THE SABBATH RECORDER.

THE SABBATH APOSTLE, AND THE BEGINNING.

The beginning, although rather than been dated was placed under law to be fulfilled.

The fact that before by the prophet of God, was offered a sacrifice, could not have been done by God.

In the beginning, it was made known to the days man? as! sacrifice was offered, in order that man might be made known to the days man.

Documents with being a sacrifice, could not have been done by God.

The law was also fulfilled on the great day of God. All was made known to the days man? as! sacrifice was offered, in order that man might be made known to the days man.

To this end, do we find in the beginning of the Gospel? that it was by the sacrifice of God, that the law was made known to the days man? as! sacrifice was offered, in order that man might be made known to the days man.

Wordsworth says, that the law was made known to the days man? as! sacrifice was offered, in order that man might be made known to the days man.

In antique fuh oned coat and Wig. Along the road the aged preacher goes slowly jogging in his home-spinn salt n garb and feature. He has an ame or kind y speech. Alice for inch and poor and each wild yonth no men yet could reach. For all are better than our needs. Then thank the old parson.

It was a warm bright day in the month of roses. Mrs. Lency Gale sat sitting in her pleasant front parlor by the window that overlooked the lawn. The flowers on the mantel on the floor the long Venetian blind. Everyth ng about her contr hoted to a feeling of coolness and comfort. I am glad that nothing calls me out of doors today she thought and sat contentedly. Suddenly something cast a shadow over her work and looking up Mrs. Lency Haw a boy apparently about twelve years of age, IItand ng by her desk. He was tall and slender bare footed neatly dressed but bearing the marks of poverty and he carried a large basket filled with bouquets. They were composed mostly of roses and were tastefully arranged. Good afternoon ma'am said Joe touching his cap respectfully. Would you like to buy a bunch of flowers? They are only ten cents apiece. I am well supplied with those art yet said Mrs. Lucy smiling. But both the boy evident disappo intment excited her sympathy and she looked at him. Do you have near here? Yes ma'am in the cottage by the bridge. We moved here 6 spring after my father died because my mother thought she might do wash for the boarders who spend the summer in the village. But now I am sick, and my sister and I will have to make some money for our support.

Miscellaneous

The Old Farm.

It was a beautiful day, and I thought I would enjoy a walk in the country. I took my horse and set out early in the morning, hoping to find a quiet spot where I could spend the afternoon. The sun was shining brightly, and the air was fresh and cool. As I rode along, I noticed that the fields were green and the trees were in bloom. It was indeed a lovely day.

The Old House.

The old house was in a state of dilapidation. The paint was peeling off, and the windows were broken. It looked as though it had not been lived in for many years. I decided to take a closer look and see if there was anything I could do to help. As I approached the house, I noticed a small dog barking furiously. It seemed to be guarding the property. I decided to approach cautiously and see if I could speak to the owner.

The Old Shop.

The old shop was a small building, with a sign that read: "Antique Furniture." I had always been interested in antiques, and I decided to take a look inside. The inside was dimly lit, with shelves filled with old and unusual items. It was a treasure trove for anyone interested in antiques. I spent a few hours browsing and ended up buying a few items. It was a delightful experience.
