real enemies, because God is right there with him. David is showing true confidence. He knows that life is full of conflicts, criticism, hard knocks and burdens. He knows that they are an unpleasant fact. David, however, knows he need not fear.

David knows true confidence. Look at the word "confidence" in the psalm. The Hebrew term used is "assurance." Chuck Swindoll writes, "The point I want to get across is that the source of David's confidence and stability was not his own strength—but God. His Lord was his only foundation for rocklike stability."

Confidence comes from knowing God and His gift of salvation.

by David and translated "confidence" does not mean self-reliant. It does not mean bravado.

In the Hebrew language, the word means "to trust, to be secure, to have assurance." Chuck Swindoll writes,
Day of Prayer observed in Shiloh

by Donna S. Bond, guest writer

Baptist Women’s World Day of Prayer, observed by Baptist women around the world since 1948, was observed in the Bridgton, N.J., area for the tenth time in 31 years. The November 5, 2001 service was hosted by the Shiloh Seventh Day Baptist women, and attended by 32 ladies from seven SDB and American Baptist churches.

The theme of “God Lifts My Family to Greater Heights” included special music—“Let There Be Peace on Earth and Let It Begin with Me”—along with family-related hymns and choruses. A Bible study on “Family Relationships” was led by Shiloh’s centenarian Lora Harris, matriarch of five generations of SDBs.

Other items included a Bible study on “Women Who Lifted God’s Families to Greater Heights,” and directed prayer for the needs of women on each continent. Information about Africa featured a testimony from an African mother whose infant son is infected with AIDS. An offering was taken to promote Christ on the African continent through a women’s training camp and a Bible correspondence course for inmates.

Since that time, attendance has increased nearly every year, peaking at 60 in the year 2000. Hosting of the service has rotated among four Baptist churches. A keyworker elected by each local SDB Ladies Aid is on the mailing list to receive Day of Prayer program ideas and other information from both the BWA Women’s Department and the North American Baptist Women’s Union (NABWU). Watch for your copy next summer or request information from: BWA Women’s Department 405 N. Washington St. Falls Church, VA 22046

Please join us in prayer on Monday, November 4, 2002! "Women's Society page by Laura Price

A planning committee formed with representatives from several churches, and the "first almost-annual" Day of Prayer was held in the Shiloh SDB Church with approximately 20 women attending.

Diversity Works

by Don Sanford, SDB historian

A recent letter to members and friends of the Newport (R.I.) Historical Society begins with the paragraph, "Almost every day now, we watch the students stream through the Seventh Day Baptist Meeting House, curious and eager to see the next historic site on their tour. "They are participating in one of the most successful education programs ever presented by the Newport Historical Society, Diversity Works: The History of Liberty of Conscience and Religion in Newport. This program is about the special status of Newport as a haven that attracted a remarkable diversity of people and religious groups."

The letter goes on to say:

Now in its second year, Diversity Works was developed by the Society's staff with the cooperation and assistance of Touro Synagogue and Trinity Church. Students learn about religious and racial diversity in 18th century Newport on a walking tour of four of Rhode Island's oldest and most significant religious landmarks: the Great Friend's Meeting House, Trinity Church, the Seventh Day Baptist Meeting House, and Touro Synagogue. These sites provide undeniable evidence that Newport was one of colonial America's leading centers in the fight for the freedoms upon which this great country was founded. Newport showed to the world that diversity works.

The 1640s—when Newport embraced the doctrine of liberty of conscience and religion—was a period of intolerance and persecution. In Boston, Antinomians were being banished, Baptists lashed within an inch of their lives, and Quakers burned, while Jews perished throughout the world at the hands of the Inquisition.

It took great courage, then, in 1641 for the founders of Newport—including John Clarke—to write in the town statutes that "none [shall] be accounted a delinquent for doctrine, provided it be not directly repugnant to the government or laws established"—the earliest expression of Newport's commitment to these principles.

Statistics for the school year 2000-2001 lists 31 tours from 29 different school districts. A total of 2,203 students from grades 5-8 participated in the walking tour, which begins at the Seventh Day Baptist Meeting House built in 1730.

Pulpit in the Newport SDB Meeting House.

Seventh Day Baptists trace their beginnings in America to the 1671 separation from the First Baptist Church in Newport founded by Dr. John Clarke. He labored diligently in England to secure a charter for Rhode Island which granted freedom of worship.

The founding of our SDB General Conference in 1802 is attributed to Henry Clarke, whose great-grandfather, Joseph Clarke, was the nephew of Dr. John Clarke. Joseph had married Samuel and Tacy Hubbard's daughter, Bethia. (The Hubbards were charter members of the Newport SDB Church.) In Samuel Hubbard's listing of those in his family who had accepted the Sabbath in 1655 and 1666, he includes "our son Joseph Clarke."

A "leisurely" trip to Conference

Rhode Island, which began on September 2. (He never mentioned whether Daniel Babcock accompanied him, but he often used "we, us, and our" in his account.)

The first day Green traveled 43 miles through Almond, Hornellsville, Canisteo, and Cameron, then to Attica where he spent the night. He noted that the weather was very warm. On September 3, he proceeded on through Erwin, Painted Post, Big Flats, Elmira, and Newfield, a distance of 47 miles.

His next entry stated, "Broke the wagon; stayed the night at a private house. Proceeded on 6 miles and had the wagon mended by a blacksmith; from thence to Ithaca, and through Dryden and Virgil to Homer."

On Sabbath, September 5, Green "proceeded on to Uncle Luke Cran dall's, on Truxton Hill. Many more were arriving. Found our friends well. Sept. 6th—Traded horses with James Burbick; visited Elias Irish; stayed the night with Eld. A. Campbell and had a good visit; the weather rainy."

Green's entries for September 7-11 record visits with other friends and relatives he had known in such places as DeRuyter, Georgetown, Columbia, Edmeston, Burlington, and Columbus, where he stayed two nights with Uncle Thomas Wilcox. "The weather was rainy. Stayed two nights. By the 9th, the weather was 'tolerable good.' Traveled 36 miles and found friends well; the weather rainy, stayed two nights."

Still in New York state, on September 9-10, he traveled 41 miles each day through Cooperstown, Prince town, and Guilderland. On September 11, he went through Albany, Troy, and Grafton, then finally to Luke Maxson's house in Petersburg, which added another 32 miles. (Luke was his father-in-law.)

From Sabbath, September 12 to Sabbath, the 19th, Green stayed in the Berlin area visiting and attending church. While there, eight people were baptized and joined the church the first Sabbath, and four came forward the following week and testified to their faith. During much of the week, he accompanied some of the elders on their pastoral visits to area families.

On September 20, Green started for Rhode Island and got as far as Stephentown before bad weather forced him to spend the night with Joshua Maxson. The next three days, he traveled 128 miles before reaching a place called Yaw Goo in Hopkinton cont. on page 26

"When I take a review of this long journey and consider how many accidents might have befallen us, it should fill me with praise and thanksgiving to God."
Workshops to build up Christ's body

"He gave some as apostles, and some as prophets, and some as evangelists, and some as pastors and teachers, for the equipping of the saints for the work of service, to the building up of the body of Christ; until we all attain to the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to a mature man, to the measure of the stature which belongs to the fullness of Christ" (Ephesians 4:11-13, NASB).

This is the God-given measure of maturity. The local church is to help each individual strive for that goal. He gives the gifts and abilities needed for service—for building up Christ's body.

God promises that your church can and should promote the growth of Christian Education. It will do this by offering workshops for the church. Designed to involve participants in the learning process, the workshops are a vital tool for strengthening mature Christians. We offer workshops for the church that might rally around a God-called candidate to foreign missionary service.

He gives the gifts and abilities to tailor these workshops to meet your needs. He gives the gifts and abilities to make the workshops relevant and applicable to your congregation, and strive to tailor these workshops to meet your needs.

Workshops require at least one month's advance notice but you can schedule them up to a year in advance. The Board of Christian Education covers transportation costs or the workshop leader. The local church provides housing and meals.

You are invited to schedule a workshop for your church, and can contact the Board office by phone, fax, e-mail, or post.

Sabbath School Workshop
As you might guess, we firmly believe that Sabbath School is a vital part of the educational program of the church. We recognize that the methods, goals, and purpose of the Sabbath School program are not always clear.

Do you know why your church has a Sabbath School program? Do you know what you want your Sabbath School to accomplish? How does the Sabbath School help the overall work of your church? This workshop should help your church answer these questions.

We will briefly explore the history of Sabbath Schools and then examine the current practice of your congregation. The goal of the workshop is to explore ways to strengthen your Sabbath School program as a tool for strengthening mature Christians, nurturing new Christians, and reaching out to those who have yet to meet Christ.

Sabbath School teaching is an opportunity to help others grow in grace and knowledge. It is an opportunity to show and help others live in relationship with the Almighty God revealed in Jesus Christ. Whether you are teaching adults, children, young adults, or youth, this seminar is for you.

The seminar will help you better understand the task of teaching in a Christian setting and will provide practical suggestions to prepare, plan, and lead a Sabbath School class. Some of the topics covered are: How to teach a perfect lesson every time, increasing learner participation, using small groups, asking good questions, story-telling, developing a sentence outline, and a theology of Christian Education.

Diocesan Workshop
This workshop will allow the diocesan, church leaders, or the whole church to participate. After a guided tour of the Biblical qualifications and work of the diocesan, your group will be introduced to the wide range of models and approaches that have been used for the diocesan.

Participants will describe the current function and organization of their diocesan. They will then explore additional ways to organize for ministry and look for ways to strengthen the diocesan's relationship with the pastor.

MOST—Muriel Osborn Seminar for Teachers
Sabbath School teaching is an opportunity to help others grow in grace and knowledge. It is an opportunity to show and help others live in relationship with the Almighty God revealed in Jesus Christ. Whether you are teaching adults, children, young adults, or youth, this seminar is for you.

The seminar will help you better understand the task of teaching in a Christian setting and will provide practical suggestions to prepare, plan, and lead a Sabbath School class. Some of the topics covered are: How to teach a perfect lesson every time, increasing learner participation, using small groups, asking good questions, story-telling, developing a sentence outline, and a theology of Christian Education.

The Missionary Society would be willing to assist a local church that might rally around a God-called candidate to foreign missionary service.

Readers are invited to schedule a workshop for their church, and can contact the Board office by phone, fax, e-mail, or post.

Sabbath School Workshop
As you might guess, we firmly believe that Sabbath School is a vital part of the educational program of the church. We recognize that the methods, goals, and purpose of the Sabbath School program are not always clear.

Do you know why your church has a Sabbath School program? Do you know what you want your Sabbath School to accomplish? How does the Sabbath School help the overall work of your church? This workshop should help your church answer these questions.

We will briefly explore the history of Sabbath Schools and then examine the current practice of your congregation. The goal of the workshop is to explore ways to strengthen your Sabbath School program as a tool for strengthening mature Christians, nurturing new Christians, and reaching out to those who have yet to meet Christ.

What is real love?
by Eowyn Driscoll

"Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud, it is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, and it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres." (1 Corinthians 13:4-7)

Did you know that there are three kinds of love? Like different levels, the first two are mediocre interpretations of what we perceive love to be, such as the love of a sister for a brother, parent for a child, girlfriend for a boyfriend, etc. The kinds of love can and will change.

But God's love is different. He gives us a special kind of love called "agape," which is Greek for "unconditional love." As in, "nothing can, will, or has" the power to change it.

First Corinthians 13:8 tells us that, "Love never fails. But where there are prophecies, they will cease; where there are tongues, they will be stilled; where there is knowledge, it will pass away." God's love is never-ending. We sing songs like "Your Everlasting Love" without really realizing that even before the earth was formed, God existed and loved us; as yet unformed creations, he knew us (Jeremiah 1:5). God's love is a gift for all of us, for anyone.

Once again, God's love is different than any love we can give. Because God's love is perfect. It holds no sin, and cannot. Whereas, we are sinners. We have faults, and living up to that perfect description of love is a daunting task.

Man generally doesn't have the willpower to always be patient, and avoid envy and pride. That's why God's love is so wonderful. When the entire world turns its back on you, God will still be there.

So while we prepare to celebrate the feast of Saint Valentine, we should be thinking about the real meaning of love.

By the way, St. Valentine was not a little cherub giving out cards made by Hallmark, or shooting people with arrows to make them fall in love.

There were, in fact, three St. Valentines, and none of them had anything to do with how we see Valentine's Day today. The 14th of February became the "lovers' holiday" because birds in England and France began pairing up around that date.

As we consider what real love is, we should put our "best heart" forward as a sign of how God's love has affected us.

"And now these three remain: faith, hope, and love. But the greatest of these is love." —1 Corinthians 13:13

Once again, the holidays have come and gone. That loud whistling you hear is the collective sigh of millions of exhausted people. Most of us enjoy Christmas and New Year's, but we try to do too much.

We have to have three kinds of potatoes with our turkey or ham—mashed, baked, and scalloped—and don't forget the yams.

The tree has to have a multitude of twinkling lights, and the greeting cards, grouped by states and alphabetized by names, have to be hand-addressed before they're mailed.

I'm still working on that one! Even the house demands our attention. Bathrooms need scrubbing, bedding needs washing, furniture needs dusting. (Great Aunt MILDRED would have a fit if she spotted the pile of Oreo crumbs on top of the television.)

During these special family times, everything has to be perfect.

"Hello," I smile through gritted teeth. "Welcome to my Martha Stewart Home and Gardens and painted by Norman Rockwell." Why do we seek such "perfection?" To quote Teve from the musical, Fiddler on the Roof, "Tradition! I've always "done Christmas" this way, because Mom always did it this way. And my Grandma used to...

Although my daughter wouldn't agree, I think I've finally learned to relax a little about the holidays because I've matured in wisdom and perspective. (Translation: "I've gotten smarter as I've added more gray hairs and wrinkles.")

I used to faithfully bake several kinds of Christmas cookies. If I didn't get anything else done, I had to make cut-out cookies with the kids. Which, if my memory serves me right, took two weeks to frost and decorate.

As we consider what real love is, we should put our "best heart" forward as a sign of how God's love has affected us.
The third stone: Priesthood of all believers

Rev. Andrew J. Camenga, Executive Director
Seventh Day Baptist Board of Christian Education

Dear Andrew,

As we have talked about the current quarter of the Helping Hand, I hope that you have detected that I have been having fun with the lessons. Teaching these lessons is a challenge. They are different from the usual. I have especially missed the Heart of the Lesson statements. (That is strange as I was not aware that I looked at them each week. However, when that conciseness is not present with which to agree or disagree, it is missed.)

Sometimes the Bible study is mixed in with the presentation of the SDB historical figure and which to rounding titling.

As rounding the person from history in light of the Scripture; presenting the historical events surrounding the Protestant reformation in England and how the historical figure and SDBs in fit with those events; focusing on the theological issues that prompted a change in the country at that time; and even allowing a discussion about thinking and life of the person highlighted for the week; and even allowing a discussion about thinking and life of the person highlighted for the week; and even allowing a discussion about thinking and life of the person highlighted for the week.

Although we would not want to have this type of lesson each quarter, they contain good

Bible study and practice from the 17th into the 20th centuries, and help focus information about SDB belief and practice from the 17th into the 20th centuries, and help focus on some of these themes which, when moved together, make SDBs unique. Ex-turing in future Sabbath School lessons.

For me, these lessons have brought out the importance of the Priesthood of all Believers. As the religious expressions of the day, so different from the usual, that the expressions of the Priesthood of all Believers was an excuse to say that each believer was an island and needed no others. Rather, we should help others grow up into each believer was an island and needed no others. Rather, we should help others grow up into behave better, more like Jesus, and be- as a whole all the people. And the Lord added hold up the Scriptures which are useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting, and train-ning in righteousness, and pray together to join as equals at the throne of grace.

Many of these were always taught as reserved only to the duty of the clergy, who were a precious gift to the people. Since we are all lea learning, we have responsibility as priests.

Based on race, gender, or any other difference, then we all have responsibility as priests.

Thank you for your efforts as Editor of the Helping Hand, and please pass on thanks also to those who wrote for this issue, many of them almost 30 years ago.

Sincerely,
Pastor Gordon Lawton

2001 was a good year for us to visit boards and agencies. We've come to appreciate their dedicated work while learning how each board prayerfully plans the witness of SDBs in the world.

The SDBs in Rhode Island should be so proud of their heritage, their ancestors, their edifices, their faithfulness, and their God. Back there, we walk through history and have a beautiful feeling of being "home."

From the book, Seventh Day Baptists in Europe and America, Vol. 1: They thus laid the foundations of the SDB Church in America where it could stand the shock of coming revolutions, of toppling monarchies or crumbling republics—in characters built on the word of eternal truth—tried and toughened by the fires of trials and polished by the disciplines of the best possessions of men."

The churches in Rhode Island are so beautiful, stately, and dignified. We, and they, should be proud came to Westerly to visit us. What a glorious luncheon we had at the Westerly church! All the guests were so blessed by the shared fellowship. Plus a "church party" was held in Ashaway Saturday night. They don't even need good street signs in Rhode Island, for all know God's directions.

Incidentally, it was a Missionary Society Board weekend also. We attended meetings all day Sunday, discussing Africa, Asia, Australia, and even Russia and Europe. The National Home Field Outreach Program was outlined. This far-reaching group of people, led by Missionary Society Executive Director Kirk Looper and National Extension Minister Ron Elston, are seeing to it that SDBs are known around the world as well as in the United States.

So much time, energy, and dedi-cation is spent by our Missionary Board. Nancy and I felt so privileged to attend their meetings. 2001 was a good year for us to visit boards and agencies. We've come to appreciate their dedicated work while learning how each board prayerfully plans the witness of SDBs in the world.

Acts 2:46-47 says, "So continuing with one accord in the temple (church) and breaking bread from house to house, they ate their food with gladness and simplicity of heart, praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to the Church daily those who were being saved."

God loves Rhode Island, as do we.
Fellowship (meal) draws many to 250th Yearly Meeting at Shiloh
by Pat Cruzan

"Let us not give up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but let us encourage one another—and all the more as you see the Day approaching." (Hebrews 10:25)

On October 12-13, 2001, Seventh Day Baptists met in Shiloh, N.J., for the 250th Yearly Meeting. Seven churches were represented: Berlin, N.Y.; Central Maryland; Marlboro, N.J.; New York City; Plainfield, N.J.; Shiloh; and Raritan Valley, N.J.

A youth retreat was also hosted at Jersey Oak’s Camp during this weekend under the leadership of Pastor Dave Taylor. Thirty-nine young people from 7th to 12th grades attended.

Pastor Jeanne Yurke, from the Raritan Valley SDB Church, led the Sabbath Eve worship service and introduced the theme of continuing to meet together and encouraging one another. In part, she shared:

"The fellowship meals we enjoy are a bonus, a side-benefit to the true feeding, the spiritual feeding that goes on here. It is that feeding, that personal and spiritual fellowship, which draws me back here from year to year."

Pastor Matt Olson

"This is, in fact, one of the oldest meetings among Seventh Day Baptists. Yet almost every time we meet, there is discussion of doing away with it. But I can honestly say that I’ve never voted against it.

"Who could vote against macaroni and cheese, or corn chowder? Why would you say ‘no’ to toothpaste brownies or curried chicken? How can you walk away from a taco salad made with tortilla chips, hamburger, shredded lettuce, chicken, peas, and a quart of mayonnaise?...

"I think it is a fair question to ask if Yearly Meeting serves a purpose for us. And I think the obvious answer is, ‘Yes.’... These meetings have stimulated those who attend them to good deeds. I have gathered ideas on how to reach out to the community around me. I have heard news of how this church or that church has grown and the steps they took to achieve that growth. I have listened as people have shared about the ministries their church is involved in and have been encouraged to adapt those ideas to my local covenant community.

"Certainly the writer of Hebrews had the local church in mind when he wrote these words, but it is just as certain that they can be applied to a broader community which gathers together for the same purpose. The people who gather for Yearly Meeting are, I believe, just such a community.

"In the end, I am quite aware that Yearly Meeting doesn’t exist to feed me all the casserole, cake, and cookies I can eat. The fellowship meals we enjoy are a bonus, a side-benefit to the true feeding, the spiritual feeding that goes on here. It is that feeding, that personal and spiritual fellowship, which draws me back here from year to year."

Pastor Jeanne Yurke

"We are empowered by God to do together what none of us can do as effectively (if at all) on our own."

—Pastor Jeanne Yurke

Edna Tomato (Bottoms) entered the pastorate and initially moved to West Virginia, while George entered the ministry and moved to Battle Creek, Mich. Their parents, T.J. and Talula, died at the end of World War II and are buried near Athens.

After the fellowship dinner, the churches shared about their ministries and ways they are reaching out in their communities. The evening vespers was an inspiring time, with musical selections from many of the churches, Scripture readings, and singing by the entire congregation.

And now, we look forward to the 251st meeting next year!

(See page 26 for the historical background of the Yearly Meeting.)

SR Reaction

Dear Kevin:

I was pleased to see the article in the November 2001 SR about the 150th anniversary of the Paint Rock (Ala.) Seventh Day Baptist church.

While my cousin Lillian (Bottoms) Bee is the last surviving charter member of the Paint Rock church, I was privileged—as an 8-year-old— to be present at the founding of the church. The church was originally organized at the Oakdale schoolhouse, three miles northeast of Athens, Ala., and was called the Oakdale SDB Church.

I don’t remember the impetus for the formation of the church, but I do remember that primarily members of the Thomas J. Bottoms family formed it.

While the church was in the Athens area, Rev. Verney A. Wilson was the pastor. He and his wife, Minnie, had four children—a girl and three boys. The parsonage was a home on Ary Bottoms’ farm, and the meetinghouse was a tenant house near Ary’s home.

A foot-powered organ and a pulpit at the front of the room were used for worship. The pews were rough planks set on upended short logs, and the church building was held in the various rooms. It was drafty in the winter!

As the years passed and families moved away during the Depression, it was deemed advisable to move the church to the Paint Rock area. During this time, brothers Ary and Emmett Bottoms entered the pastorate and initially moved to West Virginia, while Mr. and Mrs. Bottoms and Gilbert moved to Battle Creek, Mich. Their parents, T.J. and Talula, died at the end of World War II and are buried near Athens.

James E. Butler was lost in the fighting in North Africa in 1943. His mother donated the government insurance to help build the Paint Rock church. It had a humble beginning but is a living memorial to Almira Butler and her son, Jim Ed.

Hansen.—Mildred Erml (Palmquist) Hansen, 89, of Jane Lew, W.Va., died on December 2, 2001, at the United Hospital Center in Clarksburg, W.Va., following a brief illness. She was born in Los Angeles, Calif., on July 5, 1912, the daughter of Arthur and Lillian (Larson) Palmquist. On October 19, 1935, she married the Rev. Dr. Clifford W.P. Hansen. He died on February 22, 1997.

Mrs. Hansen was a nurse and homemaker, and a member of the Salem, W.Va., Seventh Day Baptist Church.

Survivors include one daughter, Esther Mildred Bond of Jane Lew; and four grandchildren, one granddaughter, and six great-grandchildren. In addition to her husband, she was preceded in death by one son, Charles, in September of 2001; her stepmother, Esther B. Palmquist; and one sister, Evelyn Erickson.

Hansen.—Dolores M. Maxson, 76, of Beatrice, Neb., formerly of North Loup, Neb., died on December 31, 2001, at her home.

She was born on June 19, 1925, in Iola, Wis., the daughter of Harry and Effie (Jacobson) Swenson. She grew up in Iola and Waupaca, Wis., graduating from the Waupaca high school.

On December 15, 1945, Dolores married Lyle E. Vore in Wa kegon, Ill., and they lived in many places. In 1966, she moved to North Loup after her husband’s death. On June 1, 1973, Dolores married Herman Maxson in Beatrice.

Dolores worked for NE Community Action in Loup City and was chairman of the board. She served as mayor of North Loup, and was on the North Loup Village Board. She was a member of American Legion Auxiliary Post 285 for more than 45 years. She was also a member of the North Loup Seventh Day Baptist Church. Dolores lived in North Loup until moving to Beatrice in August of 1999.

Survivors include one son, Keith, of Burwell, Neb.; three daughters, Lynette Lundstedt of Beatrice, Lee Cording of Hebron, Neb., and Sue Ellen Yanez of Tulsa, Okla.; two brothers, Delmont Tysdal of Waupaca and Royal Swenson of King, Wis.; one sister, Inez Naasan of Iola; 13 grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her two husbands and one brother, Donald Swenson.

Funeral services were held on January 6, 2002, at the North Loup SDB Church, with Mike Chase officiating. Burial was in Hillside Cemetery, North Loup.

County, where he stayed at Uncle Bill Burdick's home. On Sabbath, September 26, he went to church at Hopkinton, shared in the Lord's Supper, and then went home with cousin Samuel Crandall. He spent most of the next week visiting other friends and enjoying the beach, fishing, gathering mussels and oysters, and enjoying the surf crashing on the rocks.

Green wrote in his diary that on "Oct. 1st—The General Conference commenced at the meeting house in Hopkinton. Eld. J. Watson preaching the introductory discourse from Psa. 122. The congregation was large and attentive. After service, Conference opened by Eld. Henry Burdick." Green did not describe much of the workings of Conference other than the fact that he attended the Missionary Society meeting (of which he was a member). Most of his other notations dealt with continued visiting with friends and relatives, going to the shore, and staying overnight in different homes.

"Sabbath, Oct 10th—Went to meeting and heard Eld. Bailey preach from Matt. 16:26. After meeting went home with Uncle Billins Burdick." On October 11 he started the trip home to Alfred, stopping at Berlin, Stephentown and Petersburgh. On November 6, he arrived at Brookfield for the Sabbath. "Nov. 7th—The weather was very stormy; no meeting; went toward night and visited a sick person." The next day be visited two or three old neighbors and went to the first-day Baptist meeting. "Heard a very good discourse. Then went to Jonathan Sweet's and stayed the night."

The rest of the return trip presents a slightly different list of settlements and mileage traveled each day, arriving home November 13. "Through the tender mercy of our all-gracious God, we arrived at Alfred in tolerable health and safety, about nine o'clock in the evening. Traveled in all not far from 1,000 miles.

"When I take a review of this long journey, and consider how many accidents might have befallen us, it should fill me with praise and thanksgiving to God. May I daily devote myself to Him from whom I receive so many mercies." -SR

Background of the Yearly Meeting

(Prepared for the 1974 Yearly Meeting by then-Historian Albert N. Rogers)

In 1745 the Piscataway, N.J., church sent Jonathan Dunham to the Yearly Meeting at French Creek, Pa., for ordination. Its first pastor, Edmund Dunham, had been ordained at the Yearly Meeting at Hopkinton, R.I., in 1705.

Yearly Meeting on an annual basis in New Jersey was begun by the Piscataway and Shiloh churches in 1732. Plainfield and Marlboro joined in 1852, then New York City in 1875, and Berlin (N.Y.) 1910. (Marlboro organized in 1811, Plainfield in 1838, Schenectady in 1834, and Berlin in 1780.) The invitation to Yearly Meeting in 1800 was said to include "every Seventh Day Baptist from the Catskills to Cape May."

General Conference was organized in 1801-02 on the pattern of the yearly General Meeting and Great Communion established at Hopkinton. It was urgent that Conference should not interfere with attendance at the stated Yearly Meetings in Rhode Island and New Jersey. By 1834 Conference had sent out one hundred missionaries, published a hymn book, corresponded with our British churches, sponsored a weekly paper (The Protestant Sentinel), and adopted a statement of faith. Now it called for the forming of Associations and Conference to stand fast in the faith and work vigorously for its promotion.

In 1910 Theodore L. Gardner wrote, "Long before railroads were known, the farmers of East Jersey and West Jersey with their families drove the distance of nearly one hundred miles to enjoy Yearly Meeting. It was to them like the annual festival of Israel in days of old. Conditions have changed since the days of John and Jonathan Davis, William B. Masson, and Walter B. Gillette; and these meetings are not made quite so much of since the Associations and Conference have come to call the people together in denominational work."

A bowl of hot soup

I don't know if it was the weather (finally getting some snow in Wisconsin), or if it was the fresh, warm homemade bread (thanks to my new breadmaker), or maybe it was because—to some

Here's the recipe for Friendship Soup:

(Yields 8 servings)

1/4 Cup dry split peas
2 cubes beef bouillon
2 Tbsp. pearl barley
1/4 Cup dry lentils
2 Tbsp. dried minced onions
1 Tbsp. Italian seasoning
1/4 Cup uncooked rice
1/4 Cup shell macaroni

Additional ingredients:
1 lb. ground beef
1-1/2 Quarts water
1 Can (28 oz.) diced tomatoes, undrained

To Prepare Soup:
Carefully remove macaroni from jar and set aside.
In a large saucepan or Dutch oven, brown beef; drain. Add the water, tomatoes, and soup mix; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 45 minutes. Add the reserved macaroni, cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes, or till the macaroni, peas, lentils, and barley are tender.
Serve and enjoy!

We did and we did! What a great idea that leaves a lasting impression. If we were new to the area and looking for a church home, we'd certainly give Janesville Wesleyan a second thought for their thoughtfulness to us.
I know that Jesus talked of rewards associated with a "cup of cold water in my name" (Mark 9:41), but in wintry Wisconsin, a "bowl of hot soup" goes a long way, too.
