The Sabbath Recorder, June 16, 1870.

The Eastern Association

The Southern Association

The report of the Committee on Reforms was presented and read. The report is as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee receive the thanks of the Board for their report and the advice of the Board to the several associations of the Southern and Eastern Religious Societies to give more attention to the work of the Committee and to adopt the reforms recommended.

J. B. Dunn, President.

The report of the Committee on Reforms was presented and read. The report is as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee receive the thanks of the Board for their report and the advice of the Board to the several associations of the Southern and Eastern Religious Societies to give more attention to the work of the Committee and to adopt the reforms recommended.

J. B. Dunn, President.
DEATH OF CHARLOTTE HENRY.

Charlotte Henry, the young lady recently deceased at New York, was a native of Massachusetts, and was the daughter of the late Rev. Mr. Henry, a clergyman of the Universalist denomination. She was a member of the South Union Church in Southie, Mass., and had joined that body soon after her arrival in this city.

DEATH OF DR. J. H. HANNAH.

Dr. John H. Hannah, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.

DEATH OF DR. W. H. DAVIS.

Dr. William H. Davis, one of the most prominent physicians of this city, died in his eighty-eighth year. He was a member of the New York Medical Society, and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Medical Society, and was for many years one of its officers.