The Sabbath Recorder

Published by the American Sabbath-keeping Society. The Seventh Day is the Sabbath of the Lord Thy God.

Volume XXXIV.—No. 39.

Alfred Centre, N. Y., Fifth-Day, August 6, 1878.

Whole No. 1740.

---

Lesson Selection

It is necessary to remember the lessons of the day, as they are to influence our conduct and character.

Lesson 1:

What a brave man! added to the student. *What would you think of the man who, when he had taken a pledge to do something, went back on his word, and then tried to justify himself by saying, I know I said it, but I didn't mean it, or I didn't mean it then, but I meant it now.

---

Observations of the Times

The present times are characterized by the rapidity of change, the diversity of opinion, and the complexity of social conditions. It is necessary to be constantly on the alert and ready to meet every new situation as it arises.

---

Articles and Features

- New Literature Required: Consider the importance of a well-informed and educated society. Literature plays a vital role in shaping our thoughts and actions. It is essential to promote the reading of books that promote knowledge and understanding.
- Religious Liberty: The struggle for religious freedom is a long and continuous one. It is important to remain steadfast in our convictions and to uphold the principles of liberty and justice for all.
- Politics and the Churches: It is crucial for churches to be involved in politics, as they are a reflection of the social and cultural fabric of society. However, it is equally important to maintain a separation of church and state to ensure the freedom of all.
- Religious Emigration: The movement of people from one country to another is a complex issue. It is important to consider the impact of religious emigration on the source and destination countries, as well as on the individuals involved.
- The Sabbath: The Sabbath is a day of rest and worship. It is important to observe the Sabbath as a day of spiritual renewal and to cultivate a sense of reverence and respect for this sacred time.
In the month of September, 1875, the Sabbath Recorder was at Washington, D.C., and we had the opportunity of discussing the difficulties encountered in the work of this publication. We found that the Recorder had been in existence for many years, and that it was well known throughout the country. The Recorder had been printed in many different cities, and had a large circulation. The Recorder was published weekly, and contained a large variety of articles, including sermons, essays, and news items. The Recorder was edited by a group of men, who were all devoted to the cause of Christian missionary work. The Recorder was well supported by the subscribers, and was able to continue its publication. The Recorder was printed on good quality paper, and was well bound. The Recorder was an important publication, and was widely read. It was a valuable source of information for the readers, and was an important part of the religious and intellectual life of the country.